Flu booster shots urged for young adults

by KURT BAER

Persons 18 to 24 years old who received a swine flu vaccination are being urged to get a second "booster" shot to guarantee immunity, The Herald has learned.

Dr. Colette Rasmussen, chief of preventive medicine for the Cook County Public Health Dept., confirmed Wednesday that plans are being made for special clinics.

Registration forms, signed by persons inoculated during Cook County's vaccination program four weeks ago, stated that persons under age 25 may be required to get a second dosage.

PUBLIC HEALTH officials have been considering asking persons 18 to 24 years old to get another shot.

Only recently, however, did they conclude the second shot was needed for young adults, Rasmussen said.

"There is some protection from the first shot. But to get full immunity the second shot is being recommended," she said.

Federal officials have said 18-to 24-year-olds need a booster one month after their first dosage because they have never been exposed to a relative of the swine flu, such as the Asian flu of 1957.

A spokesman at the U.S. Center for Disease Control in Atlanta said the young adults were either preschoolers or had not been born during the 1975 Asian flu outbreak and have not built up antibodies.

LOCALLY, EXACT times and locations for the second shots have not been determined by county health officials, but a representative said booster shots probably won't be available until January.

The booster clinics will not be on so big a scale as the mass community clinics, Rasmussen said. "There weren't that many people in the age group who got the first shot and, of course, not all of them will show up a second time."

Double shots also are being given to high-risk children 3 to 17 years old.

In Illinois, only nine of the state's 102 counties, including Cook, have completed public swine flu immunization and only another 16 counties have begun the process.

Dr. Joyce Lashof, Illinois Public Health Director, said Wednesday that the program was "moving through the state as rapidly as vaccine supplies will permit.

"UNUSED VACCINE from regions completing clinics is being utilized to permit remaining areas of the state to begin operations earlier than scheduled," she said.

Mrs. Lashof said 50 state counties have completed immunization of high-risk persons and that others are in the process of completing that phase of the program.

The Illinois program will not be changed because of the confirmation of a case of swine flu in Missouri last week, Mrs. Lashof said.

The state's plan was designed with the possibility that some cases of the disease might be positively identified, she said.

No more N,S,Vs as Dist. 21 uses A,B,Cs to grade

by DIANE GRANAT

When students in Wheeling Township Dist. 21 brought home their report cards last month some parents thought they were reliving their own school experiences.

The appearance of traditional letter grades — A, B, C, D and E — led some parents to believe that Dist. 21 was using percentage grading and bell curves, which were commonly used to determine letter grades when they went to school.

But the new reporting system for Dist. 21's primary grades still emphasizes individual performance while also telling parents how well their child does compared with others at his grade level.

THE DIFFERENCE is in the letters. Instead of the three-point system used last year, a citizens committee on report cards recommended that the district this year use a four-or five-point grading scale. With the new cards, last year's N, S and V were replaced by A, B, C, D and E.

All the grade explanations still say the grade represents achievement "for this child," said Marjorie Beu, assistant superintendent for instruction.

A child receives an A for work that is "excellent for this child," a B means "very good for this child," C is satisfactory, D is slow progress and E is "no progress for this child." Last year's grades were N (needs improvement for this child), S (satisfactory for this child) and V (very good for this child).

In math and reading students also are evaluated to see whether they are working at AL (advanced grade level), GL (at grade level) or BL (below grade level).

THE NEW REPORT cards are based on suggestions from advisory councils made up of parents, teachers and students, Miss Beu said. But many parents still are unhappy with the new system, she said.

"I don't think we'll ever come up with a report card everybody's happy with," Miss Beu said. She said committees on report card changes have met for the past five years, and the cards have been changed for the past three years.

Miss Beu said the card, which is supplemented by parent-teacher conferences, is intended to communicate to parents the level of achievement of a child relative to other students in his grade and the grade the child has earned compared with his previous performance and ability.

Besides those parents who misunderstood the A-B-C system some parents would prefer to see their children measured mainly against others, rather than themselves, Miss Beu said.

She said some primary teachers also disagree with the new grading system. Some teachers believe students face competition too soon, while others believe that by not comparing students the district is only postponing the competition the children will face eventually, Miss Beu said.

The A-B-C system was used in grades four through eight in past years, Miss Beu said. The change was made in grades one through three to provide a uniform code.

Silas Jayne to testify on suit today

Millionaire horseman Silas Jayne, who is serving a 6- to 20-year prison sentence for the 1970 conspiracy killing of his brother George, is scheduled to appear today in a hearing on a multimillion dollar lawsuit brought against him by his brother's widow.

Jayne, 68, is to be brought today from the Vienna Correctional Center near Vienna, Ill., under a court order. The order calls for his appearance in Cook County Circuit Court, Vienna Warden Vernon Housewright said.

The court action concerns a multimillion dollar damage suit filed in 1972 by Marion Jayne, George's widow, against her brother-in-law; Joseph La Placa, 55, and Julius Barnes, 42, who took part in the murder plot.

GEORGE JAYNE WAS shot and killed in the basement of his Inverness home as he played cards. His brother and La Placa were convicted in 1973 of plotting the murder and hiring Barnes as the gunman.

La Placa also is serving a 6- to 20-year prison term in Vienna. Barnes is serving a 25-to 35-year sentence at another institution.

Housewright said the court order asks only that Silas Jayne, not La Placa, be brought to testify. He said two prision officers will accompany Jayne to the Civic Center in Chicago.

The hearing is expected to be held before Circuit Court Judge Walter J. Kowalski, who ordered Jayne's transfer Sept. 13 in a preliminary hearing.

JUDGE KOWALSKI was unavailable for comment Wednesday.

The Jayne case drew prominent attention from the time of the 1970 murder to the trial more than two years later when Boston attorney F. Lee Bailey headed the team of lawyers attempting to win Silas Jayne's acquittal.

Meets with economic advisers

Economy in worse shape now: Carter

by DON PHILLIPS

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — President-elect Jimmy Carter met with 17 economic advisers Wednesday and his chief spokesman said he now feels the economy is in even worse shape than he claimed during the election campaign.

Carter, working indirectly to roll back steel price increases and prevent another round of inflation, apparently got some pessimistic assessments on the economic outlook during a closed meeting with his brain trust of advisers — including some top prospects for cabinet-level appointments.

"He said the statements he made about the economy during the campaign unfortunately seem to be correct," press secretary Jody Powell said. "What had seemed to be bad now seems worse."

POWELL SAID HE could not elaborate on what specifically had prompted Carter's reassessment.

But when asked if things were so bad that Carter saw a recession coming, he said, "I think that would be an overstatement."

Powell also said he assumes Carter agrees with Vice President-elect Walter Mondale's demand for a rollback in the 6 per cent steel price increases announced recently, and his accusation that steel companies are taking advantage of the change in government to ram the increase through.

Carter spokesmen indicated Tuesday the president-elect has been making indirect efforts to oppose the steel price increases even though he has not yet decided whether to accept the offer of industry leaders to confer on the matter.

POWELL SAID CARTER would discuss Wednesday's economic parley when he holds a news conference Friday. Carter was not available for comment on Wednesday.

One surprise guest added to the original 16 persons invited to the meeting was former Undersecretary of Defense Cyrus Vance, who arrived unannounced Tuesday and held several discussions with Carter.

Asked whether Vance was in line for a cabinet post, Powell said, "I think you are probably in as good a position as I am on that."

But asked whether Vance might get a cabinet job in the economic area, Powell said, "I don't think so."

POWELL SAID THE meeting was a general overview of the economy, touching on many domestic and foreign economic subjects including the budget, monetary policy, possible world oil price increases, the steel price increases, inflation and such world economic problems as the situations in Britain and Italy.

Aides have said Carter probably will choose top cabinet-level economic officials of his administration from among the 16 scheduled guests.

They included Atlanta banker Thomas Bertram Lance, whom Carter already has indicated he will name to a top administration post.

Others were W. Michael Blumenthal, a former assistant secretary of state and now chairman of the Bendix Corp.; Andrew F. Brimmer, a visiting professor at the Harvard graduate business school; Alden W. Clausen, chairman of the Bank of America; Richard N. Cooper, a Yale professor and specialist in international economics, and former Labor Sec. John T. Dunlop.

Also Walter W. Heller, a University of Minnesota professor; Juanita M. Kreps, vice president and professor of economics at Duke University; Laurence E. Lynn, a Harvard professor and former high official in the departments of defense, Interior and HEW; Arthur M. Okun of the Brookings Institution and Joseph A. Pechman, director of economic studies at Brookings.

The others are Alice M. Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office; Robert V. Roosa, a Wall Street investment analyst; Charles L. Schultze, budget director under President Lyndon Johnson and a senior Brookings fellow, and DuPont chairman Irving S. Shapiro.

Pickup truck rams White House gates; driver seized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A man wearing a necklace of animal teeth rammed a pickup truck into the front gates of the White House Wednesday, and he shouted that he wanted "to wake up" President Ford "before he kills us all."

Steven B. Williams, 38, of Santa Fe, N.M., was charged with destruction of government property, Secret Service agents said.

Williams, emerging from an interrogation by authorities, was asked by reporters why he did it.

"TO WAKE UP the man," he replied, apparently referring to Ford. "Trying to wake him up before he kills us all."

He received minor injuries in the crash and was taken to D.C. Hospital for treatment. His 1965 pickup was heavily damaged and towed away, after bomb experts made certain it contained no explosives.

There were no other injuries. The president was working in the West Wing of the White House, several hundred feet from where the crash occurred.

The pickup hit the 10-foot-high gate along Pennsylvania Avenue at noon, Chicago time, but did not get onto the White House grounds because of a newly installed, electronically controlled steel barrier.

WILLIAMS, WHO appeared calm after the crash, was questioned about 1½ hours by the Secret Service.

A Secret Service spokesman said they would not comment on what Williams said during the interview "until after the investigation is complete." It was not known what the suspect does for a living.

The iron gate recently was reinforced by a 12-inch wide steel beam that is electronically raised and lowered. Last year, a man managed to ram through the gates and made it to the steps of the White House.

He had a bomb strapped to him but eventually was talked into surrendering.

Earlier this year, a guard shot and killed an intruder who had scaled the fence around the grounds and ran toward the White House. That man, a Washington taxi driver, had been charging with a pipe in his hand.

A BLACK pickup truck rests against Northwest Gate of White House after attempt to gain entrance to grounds failed. Driver Steven Williams sustained minor injuries.

Patrolman shot; suspect sought

A Hoffman Estates patrolman was the victim of an ambush Wednesday night which left him with a minor bullet wound in the leg, police reported. Paul Richardson, 26, was reportedly checking out his squad car equipment when a car pulled up next to him and one of the occupants yelled "Hey!" As Richardson turned, one of the assailants shot him in the left rear calf with an undetermined caliber bullet. Richardson reportedly fell to the pavement while the assailants drove away, but he managed to get in the squad car and pursue them up to the intersection of Golf and Barrington roads. Richardson was taken to Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights where he was treated and released. The incident took place near the Country Knoll apartment complex, just south of Golf Road. Police said they have no suspects or motives so far in the case.

Kickback figure to be arraigned

Alvin Baron, a former Schaumburg resident charged with taking a $200,000 kickback while heading the Teamsters Union pension fund to ensure a $1.3 million loan from the fund to a private California business, will be arraigned Dec. 8 in U.S. District Court. Baron, 51, who was indicted Tuesday by a federal grand jury, is expected to surrender to authorities here just before the arraignment proceedings before U.S. District Court Judge Hubert Will. Baron, formerly of 1931 Prairie Square and currently of Las Vegas, served from 1973 to 1975 as asset manager of the Teamsters' Central States Southeast and Southwest Areas Pension Fund based in Chicago.

Scariano takes laurels in cleanup stakes

by STEVE BROWN

When Gov. Daniel Walker asked Anthony Scariano to head the Illinois Racing Board, the outspoken attorney from Park Forest thought he was getting a part-time job that would last one year.

Four years later, Chairman Scariano is into the home stretch of a job that has helped the racing industry recover from the Otto Kerner scandal. And the man who had never been to a race track believes racing has been cleaned up in Illinois.

"We're not claiming racing is as pure as the driven snow," he said during an interview with The Herald.

Scariano said he tries to shun the suggestion his efforts cleaned up the industry. He praises other members of the racing board and the 200-member staff which handles everything from office work to urine tests at race tracks throughout Illinois.

"I THINK IT is a good time to leave, I don't see any unfinished products," he said.

The improvements have not come easily. Scariano and the other members of the board have been tough on racing associations and have demanded improvement of facilities for both horsemen and patrons. Scariano's impression of race track operators suggests he is not overly impressed.

"I think they're the worst businessmen in the world. We give them a monopoly and we see some of the most wasteful, bone-headed decisions," he said.

The former state representative who authorized the state's open meetings law sits upright in his seat when he starts to list the suggestions made to track operators to improve their operations.

"Patron comfort, they don't try to improve.

"Maybe they should give away some passes to senior citizens. I've never seen a person come to the track and not bet a little," he said.

Anthony Scariano

WHEN THE conversation comes to Arlington Park, the local plant which has obtained the prime racing dates in recent years, Scariano offers mixed reviews.

"They got the preferred dates because they had the numbers to show they were the best place to hold warm weather thoroughbred racing."

State officials have criticized the track for race course and backstretch facilities in recent years, but Scariano tempers his criticism with the remark that Arlington Park officials have been responsive to some racing board suggestions.

"We have been critical. Over-all we have been rather pleased with the way they operate," he added.

While Scariano talks of leaving the racing board with a mock sense of eagerness, he is pushing for a broad investigation into the emerging messenger betting services.

He also continues to oppose other forms of legalized gambling and takes a dim view of gimmick pari-mutuel betting, which offer the chance for large payoffs on small wagers.

"PEOPLE ARE tempted when you can bet $2 or $3 and win $20,000," he said, adding he does not believe the gimmicks should be banned unless it is proved abuses are great.

Scariano points to steady gains in attendance and betting as signs that racing has improved. He also cites legislative efforts to clean up the industry's tarnished image in Illinois.

The prohibition against racing associations making political contributions is a prime achievement he counts in the bid to improve the industry.

"We have eliminated politics. There is no more pressure on people for jobs or stalls. There is no patronage on the racing board," Scariano said.

But even those changes have not eliminated problems in the Illinois General Assembly. Scariano contends the racing associations exert a large degree of influence on new laws that affect the industry.

HE CITED THE legislature's decision to cut the appropriation for race track security last spring as an example of the influential power. The security program costs the state nothing because the cost is charged back to the tracks.

The statistics tend to point to more interest in racing in Illinois. Both attendance and betting figures continue to grow. The racing board estimates the take for 1976 will reach $900 million for the year.

While the industry has improved, there apparently is room for work. Scariano said the racing board has asked U.S. Atty. Samuel Skinner to check into allegations that pari-mutuel clerks are making payoffs to union officials to obtain and keep their jobs.

"There is a grand jury looking into that one," he said.

Scariano said he does not worry about the incoming Republican administration in the state.

"I think (Governor-elect James R.) Thompson's past record and knowledge of the racing industry gained through the Kerner investigation should mean a continuation of up and up racing in this state," he said.

Scariano said if horsemen have not got the message that racing in Illinois has improved then "they must not be able to perceive anything."

Mail bomb for Carter discovered

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four incendiary devices — one of them addressed to President-elect Jimmy Carter — were discovered in the mails in New York City Wednesday. One exploded and the others smoldered, but no one was seriously hurt, police said.

The only device to go off ignited about 9:40 a.m. in the bag of a mailman as he was opening a mailbox near Grand Central Station in midtown Manhattan, police said.

Police said the device, in a 9-by-12 manila envelope, was addressed to the U.S. Justice Dept.

The unidentified letter carrier was taken to the nurse's station at the nearby Grand Central Post Office for first aid treatment.

A smoldering incendiary device was found at about 11:30 a.m. in a package addressed to the CIA and placed in a mailbox at 43rd Street and Fifth Avenue, police said.

At about noon, a smoldering device addressed to Carter was discovered in a lobby mailbox at 1359 Broadway, according to police.

About 5:45 p.m. a fourth incendiary device was found smoldering in a mail bin inside the General Post Office at 33rd Street and Eighth Avenue, police said. The device was contained in a 6-by-9 manila envelope addressed to the FBI.

The devices were taken to police laboratories.

There was no indication who sent the packages.

SCOTT AND JENNIFER Lilley of Schaumburg deposit letters to Santa Claus in the Schaumburg Park District's Santa mailbox, 220 E. Weathersfield Way. The box is one of many already set up or planned in the area. Volunteers will answer letters.

Santa Claus mailboxes go up here soon

Thousands of area youngsters will receive letters and telephone calls from Santa Claus this month thanks to the efforts of area Jaycees, Chambers of Commerce and post office volunteers.

Santa mailboxes already are up in Buffalo Grove, Rolling Meadows and Schaumburg, and others are planned in Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

Volunteer Santas will call children in Arlington Heights, and Elk Grove Village youngsters will be able to phone in their gift requests.

Plans have been made for communication with Santa in these communities:

• Arlington Heights — The Jaycees will telephone kindergarten, first- and second-grade students in Arlington Heights Dist. 25, whose parents fill out and return a form distributed at school. The calls will be made from 7 to 9 p.m. Dec. 13, 14 and 15 to about 1,500 children. Beginning this weekend there also will be a Santa mailbox at the Arlington Heights Post Office, 909 W. Euclid Ave. All letters will be answered by postal employes.

• Buffalo Grove — A Santa mailbox has been erected in the holiday shop of the Toadstool gift store, Dundee and Arlington Heights roads.

• Des Plaines — Chamber of Commerce volunteers will put up a Santa mailbox next week between the First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. and the First National Bank of Des Plaines on Lee Street.

• Elk Grove Village — Jaycees will set up phones children can call to talk to Santa. The telephone numbers have not been determined.

• Mount Prospect — A mailbox will be set up Saturday in front of the public safety building, 112 E. Northwest Hwy. The letters will be answered by local Jaycees.

• Palatine — A Santa mailbox will be put up Saturday at Brockway and Slade streets. Jaycees will answer all letters deposited through Dec. 21.

• Rolling Meadows — Jaycee-ettes are sponsoring a Santa mailbox at the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center, Kirchoff Road and Meadow Lane. Children are requested to enclose their full names and addresses to ensure a reply.

• Schaumburg — The park district has set up a Santa mailbox at the Meineke Community Center, 220 E. Weathersfield Way. Letters will be answered through Dec. 20.

Convict turns down 30-day delay

Gilmore to be shot Monday at sunrise

PROVO, Utah (UPI) — Fourth District Judge J. Robert Bullock Wednesday ordered Gary Gilmore shot at sunrise Monday after the condemned slayer turned down an offer for a 30-day delay in his execution.

Although Gilmore got his way about his date with death, he complained he didn't want to wear a hood over his head and be tied to a chair when he faces the firing squad at Utah State Prison.

Bullock told him he couldn't order changes in the state's traditional method of execution, but would forward the killer's complaints to the prison warden.

THE JUDGE also refused to consider an "unauthorized appeal" filed by one of Gilmore's fired lawyers, clearing the way for antideath penalty groups to take the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"I waive nothing. I waive none of my rights. I have caused no delays," Gilmore replied when Bullock offered to set the execution in 30 days if the slayer waived a state requirement that the death penalty be carried out within 60 days of sentencing.

Prior to his appearance in court, Gilmore held a second talk with a reporter from the Salt Lake Tribune, which obtained a federal court order exempting it from the prison's ban on interviews.

THE CONDEMNED man grumbled about prison conditions in the copyrighted interview — specifically a lack of clean clothes, no radio, limited access to the press and a ban on his phone calls. He said he'll continue his 13-day hunger strike until he's allowed to phone his fiancee at the state mental hospital and also wants to return a call from singer Johnny Cash.

If tradition is followed Monday morning, Gilmore will be tied to a chair, a black hood placed over his head and a red target pinned over his heart. The five-man firing squad will fire a volley at him from 20 to 30 feet away.

Bullock refused to consider an appeal of Gilmore's first degree murder conviction and his death sentence filed by Thomas Jones of Salt Lake City, one of four lawyers he has fired in the past month.

JONES TOLD THE judge he was appointed by the Utah Supreme Court and had never been released as Gilmore's lawyer and thus could file the appeal.

Bullock interrupted him. "I had a call from the Chief Justice. The court has issued an order this afternoon relieving you of the duties."

Gilmore, who was sentenced to die for the slaying last summer of Provo motel clerk Bennie Bushnell, 25, appeared pale and gaunt during his courtroom appearance, but he spoke firmly in his comments to the judge.

James Shelton, 41, and Sidney Carver, 50, both of Chicago, were each charged with two counts of armed robberty of the hostages, two counts of armed robbery of customers in a nearby currency exchange, and one count of burglary.

They also were charged with attempted murder and aggravated battery.

The alleged gunmen, surprised by police during a robbery attempt at the currency exchange, took two exchange employes hostage and fled next door into a second-floor apartment building. The resident of the apartment hid in a bedroom closet the entire time the gunmen were there.

BOND WAS SET at $300,000 each for Shelton and Carver.

Shelton was being treated at Cermak Memorial Hospital for a gunshot wound to the left shoulder. Carver was listed in fair condition at Cook County Hospital. He was shot in the left buttocks.

The FBI Wednesday said Carver is also wanted on federal bank robbery charges stemming from a Nov. 19 holdup in St. Anne, Ill., in which $76,705 was stolen.

Earlier Wednesday, Chicago Police Supt. James M. Rochford praised two newsmen who talked Shelton and Carver into surrendering.

Newsmen Russ Ewing of WMAQ-TV and Gus Savage, publisher of a community newspaper, were called to the scene after Shelton and Carver asked to negotiate through them.

Illinois briefs

Death penalty bill ready for passage

The Illinois House Wednesday moved to passage stage a bill to reinstate the death penalty in Illinois. But first, it rejected an amendment that would have forced legislators voting for capital punishment to witness executions.

Rep. Anne Willer, D-Hillside, said her amendment to have lawmakers whose names are drawn by lot watch people put to death was not "facetious. In the name of the people we will pass it into law, and in the name of the people we will watch it."

The bill before the House is H3204, sponsored chiefly by Rep. Roman Kosinski, D-Chicago. The measure would make death mandatory if a jury decides someone was killed under circumstances detailed in the bill.

Legislature votes budget hikes

The Illinois Senate voted Wednesday to restore about $8.2 million for salary increases at community colleges while the House approved restoration of about $11 million to the mental health budget. The Senate also approved and sent to the House a measure which sets up an annual state program for local bridge repairs and mandates $15 million for that purpose.

The bridge measure, which would take effect July 1, 1977 if the House also overrides Walker's veto, would draw the money from various state funds for apportionment by the Department of Transportation to counties. Those counties would then distribute the money to townships and road districts which levy taxes for roads and bridges at the maximum rates. The bill is designed to aid rural bridges which presently are dangerous or incapable of carrying school buses and farm and mail trucks.

The House's action restores $10.8 million in mental health money that Walker cut from H3377. Mental health department officials have said they will spend no more than $5.8 million of the total restoration. If the Senate also approves the override, the money would be used for payments to local health agencies. The House did refuse to restore $950,000 Walker chopped from the measure which would have gone for pilot mental health projects.

Police investigating woman's murder

Chicago Police Supt. James Rochford Wednesday said he has some "feelings and suspicions" in the stabbing death of Delores Silvestri and indicated the case is still under investigation. Mrs. Silvestri, 47, of Niles, was stabbed to death Tuesday while visiting the 77 E. Washington building, where she had seen her doctor. Michael Underwood, alias Michael Balls, 21, was charged with murder after police found him washing blood from his hands in a men's room in the building.

Investigators said Underwood claimed Mrs. Silvestri's husband, Al, hired him to do the killing. Silvestri, who owns a tavern near Underwood's house, has denied the allegation, and contends Underwood was shaking him down for "protection" money. Underwood was being held under $400,000 bond.

Arrested man kills self

A man arrested for speeding Wednesday grabbed a patrolman's gun inside the Winthrop Harbor police station and shot himself to death, authorities said. The dead man was identified as Dirk Strezo, 22, of Waukegan. Police said Strezo was arrested about 3 a.m. for speeding and for operating a vehicle without a valid license.

Taken to the police station, Strezo tore the gun and holster off officer William Taft and held him and dispatcher Bradley Williams at gun point for about 10 minutes. He then shot himself in the head, police said. Strezo was taken to American International Hospital in Zion for treatment and was pronounced dead en route to Victory Memorial Hospital in Waukegan.

School board may be liable

The Illinois Appellate Court ruled Wednesday a school board may be held liable for emotional and psychological damages to a student, even if the student is not harmed physically. The ruling came in a suit by a former elementary school student who claimed the Chicago Board of Education was liable for an emotional breakdown he suffered. The breakdown later led to his hospitalization.

The suit was filed on behalf of Kerry Pierce, 16, who attended the Frank W. Reilly School in Chicago from 1971 to 1974. His parents maintain in the suit they and three private psychologists told school officials the youth suffered a severe learning disability, but the youth was kept in regular classes. A Cook County Circuit Court ruling had maintained the board could not be held responsible for any emotional damages.

More state officials included in pay hike bills

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — The Illinois House Wednesday added dozens of department heads to pending pay increase legislation, increased the boost for associate circuit court judges and chopped the proposed salary increase for the governor from $35,000 to $20,500.

The governor now gets $50,000 a year. He would have received $85,000 annually under the original pay hike series but the new version cuts his salary to $70,500.

"His increase was maybe just a little too much," said Rep. Charles Fleck, R-Chicago, who is sponsoring the bills with Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie.

The secretary of state and attorney general would go from $42,500 to $60,000 under the bills.

The pay raise package, which could pass the House and go to the Senate today, would cost about $7.4 million a year. Before the changes, it would have cost roughly $6.6 million.

Fleck said dozens of department directors and agency heads, plus their top assistants and many commission members, would get 25 per cent wage hikes.

The other change made in the pay bills affects associate circuit judges, originally slated for a $3,000 increase from $37,000 to $40,000. As the bills, now stand, they go from $37,000 to $47,000.

"MONEY TALKS"

Reading this column can be worth $949,000 to you

DONALD F. MORTON
PRES.

As a self-employed person, you may be so busy trying to make money that you are actually throwing it away.

In your work as doctor, lawyer, merchants or whatever, you have probably heard about "Keogh." But the odds are that you have been too absorbed to find out what Keogh is all about. If you'll take a minute to read the rest of this, you may be forever grateful that you did.

A fellow named Keogh, a Congressman from Brooklyn, New York, introduced a bill that became the Keogh Act in 1972. The 1974 Pension Reform Act provided that a self-employed person may set aside each year 15 percent of earned income or $7,500, whichever is less, into his or her own retirement savings account.

The beauty of this program of retirement planning is that the amount you put away each year into your Keogh Account is deducted from your taxable income for that year. Let's suppose you qualify for the maximum $7,500, which means that your net earned income for 1976 will be $50,000 or more. By putting that amount into your Keogh Account with us, you would actually be adding $3,750 or more (depending on your tax bracket) to your real take-home income this year.

But that's not all. The best part of the program could be that the interest earned on this money is not taxed either. This compounded interest in time gets to be substantial. Let's assume, for example, that you are a 35-year-old doctor and start this month with $7,500 in your Keogh Account. If you continue these deposits annually, by age 65 you will have put in $225,000, but with accumulated interest, your nest egg on retirement, based on current maximal certificate interest, will be $948,855!

When you begin to withdraw your money for retirement purposes, it becomes taxable as income in the year used. But retirement years are years of reduced income with special tax advantages granted by the government so that what is taxed will be taxed at a much lower rate.

If you are not self-employed but your employer is not currently providing a qualified retirement plan, you may set aside each year 15 percent of your wages up to $1,500 in a separate retirement fund similar to the Keogh plan. The amount that goes into this Individual Retirement Account is deducted from the gross income reported on your federal income tax return and thus annually puts several hundred extra dollars into your pocket.

If you are presently 35 years of age and continue this program to age 65, you will have deposited $45,000. But with accumulated interest, your retirement fund will then be worth a gratifying $189,774.00.

Now that you have read this far, take the next step and drop in to see us — before the end of the year.

Patients win as patience pays off for Mrs. Bauer

by KURT BAER

In a sense, everything inside Northwest Community Hospital belongs to Sara Bauer. She bought it.

Mrs. Bauer, a precise gray-haired woman with a soft voice, recently was honored as the hospital's first 20-year employe.

She began her career in a storefront office on Northwest Highway more than three years before the hospital first opened its doors to patients. Today she is purchasing director responsible for almost everything at the hospital.

THE ONLY ITEMS Mrs. Bauer does not buy for the hospital are the drugs for its pharmacy and the food for its kitchen.

"The economy, prices the Food and Drug Administration, so many things have entered the purchasing picture. We don't know from day-to-day how things are going to change.

"You can't say, 'Well, we did it this way last year so we'll do it the same way next year.' You have never learned this job. Every day is different," she says.

Decisions on whether to buy disposable or reusable medical supplies, linen, carpting, beds, chairs, and scores of other supplies face her every day.

"Patient safety and comfort above all is behind every decision. That's the only reason we're here. The patient has to be number one," she says.

MRS. BAUER started as a volunteer in raising money and community support for the new hospital project. She stuffed envelopes, licked stamps and collected contributions for three years in a small storefront next to Lattof Motor Sales on Northwest Highway.

"Back then I did the mechanics of the job. Today I take a project right from the inception. I have to know exactly what's going on, from drapes to the paper clips and everything in between," she says.

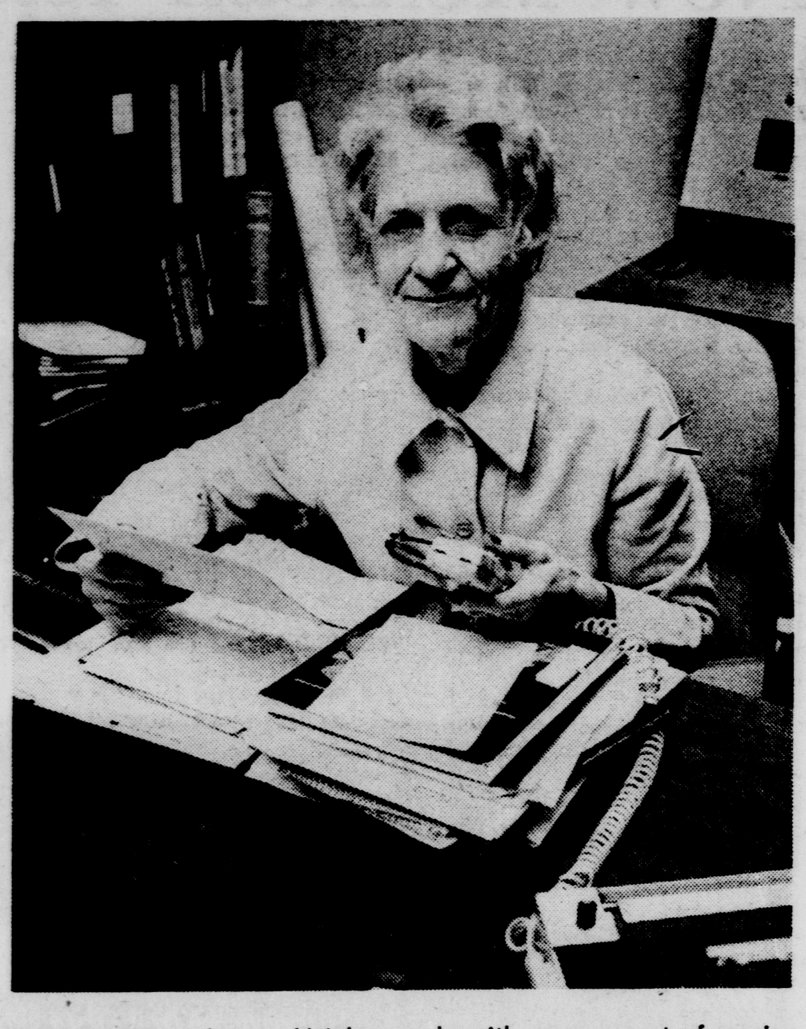
Mrs. Bauer says she remembers bringing her own typewriter, table and carbon paper to the storefront office. Schimming Oil Co., Mount Prospect, donated heating oil for the office and the first checks were kept in Lattof's safe until bank accounts were opened, she says.

"The hosital directors were looking for someone who was active in the community. (I've lived in Arlington Heights 32 years now.) And I was glad to help because you have to contribute something to your community."

MRS. BAUER says she never guessed then that she would be working for the hospital 20 years later.

"I never thought about the end. I always worked a day at a time and every day was a challenge, every day had something new to offer. I think it has to be that way with everything you do," she says.

Today, Mrs. Bauer's outer office is crowded with salesmen. Her desk is a working desk, with order forms and catalogs, memos and business letters stacked on it.



SARA BAUER, Arlington Heights, works with every aspect of running Northwest Community Hospital in her role as purchasing director. Mrs. Bauer recently became the hospital's first 20-year employe.

THE SUN shone briefly in Traverse City, Mich. Wednesday as snow continued to fall in the area. Some places have up to 12 inches. As the sky clears, extreme cold is forecast. Michigan was lucky, however. Communities south of Buffalo, N.Y. received four feet of it Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Freighter sinks— all aboard rescued

A 311-foot freighter loaded with 4,000 tons of aluminum ore sprang a leak and sank in 12,000 feet of water in the Gulf of Mexico Wednesday. All 25 crewmen aboard were rescued. The crewmen abandoned ship one hour before dawn and spent about four hours in life rafts and lifeboats before they were reached by a Greek merchant vessel whch changed course to make the rescue. "We are abandoning," said the final message from the M. V. Melias, a Liberian-registered bulk ore carrier.

Reports from New Orleans said the sinking occurred about 300 miles east of Tampico, Mexico, where the 3,372-ton ship was bound with its 4,000-ton load of bauxite.

Angola admitted to U.N.

Angola was admitted as the 146th member of the United Nations Wednesday by a 116-0 vote of the General Assembly, with the United States abstaining. Although 28 countries were absent, the U.S. abstention — in protest against the continued presence of Cuban troops in the former Portuguese African territory — stood alone. Angolan Foreign Minister Jose Edoardo dos Santos flew from his capital of Luanda to be present for his country's induction.

$2.4 million to retrieve jet

The Navy said Wednesday it spent nearly $1 million more than anticipated to retrieve an F-14 Tomcat jet from the ocean floor after it rolled off the deck of the aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy. The Tomcat, which was carrying a secret Phoenix missile, plunged into the North Atlantic near the coast of Scotland in September. The Navy immediately launched a search for the plane and its secret missile which ended earlier this month. A Navy spokesman said the cost of the search and salvage operation was $2.4 million. The Navy had anticipated the operation would cost $1.7 million.

Cost of junket hit

Most of the 13 members of a congressional delegation now visiting the African nation of Lesotho are taking $75 a day in U.S. government funds despite getting their food and lodging bills paid by the host country, Scripps-Howard News Service reported Wednesday. The news service also said all but two of the members either flew to the southern African nation first class at State Department expense or on "a luxuriously equipped Air Force jetliner with their relatives and aides getting a free ride except for nominal food-and-drink charges."

According to the report, the two others — Reps. Charles Whalen, R-Ohio, and Silvio Conte, R-Mass., — refused both military transportation and the per diem expense money, relying instead on the African-American Institute in New York, which sponsored the conference they are attending. The institute paid $1,743 each for the economy class round trip tickets for Whalen and Conte, the story said. The military jet, it said, will cost the government more than $57,000.

Chowchilla lawyer withdraws

An attorney formally withdrew Wednesday from the defense of one of two brothers charged with the mass Chowchilla school bus kidnaping last July "after reviewing evidence." Atty. Edward Merrill, citing "a conflict of interest," withdrew from the defense of James Schoenfeld, 24, who was captured in a police manhunt a week after his younger brother, Richard, 22, surrendered voluntarily.

Alameda County Superior Court Judge Alan A. Lindsay granted Merrill's move pending appointment of another attorney. Richard Schoenfeld, who appeared with his brother and the third defendant, Frederick Woods, 24, smiled and chatted with Merrill, who continued to represent him, after his brother left the courtroom. The defendants, all sons of wealthy suburban San Francisco families, are accused of abducting 26 children and their bus driver as they drove home from a school outing July 15.

Brussels bandits get $175,000

Four Brussels bandits Wednesday robbed $175,000 in cash intended for unemployment benefits and sprayed submachine gun fire across a crowded city square, killing a 4-year-old boy and wounding five other people. "It looked like a battlefield here," said Albert Faust, an official of the General Federation of Belgian Workers, the labor union that was disturbing the cash to jobless workers. Police lost the gunmen's getaway car in downtown traffic. town traffic.

Sources said police picked up three suspects in a taxi in the Cambre forest on the outskirts of Brussels, but late Wednesday there was no confirmation they were involved in the holdup.

Gunfire wounds Syrian chief

Syrian Foreign Minister and Deputy Premier Abdel Halim Khaddam was shot and slightly wounded by unknown gunmen outside Damascus Wednesday, the official Syrian News Agency (SANA) said. Khaddam was treated for a minor arm wound, the agency said, adding, "The minister is now in good health." Syrian security agents began an immediate investigation "and the culprits are being chased and will not escape without punishment," the agency said. It did not specify the exact location of the shooting incident.

New Mexican leader takes office

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Jose Lopez Portillo became Mexico's 60th president Wednesday in an inaugural ceremony held under armed guard. He told an audience which included America's future First Lady, Mrs. Rosalynn Carter, that it was up to Mexicans to make their country "a hell or a land where life is good."

The new president pledged his administration to economic austerity "not as a passing fad . . . but as a way of life."

With 25,000 police and steel-helmeted army troops guarding against possible violence, Lopez Portillo took the red, white and green sash of office from outgoing Pres. Luis Echeverria in a ceremony at the National Auditorium in Chapultepec Park.

MORE THAN 5,000 guests attended the ceremony, including Mrs. Carter, U.S. Sec. of State Henry Kissinger, President Ford's son, Jack, and 1,200 other foreign dignitaries.

Lopez Portillo, who inherits a devalued peso, crumbling economy and peasant demands for promised land reforms, called on Mexicans to "put an end to hate, rancor, fear and impatience."

"To regain control of events under present conditions it will be necessary to procede with austerity, not as a passing fad, fashion or temporary disciple without any fixed objective, but as a way of life that will enable us to attain a stable and lasting equilibrium," the new president said.

In his 90-minute inaugural address televised throughout Mexico and Central America, Lopez Portillo warned his countrymen, "The distorted structures, selfish abuses and immoral practices we have all helped to create must be corrected."

"BICKERING AMONG sectors will not lead us out of peril," he said. "If we rock the boat and it takes on water, we all sink.

"If we want to continue without a shipwreck, our first task is to get hold of ourselves and put an end to panic-stricken and frantic activity. That is the real danger. Let us reject it."

Calling for an end to the flight of capital from Mexico which followed two recent devaluations of the peso, Lopez Portillo solemnly told the nation:

"A few of the rich, who export capital, and a few of the poor, who export their labor, may leave (Mexico), but the rest of us are staying, and we can make our country a hell or a land where life is good. It is in our hands."

MEXICO'S NEW president Jose Lopez appealed to Mexicans to put an end to hate and rancor.

Unit district plan seen 'unhealthy' for Dist. 214

The unit school district proposed for the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 area would transform a healthy district into a poor one and would cost the state more money, Ben Hubbard, research director for the Illinois Schools Problems Commission testified during a hearing on the proposal Wednesday night.

The proposal would combine Dist. 59 schools and Elk Grove and Forest View High schools under one school board and administration.

Dist. 59 is one of several elementary districts in the High School Dist. 214 area.

BY TAKING 46 per cent of the Dist. 214 assessed valuation but only 23 per cent of its students, the proposed unit district would leave the remaining portion of Dist. 214 with a deficit of $1.3 million by the 1981-82 school year, said Robert Weber, Dist. 214 associate superintendent for business services.

A $17 million cash balance is projected for Dist. 214 at the close of the current school year, he said.

Without the formation of the unit district, however, he projected this balance would be reduced to $9.2 million by 1981-82.

"You're making a poor district out of a district that is now doing well and operating on a cash basis without having to borrow money," Hubbard said. "You're fixing it so the state will have to pay more."

Assessed valuation and state aid account for 85 per cent of the Dist. 214 income, Weber said. The amount of state aid a district receives is determined by its equalized asasessed valuation, its average daily attendance, its tax rate and a percentage of state funding, he said.

THE ILLINOIS General Assembly has tried to consolidate rather than dismantle districts to spread assessments over as large an area as possible, Hubbard said.

"As you put districts together you lower the variance in assessments and rich and poor jointly support districts so the state doesn't have to," he said. "Assessed valuation is the bedrock that gives stability to school districts."

Credit card case in court Monday

An Arlington Heights couple accused of using credit cards to bilk 11 companies out of $150,000 will appear Monday in U.S. District Court, Chicago, for another pretrial hearing.

Donald E. Davis, 45, of 1034 Pine St., and his wife Carol, 27, received a one-week continuance in federal court last Monday. The couple has been charged with mail fraud after they allegedly obtained at least 20 credit cards under aliases.

The scheme allegedly began in September 1972. Davis was arrested Jan. 30, 1976. The U.S. Attorney's Office in Chicago charged them with mail fraud in September. The couple has pleaded innocent.

Blast rips air base officers' club

FRANKFURT, West Germany (UPI) — An explosion and fire, which police believed was caused by a terrorist bomb, destroyed the officers' club on the U.S. Air Force's Rhein-Main air base at lunchtime Wednesday.

An Air Force spokesman said 18 persons suffered minor injuries. The club, a one-story wooden frame building, was a total loss, with damage estimated at nearly $1 million.

The 18 injured included eight American air force firefighters and a security guard treated for smoke inhalation. A broken limb was the most serious injury.

"The cause is unknown," said Maj. Fred Raglan, the base's public information officer. But given the background of terrorist bombings at Amtrican military installations the possibility of sabotage was not ruled out.

"EVERYONE THINKS it was a bomb," Angelo Barresi, an American civilian who witnessed the explosion, said. "I can't prove it, but it sounded like a bomb. There was nothing in the building that could have exploded like that."

The blast went off at 1 p.m. in the club's lounge, while about 100 patrons were in an adjoining dining room. Fire swept rapidly through the club, which was opposite Air Force headquarters in the U.S. compound.

"It went up like a tinder box," witnesses said.

The flames could be seen up to five miles away, and aircraft at the adjoining Frankfurt international airport took off through plumes of smoke.

"The explosion sounded like a sonic boom to me," Raglan said.

Suspected members of the Baader-Meinhof urban guerrilla gang bombed the U.S. Army Corps officers club in Frankfurt in June for the second time in four years, injuring 15 American soldiers and dependents and one German.

VIR BROADCAST CONTROLLED COLOR TELEVISION

YOU'VE GOT TO SEE IT TO BELIEVE IT!

Many TV programs are now transmitted with a special color reference signal called VIR. When the VIR signal is present, new sophisticated computer-type circuitry, in selected General Electric color models, uses this signal to automatically adjust the color and tint of the television picture: this means you won't have to fiddle with those color control settings; instead, this truly automatic VIR system makes the adjustments for you.

GE's Broadcast Controlled Color system consistently gives you color and tint automatically adjusted by the VIR signal from the broadcasters themselves.

Come in for a demonstration . . . ask us to show you to the extent to which VIR is available in this area.

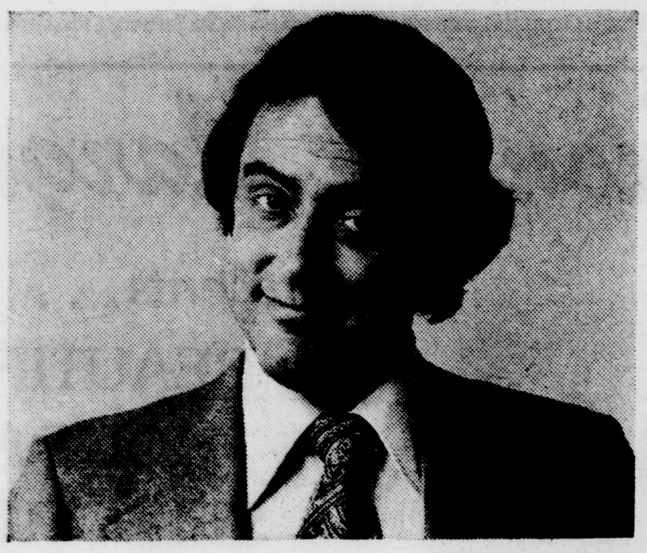
Why pay the government money you could save for retirement?

It's much better off at Home.



Here's a surprise. You might be able to take a tax deduction for money you save for retirement.

How? Two ways.

First, if you're self-employed, you can open a Keogh account at Home Federal Savings. Every year you deposit up to 15% of your income ($7,500 is the maximum deposit). This applies to part-time as well as full-time self-employment, so all you moonlighters and free-lancers out there, take notice.

The second way is if you aren't participating in a qualified pension plan where you work. You can open an Individual Retirement Account at Home Federal and deposit 15% of your income every year up to a $1,500 maximum.

All these deposits are tax-deductible. That's a pleasant surprise. But there's more to come.

While you're protecting your money from taxes, we'll be making it grow with the highest interest allowed by federal regulation. For example:

Annual Deposit	$ 1,500	$ 7,500
Balance with compound interest 10 years	$ 23,701	$118,504
20 years	$ 75,698	$378,488
30 years	$189,773	$948,866

This chart is based on our current 7¾% annual interest plan, based on certificate terms of 6 to 10 years. Current rates cannot be guaranteed past the initial term selected, or any renewal period. Figures shown are rounded off to the nearest whole dollar.

When you retire, we have some other great plans that can give you a steady, secure monthly income, further limitation of your tax liability and continued high earnings.

So why send more money to Washington than you have to? You can do much better at Home.

Visit any Home Federal office or use the coupon in this ad to find out more about our tax sheltered pension plans.

RTA closer to cutting authority of Pikarsky

by LYNN ASINOF

The Regional Transportation Authority is moving towards an administrative reorganization that would reduce the power of RTA Chairman Milton Pikarsky.

Under the reorganization Pikarsky would remain chairman, but spend most of his time trying to get governmental grants. A chief operating officer would take over day-to-day operation of the agency.

A special committee for finding a chief operating officer will soon begin preliminary work defining the new job. Committee chairman Nicholas Bosen said his group will meet with Hay Associates, a consulting firm developing an in-depth report on the structure of the RTA.

"This will give us a pay plan and a job description," Bosen said.

THE REORGANIZATION was first proposed in July by Chicago board member Patrick O'Malley as a compromise to suburban board members, demands to oust Pikarsky.

The suburban directors are continuing to charge Pikarsky is an inept administrator, and say they are biding their time until his departure.

Board members privately say assurances were given in July that Pikarsky would depart. The assurances came after the suburban directors relented on their efforts to block passage of the budget and force Pikarsky's resignation.

Nothing, however, has been done since that time, and the board apparently is turning to the Hay report to pave the way for change.

BOSEN SAID Hay and Associates are placing a heavy emphasis on the chief operating officer in their report, which is scheduled for completion in January.

O'Malley said the report will be of major importance to the 2½-year-old agency which has been plagued with internal conflicts.

"I think the Hay report is of such significance that we should have a special meeting of the board just to consider it," O'Malley said.

South Korean defector aiding U.S. authorities

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A South Korean intelligence official who defected to the United States is cooperating with the Justice Department's investigation of attempted bribery of members of Congress, a government source said Wednesday.

The source said the information taken so far from Kim Sang-Keun is not sufficient to take to a grand jury, but the interrogation is continuing at a secluded spot somewhere near Washington.

"We are investigating illegal acts," the source said. "Kim is cooperating."

Kim's agreement to talk in exchange for asylum in the United States represents a major breakthrough in an investigation that appared to be stymied.

The principal South Korean figure in the case, Tong Sun Park, has left the country and is reported to have been ordered to stay out of reach of American investigators. Kim, according to Korean sources, was Park's contact man with the Korean Central Intelligence Agency in the South Korean embassy.

Kim was described by Korean sources as the deputy station chief, and he had been ordered to return to South Korea by mid-December.

Apparently fearing he was to be made a scapegoat for Korean government actions, he contacted U.S. officials and offered to give information in exchange for haven for himself, his wife and their three children.

The way we see it

Key choices in leadership

In a few weeks, a small group of Illinois voters will be casting ballots making some important decisions on how the state is run.

Unfortunately, this important election will be decided mostly in secret, and the people who are most affected — the general public — will have no say in the matter.

The election will be in the Illinois General Assembly. Members of both the Republican and Democratic parties will select their leaders for the new session which begins in January.

The Democrats hold majorities in both the House and the Senate, and they will elect the presiding officers and determine who will head the committees. Independent groups are working to gain a bigger voice in the decision making power.

The independents could play a big role in the outcome of the election and eventually the tenor of the 80th session of the General Assembly. Major decisions on how legislation will be handled and when votes will be taken can be determined by the leadership.

In the last session, for example, passage in the Senate of the Equal Rights Amendment was thwarted because the president of the senate ruled more than a simple majority was needed for passage.

The prerogatives of the leadership have a heavy influence on the operation of the state. Much of this influence is utilized in subtle, somewhat invisible methods.

There is little the general public can do to influence this election, except to call on individual lawmakers to elect independent leaders. The members of the legislature ought to be aware that the public is watching this election, and the final outcome may have an influence the next time they are able to go to the polls to cast their own votes.

Shorter terms helpful

It's a rare day when politicians vote to shorten their term of office, but that's exactly what the Arlington Heights Park District commissioners have done.

The park commissioners voted to reduce their terms from six to four years as permitted under new state legislation revising the Illinois Park District Code.

The move is a good one that should be considered by other area park districts.

Six-year terms tend to scare off well-qualified candidates who are concerned about committing themselves to such a long period of service.

All too often, park commissioners find that business or personal commitments or a job transfer force them to resign from the board before they complete their six-year term, compelling the remaining four park commissioners to fill the vacancy or take on an additional workload until the next park district election.

The shorter terms should add stability to the park board and encourage more good candidates to run for election. It also will help eliminate the problem of an appointed commissioner having the advantage of running as an incumbent in the park district elections.

We encourage other park districts to follow the lead of Arlington Heights and shorten the park board terms to four years.

Believe in life on the moon?

We can't survive without trust

by TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON — Americans are not the first people to be suspicious of their government. But we institutionalized the process. The founders harbored the sentiment that "all men having power should be distrusted," hence they formed a Constitution which not only allows skepticism but makes it a patriotic responsibility.

This responsibility has ebbed and flowed through the centuries. Today it is flowing again, perhaps as never before. It might be said, in this time of shifting citizen outlook, that the Republic's most unifying force is that of universal doubt in the capability, the activity and most assuredly the honesty of the governing system.

A remarkable example is currently embodied in one George Leonard, a former and long time government employee who is now accusing the administration of a stupendous conspiracy to sham the people. He believes there is intelligent life on the moon, that the government knows it but for its own reasons is keeping the facts secret.

Wait. Don't turn to the sports page. This is serious, I think. George Leonard is a cut above the misguided rabble which usually proposes this kind of thing. He is educated, well spoken. He does not think fluoridation of water is a Communist plot, or that Legionnaire disease was necessarily predicted in the Book of Revelations.

It's just that, as an amateur astronomer concerned with what he sees in photographs of the moon, Leonard has been unable to square his own observations with that of the U.S. government. As a result he has resigned his government position (with Public Health) to write a book called "Somebody Else is on the Moon," and to urge NASA, the CIA, the president or whomever to admit same to the public.

Leonard's thesis is necessarily incomplete. Since he has not been to the moon himself, he "can't say who or what is up there." But no matter, for the moment. First things first. He says his photographs show clearly that there are objects on the moon which are not natural, and which were not created or left by American astronauts.

For instance, Leonard says there are "mechanical rigs" near King Crater which are over a mile in length. Then near the impact area of Ranger Seven, "there is a crater containing bathysphere-shaped commodities, each 60 feet in diameter, which have identical markings on their backs." Beyond this Leonard says his pictures show huge platforms, lights that move in patterns, and many vehicular tracks.

Not surprisingly, the government is unmoved by Leonard's hypothesis. It says the occurences in his photographs were constructed by nature, or perhaps Leonard's own imagination. And most certainly, in this case, the government has the weight of probability on its side. Of all the world's star gazers, only George Leonard has thus far seen conspiratorial intrigue on the lunar surface.

Still, Leonard's book is not complete nonsense. That part of it which suggests that government is capable of anything, even fraud on the moon, is of contributing value to that body of evidence which suggests America's obsession with suspicion may be approaching a limit past which patriotic responsibility becomes destructive rot.

Already, there is corrosion. Old Public Health worker Leonard says he is one of millions of Americans who are refusing to get swine flu shots. "Because I just don't trust government science." The trend is numbing. Tomorrow Americans may not pay their taxes because there is no confidence in government micropoops to spend it wisely.

Needless to say this lack of faith has not come without reason. The news is daily revealing new governmental slapstick. Recently it was learned that officers of the National Zoo purchased a Bactrian breeding camel that had no testicles; shortly after, a federal study concluded that high federal employees deserve 50 per cent salary hikes.

And yet revenge in the form of bureaucratic cynicism is an unsuitable response to bureaucratic carelessness. The founders also advised us that a free government cannot survive without a fundamental constituent trust. George Leonard, take note. Jimmy Carter also.

Readers respond to legislators' request for higher pay checks

YOUR EDITORIAL of Nov. 23, "No pay raise for legislators," was outstanding. I agree with it 100 per cent. The proposal of State Rep. Aaron Jafe and State Rep. Charles Fleck to raise the pay of legislators from $20,000 to $35,000 is absolutely ludicrous. When allowances are added to their current salary of $20,000, it puts legislators in the top 10 per cent of nationwide personal income.

When legislators stop their double-dipping of public funds, when they pass an ethics bill that has some substance to it, when they work full-time at legislating, then, and only then, should consideration be given to a modest pay raise.

Honest motivation to public service comes from the heart, not the pocketbook. With the revelations concerning national, state and city of Chicago politicians over the past few years, honest motivation is something not very well understood by the current crop of politicians.

IT DID NOT TAKE our "esteemed" legislators long, since the election is behind them now, to begin filing those aimless promises of "priority spending" 'til the next election.

Did you know that in the rules committee right now being considered by our "esteemed" representatives of the people is a proposed bill, H.B. 4023, to give themselves a 75 per cent salary increase?

Communities, school districts, hospitals, and higher education have been hard hit by the state's lack of funds. All of us have felt the money crunch, but for a self-imposed 75 per cent raise, suddenly the money is at hand.

During the last campaign, we were projected as apathetic and we surprised and perhaps frightened the politicians by voting in record numbers.

If you take a few minutes to write your state representative and demand a stop to insane spending, we'll stop this. If you don't, they'll weasel this through and you and I will pay.

She was upset by lack of candor

On Nov. 18, I attended the Seminar on "Youth and the law" sponsored by the Elk Grove Village Community Services and Harper Community College. I was appalled by the panel's lack of candor with the several youth who asked good questions about specific laws and juvenile rights. If ignorance of the law is not a mitigating factor in the determination of guilt or innocence in the commission of a crime, why not use this fine opportunity to honestly answer these young people's questions on the law and their constitutional rights?

Statements that imply that it is up to the individual to prove his or her innocence do nothing but create antagonism between the youth and law enforcement agencies.

It is sad that a meeting with such potential, which should, in fact, have created understanding, should, instead, exacerbate already raw feelings.

There is some good in the news

The only way I know how to thank the lay volunteers at the swine flu clinic in Elk Grove Village is through your good newspaper. Many volunteered prior to the opening of the clinic, but many also just walked in and said "I am here to volunteer, what do you want me to do?" and I couldn't even take the time to get their names. All of the organizations sent members as volunteers. Many who came for one shift stayed for the entire day and others came back the next day and brought friends and/or neighbors with them. As a new resident of the village it made me proud to be a part of both the clinic and Elk Grove Village.

Just to list a few examples of the fine people in this area I would like you to know that Mary Berger came in a wheelchair and worked from before noon until 5:30 p.m. as a consent form checker. Craig Gustafson, age 12, came with his parents (all three volunteers) and worked so hard as a table monitor, plus doing odd jobs for the clinic, that he decided to stay the whole day. Also, a village trustee, Michael Tosto, gave up his ticket to the Bears game to work at the clinic, and I know that must have hurt his heart!

Therefore, I hope, through your newspaper to say "thank you" to all of these wonderful volunteers.

Economic indicators unchanged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Demand for factory products, primarily steel, and a government index that often foreshadows national economic trends continued at a weak rate in October, the Commerce Dept. said Wednesday.

The index of leading indicators was unchanged to end two consecutive declines, but government economists said the unchanged index was not a sign the recent economic slowdown might reverse soon.

Factory orders, excluding defenhe, fell .5 per cent with a nearly 5 per cent drop in steel, aluminum and primary metals leading the way. It was the fourth decline in five months for metals.

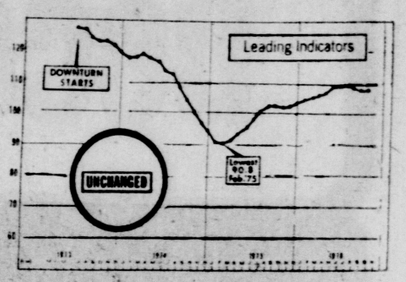
INVENTORIES increased .9 per cent for the 10th consecutive monthly increase to match a trend that preceded the recession that ended in the spring of 1975.

"The increase was in the magnitude of the increases in the 1973-74 period," a commerce spokesman said. "I would say we are getting into a troublesome area."

In another economic development, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board said mortgage lending declined in October despite a record $3.3 billion gain in savings deposits at thrift institutions.

Most government and private economists have projected an economic growth rate of about 6 per cent in 1977. Those estimates have been questioned in recent weeks because of a series of reports showing an economic slowdown.

INDUSTRIAL production fell off in both September and October, unemployment rose to 7.9 per cent, retail sales fell and wholesale prices dipped from weak demand.



THE NATION'S index of leading economic indicators was unchanged during October, the Commerce Dept. said in a report released Wednesday.

Commerce measures 12 sectors of the economy in compiling the index. Of the 11 available now, seven fell. The inventory rise of .9 per cent was due mostly to primary metals, which pushed the durable goods category 1.2 per cent. Chemicals, paper and other nondurables increased .6 per cent.

Area to continue tops in housing: S&L chief

by LEA TONKIN

The Northwest suburbs will continue to be one of the Chicago area's top housing markets during 1977, predicts Grover Hansen, president of First Federal Savings and Loan Assn. of Chicago.

Hansen, who joined other First Federal executives and suburban officials at grand opening ceremonies Wednesday for the firm's new Mount Prospect office, said the local branch is drawing heavy savings deposits and requests for home loans.

"This is one of our strongest markets," Hansen said. "Mortgage loan applications have increased at least 30 per cent in this location in the past month."

First Federal's Mount Prospect branch opened three years ago in temporary quarters adjacent to the present 111 E. Rand Rd. site and has drawn 10,000 customers and some $10 million in deposits.

FIRST FEDERAL'S move to lower mortgage loan rates earlier in the week is designed to bring young families into the Chicago area housing market, Hansen said. The institution announced an across-the-board 8½ per cent loan rate and a 1 per cent service charge for loans up to $55,000.

"We're trying to make it as easy as possible for families to get started," Hansen said. "Housing prices have doubled in the past 10 years." Although the trend to higher home values in the Northwest suburbs will continue, Hansen predicted lower interest rates can give a boost to potential home buyers.

An ample supply of home loan funds should be available through the coming year, Hansen said. He reported more than $15 million in new savings during the past month. The association has assets of $1.8 billion.

Hansen noted that the $2 million Mount Prospect office was the first of the company's 16 branch offices in the Chicago area. In addition to Hansen, participants in the ribbon cutting and other grand opening activities included Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert; George Niccolai, First Federal vice president and Mount Prospect branch manager, and E. Stanley Enlund, First Federal's chairman of the board.

Grover Hansen

George Niccolai

OTHERS INVITED to participate included Mount Prospect village Mgr. Robert Eppley, Prospect Heights Mayor Richard Wolf, Arlington Heights village Pres. James Ryan and Des Plaines Mayor Charles Bolek.

The Guardsmen Jr. Drum and Bugle Corps of Mount Prospect performed at the grand opening. The Wednesday events marked the start of a month-long grand opening celebration. Special events, refreshments, and appearances by sports stars Bill Madlock, Eric Nesterenko and Bob Avellini are slated.

Niccolai said the new Mount Prospect office will serve as the prototype for future First Federal branches. An open contemporary design and energy conservation features distinguish the building.

First Federal plans to open a Schaumburg branch office in mid-December. A temporary facility will be opened at the southwest corner of Mall and Woodfield roads.

Business briefs

White House silent on 6% steel hike

The 6 per cent price increase on sheet steel, which went into effect Wednesday, was criticized by Vice President-elect Walter Mondale as inflationary. But the White House awaited more information before commenting. The Council on Wage and Price Stability, the White House agency responsible for keeping track of inflation, postponed release of a report Wednesday that a spokesman said would have labeled the timing of the second price increase in five months "a bit premature." The spokesman said acting Director William Lilley III was "not satisfied" that price information assembled by the council was complete enough to be made public.

Milwaukee Road asks ICC aid

The Milwaukee Road asked the Interstate Commerce Commission Wednesday to force the larger Burlington Northern R.R. to take control of the Milwaukee Road through an exchange of stock. The Milwaukee Road said the merger "would help to preserve the Milwaukee and thus strengthen rail competition in much of the United States." It said the acquisition "would have negible effects on the total work forces in communities where the Milwaukee Road has employes." A spokesman for the Burlington Northern at its headquarters in St. Paul, Minn., said there would be no comment until the railroad's attorneys studied the application. The ICC asked the Milwaukee Road last Aug. 25 to refile an earlier and similar application along with supporting testimony and exhibits.

Miners to vote on union choice

An official of the Three States Trucking Co., Carbondale, said Wednesday a tentative date of Feb. 10 has been set for an election at which miners at three small mines the firm operates in Southern Illinois would decide on union affiliation. James Burks, vice president and general manger of Three States, said details were arranged Tuesday at a meeting in St. Louis involving the company, the United Mine Workers and the National Labor Relations Board. Some 65 miners employed by Three States at the three nonunion mines near Carbondale, Oraville and Vergennes have been affected by a walkout that began Monday.

Wheat crop called 'fair to good'

Dry weather continued to plague winter wheat growers in some areas last week and stands of the crop were thin and spotty in parts of some major wheat states, the U.S. Agriculture Dept. said. The department's weekly crop weather report added that the condition of winter wheat in Indiana, Missouri and Nebraska was "mostly fair" while the Illinois crop was in "fair to good" shape and Montana conditions were "fair to poor."

State fights Indiana rail shipment

Illinois will challenge a preliminary ruling by a special rail court in Washington that would permit Consolidated Rail Corp. to continue moving coal shipments from Carmi to Danville through Evansville, Ind., an Illinois Dept. of Transportation spokesman said Wednesday. Kevin McCarthy, assistant chief counsel for the department, said attorneys were meeting to determine exactly what course of action to take. In its injunction suit the department charged that the diversion of the freight traffic from the old Penn Central route into Indiana would cost Illinois several hundreds of thousands of dollars a year in lost freight revenue.

Active trading drives Dow up 2.16

NEW YORK (UPI) — A pickup in factory orders, showing the economy has some life left, triggered an afternoon rally Wednesday that drove prices higher for the first time in three sessions in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

But investors remained uncertain about the course of the economy even though the government's leading economic indicators ended a two-month skid.

As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average, up and down all day, finished with a gain of 2.16 points to 949.38. The blue-chip average, under profit taking pressure recently, lost 2.83 points Tuesday.

The NYSE common stock index gained 0.23 to 55.03 and the average price of a common share increased by 14 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, added 0.39 to 102.49.

Volume swelled to 21,960,000 shares from the 17,030,000 traded Tuesday.

Prices closed higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of a common share increased 1 cent. Volume totaled 2,520,000 shares, compared with 2,020,000 traded Tuesday.

"We Welcome the Wholesale Trade"

Snow may make you blue, but it greens your lawn

If the "Old Farmer's Almanac" is right, early December will start with light snow and showers followed by heavier snow and rain later in the month.

And that's good news for Northwest suburban residents and officials who spent most of last summer watching their water tables drop and their lawns turn brown.

Jim Fizzell, horticulture advisor at the University of Illinois Extension Service office, Rolling Meadows, said the severity of winter snowfall will significantly affect the 1977 water supply.

"Snowfall, if and when it melts and goes into ground aquifers, can help raise the water table," he said. "Any moisture, whether it's snowfall or rainfall, would help at this point."

THERE'LL BE MUCH more on the line as the snow piles up this winter than lush green lawns in suburbia, Fizzell warned.

Although Cook County farmers last summer were plagued by the driest croplands they've had since the 1950s, they were not included on the list of 50 Illinois counties declared economic injury disaster areas by the federal Small Business Administration and the Dept. of Agriculture. Crop failures and lower farm production in some parts of the state will eventually affect consumers' pocketbooks at the supermarket checkout counter.

Fall rains didn't replenish the land's lakes or shallow basins because the dry earth quickly soaked up the moisture. That's why the winter season's melted snowfall will dramatically affect the water supply outlook for 1977.

Aside from rain and snowfall's seasonal importance as a supplier of drinking water, lawn-sprinkling and crop nourishment, precipitation serves another role as firefighter.

The summer drought sparked a rash of forest fires in Illinois during November. Most of the blazes were reported in southern and central areas of the state, although a marshland fire struck at Illinois Beach State Park near Zion.

THE FALL AND winter recharge of underground water supplies must happen before the ground freezes. Colder than normal temperatures during recent weeks may stop the seasonal replenishment early, warns William C. Ackermann, chief of the Illinois State Water Survey in Urbana.

"There are some long-term problems," Ackermann said. "Simply, there's the fact that we're overdrawing some of our aquifers consistently." His surveys of deep wells, the backbone of many communities' water supply, show a continued drop in water tables.

"The problem with deep wells is that water moves so slowly that it's almost a nonrenewable resource," Ackermann said.

Ackermann discounts the recent drop in the Lake Michigan water level as a potential snag in plans for water diversion to the northwest suburbs.

But winter's snowfall will have little impact on the Lake Michigan water level, he said.

How Straight

Swings Produce

Crooked Shots

We've had our super-swift artist take his stroboscopic crayon and depict above where the ball is headed 1/5 of a second after being hit with a 5 iron by three different golfers. We chose 1/5 of a second because at that time you can still see the lie angle and line of the clubface when it collided with the ball. And the ball is now 15 yards on its way, so its direction is apparent. These aren't random numbers; they're taken from the scientific research by the Golf Society of Great Britain; they really used a strobe camera, electric eyes and the whole enchilader (Brit. pronunciation) back to the three golfers. All three swings are on target, the broken line shows the clubface precisely perpendicular to the line of travel leading to the off-line flight.

So why does only one golfer reap the reward of a straight shot? To find the reason, look at the black line that shows the lie angle of each clubhead — its orientation to the ground. At the top, the toe of the club is higher than the heel, so the heel takes the divot first. This pivots the toe of the clubface to the left, for a pulled shot. In the middle, the clubhead angles down so the toe catches first, and pivots the heel to the right. Result: a pushed shot. And now behold the happy hacker in the bottom version. His clubhead sole's level to the ground; his swing is straight and his heart is pure; the ball takes off in the same direction as the swing and continues on the straight and narrow.

Two choices. There are two ways to solve the problem of irons that don't sole flat. If you're aware of the need to correct the angle, you can level the sole by adjusting your stance every time. But this inhibits the freedom of your swing and cuts your power. A better solution is to have your club Fine Tuned. That means having the lie angle checked, and having the angle between the shaft and the clubhead adjusted the correct number of degrees in the correct direction so you end up with clubheads that sole perfectly level when you address the ball with your natural stance.

Fine Tuning is a service offered at Doug Dahle's, and very few other pro shops. Fine Tuning machines are precision-calibrated devices that make micrometrically-controled adjustments of the lie angle. They're expensive tools and time consuming to use, but more accurate and dependable than the hammer-&-wrench method that others may depend on.

Do YOU need it? About 4 out of 10 golfers can use Fine Tuning. Bring your irons in and we'll check them free and show you whether adjustment is needed, and if so, how many degrees. Fine Tuning is free per set of clubs bought from us; and $3.50 per club for others. Make up your mind on the basis of facts. Don't be talked out of it by someone who decries Fine Tuning as a "gimmick" (and incidentally doesn't have a Fine Tuner in his shop). Keep in mind that most touring pros have had their irons Fine Tuned (many have had Doug Dahle do it).

5,000 'pot' tickets issued in California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The California Highway Patrol, acting under the state's newly liberalized marijuana law, has cited more than 5,000 motorists for possession of small amounts of the drug, officials said Wednesday.

The law took effect 11 months ago and provides a maximum fine of $100 for possession of an ounce or less of marijuana. For more than an ounce, the fine can run as high as $500 plus six months in jail.

Previously, possession of any amount of marijuana could be punished as a misdemeanor or a felony.

ALTHOUGH they are not certain, some officials believe that marijuana offenders get snared in the patrol's intensive campaign against drunken drivers.

During the first 10 months of the year, the patrol issued 5,014 traffic-ticket style citations to motorists for possession of less than an ounce of marijuana and 147 tickets for more than an ounce. Officials said there were 264 felony arrests for persons possessing hashish.

The patrol made 4,295 possession arrests during the same period a year ago when carrying small amounts of marijuana was either a felony or a misdemeanor.

CHP Inspector Leonard DeGroff said there was no concerted campaign by California's 4,300 patrolmen to nab suspected marijuana users.

"THE MAJORITY of the citations issued were incidental to traffic enforcement," DeGroff said.

"We are looking as hard as possible for the drunken driver," said CHP spokesman Robert Fahs. "A driver under the influence of marijuana has many of the same driving characteristics as one under the influence of alcohol."

DeGroff said citations for marijuana possession are issued after a vehicle is stopped for a moving violation and the officer spots a smoked marijuana cigarette or "smells the odor of marijuana."

Bus, trolley drivers strike in Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Thousands of bus and trolley riders in the metropolitan area were hit by a transit strike Wednesday and struggled to work in their own autos, car pools, or by hitchhiking. Many stayed home.

Allegheny County Common Pleas Judge Silvestri Silvestri set a hearing for 12:30 p.m. Chicago time Thursday on an injunction request by Port Authority Transit officials to end the walkout.

Silvestri met in closed chambers for 15 minutes with attorneys for the Port Authority Transit and the striking Amalgamated Transit Union Division 85, representing 2,600 workers, including 1,700 drivers.

The union seeks a 10 per cent wage increase; unlimited cost-of-living protection for its members, whose current pay under a three-year contract averages $7.06 an hour, and a fringe benefits provision to counter inflation.

The strike began when the union's previous contract expired at midnight Tuesday. A similar strike three years ago lasted seven days.

Without 1,100 buses and trolleys making their rounds, bumper-to-bumper rush hour traffic started earlier and was more widespread than usual. Some students could not get to classes and would-be downtown Christmas shoppers and businessmen were frustrated.

May depend on advisers

Carter mettle to be tested in superpower relations

by JIM ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An African diplomat summed up his feelings about the incoming administration:

"It is quite clear that Jimmy Carter is intelligent, energetic and ambitious. It is also quite clear that he is almost totally inexperienced in foreign affairs."

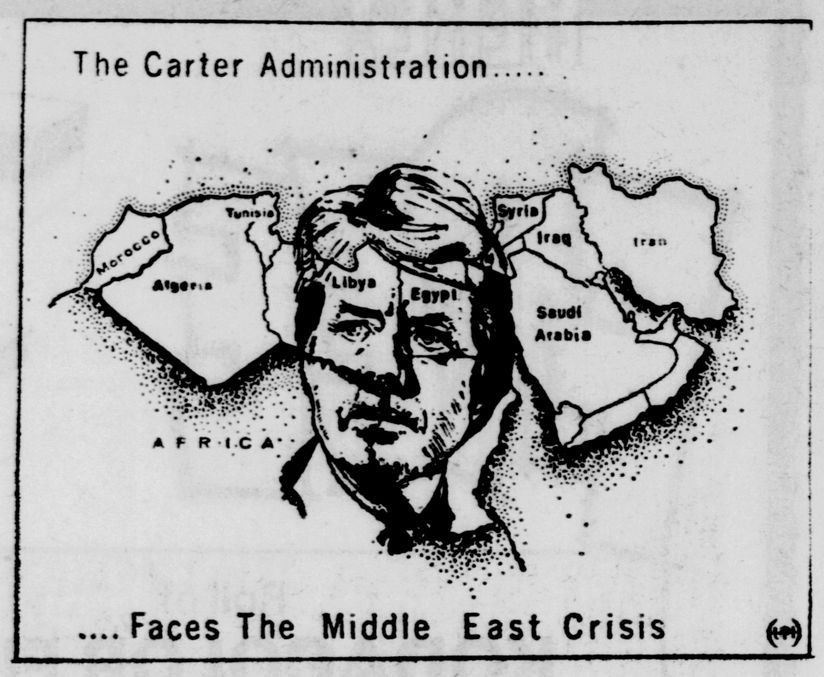
The diplomat went on to draw from that observation approximately the same conclusion being expressed by some officials in the State Department:

• Carter may be uniquely dependent on his foreign policy advisers, at least for the first months.

• Major undertakings in international relations will have to wait until he has learned his way around and develops the confidence to break new ground.

In the meantime, his administration will spend its time reacting to existing problems and building — with modifications — on the foreign policy Henry Kissinger leaves behind.

In his final burst of energy, Kissinger has busied himself in two areas: the Middle East and the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks. They offer the best possibility of early foreign policy successes for the new administration.



AS A RESULT of the diplomacy of the last three years, the Carter Administration will have unprecedented influence with moderate Arab Nations that are the ultimate key to peace in the Mideast. An African diplomat, said "It is quite clear Carter is intelligent, energetic and ambitious . . . however he is also almost totally inexperienced in foreign affairs."

Kissinger's long-range plans for the Middle East finally fell into place within the last few weeks, with the apparent peace in Lebanon.

As a result of the diplomacy of the past three years, the Carter administration will have unprecedented influence with moderate Arab nations which are the key to peace in the Mideast.

That influence is built on restored American relations and credibility with the three most important states in the Arab world: Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia. The radical Arab "rejectionist" states, Iraq and Libya, for the time being have been effectively isolated.

THE NEXT LOGICAL step is to try to mediate a comprehensive, over-all solution between the Arabs and the Israelis. Prospects seem better than they have ever been, and it would have been one of Kissinger's first projects had Ford won.

Carter, in his second post-election news conference, said he would put the SALT talks at the top of his agenda.

U.S. and Soviet officials have indicated the two sides are close to agreement on the second round of negotiations to limit strategic weapons further. Carter said he will propose a freeze "at the present level the number of missiles, warheads and qualitative status."

"Qualitative status" apparently refers to MIRVs, independently guided multiple warheads.

The United States, according to a recent study in the Strategic Review, holds a significant advantage in the number of warheads and long-range bombers, while the Soviet Union holds an advantage of more than two to one in throw weight (total size of warheads).

A POLITICAL decision by the leaders of the United States and the Soviet Union could make this rough balance permanent, a formal agreement in which both sides retain their unique advantages.

One of Carter's chief advisers, Zbigniew Brzezinski, wrote recently:

"The problem of security remains, as a legacy of the past, a high-priority item . . . The danger of war has not disappeared entirely, although war as an act of policy has become a luxury which only the poor and backward nonnuclear nations can afford.

"Indeed, the possibility of an accidental war now may be higher than in the past, given the extraordinary complexity and abundance of modern weapons."

Assuming Carter achieves an agreement with the Soviets on arms reduction, he will have to face up to the 535 individuals who make up the U.S. Congress and who have strong ideas of their own about foreign policy.

CARTER WILL come face-to-face with a fact of life that it took Kissinger nearly one full presidential term to learn: the most durable and complex foreign policy obstacles arise through domestic reasons, or through a combination of domestic and international reasons.

Such problems, inherent in a democratic system, may not be solvable.

Watergate, and the ensuing constitutional crisis, threw doubts on U.S. credibility as a world power and — Kissinger believes — tempted the Soviet Union to go into Angola.

The political and social upheavals in this country that coincided with Vietnam but were only partly a result of the war, raised understandable international fears the United States was slipping into a new isolationism.

Some of those doubts persist, partly because of the mood in Congress, which has a financial veto over any great projects in U.S. foreign policy.

Meanwhile, also because of disagreements between Congress and the executive branch, the United States still has no cohesive energy plan. "Project Independence," which envisioned energy self-reliance by the end of the decade, is dead. It is a situation almost tailormade for pressure to be exerted on the United States.

AN EASTERN EUROPEAN diplomat recently paused in the midst of a conversation about the American election and suddenly said, "Just think what the world must look like from Moscow right now. In Peking, Mao is dead, and there's a new leadership, totally unknown. In Washington, there's an administration that will be led by a man who was a mystery even to the American voters. For Moscow, it's a totally unpredictable situation."

That uncertainty will raise the level of something that is the worst nightmare of strategic planners, instability, a loosening of the informal understanding that leashes the nuclear balance of terror.

Both sides understand there is no profit to be had in provoking a competition that could lead to a nuclear war, because both would be seriously damaged.

Destabilization occurs when one side is tempted, or frightened, or mistaken enough to try to take military advantage of another super-power. It happened in 1960 in Berlin, in 1962 in the Cuban missile crisis, and in 1973 during the Middle East War.

Those incidents are a reminder to Carter that any new president has to face tests of his political mettle, and the most dramatic tests come in relations with the other super-powers.

Transition proposals at issue

Rhodesia talks reduced to exchange of insults

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — Black and white Rhodesians, facing each other at the Rhodesia talks Wednesday for the first time in nearly four weeks, scorned conflicting proposals for the nation's peaceful transition to black majority rule.

The joint meeting, which some white Rhodesian officials considered a last chance try for a peaceful solution to the crisis in the former British colony, broke down in insults in less than an hour.

Militant black nationalist Robert Mugabe called Rhodesian Foreign Minister Pieter van der Byl a "fool" for sticking to an initial plan proposed by the United States and Britain.

VAN DER BYL IN turn said the proposals of Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo, his partner in the blacks' "Patriotic Front," were "unrealistic nonsense."

British conference chairman Ivor Richard said the meeting was "useful" because it got all delegations together to discuss an interim Rhodesian government, a necessary first step before independence under black majority rule. He told the delegates to return today.

Van der Byl said he told the meeting the Salisbury regime "stands where we have always stood . . . on the proposals put up by (Sec. of State Henry) Kissinger."

Mugabe told reporters, "That fool who has just run away wants us to talk about the Anglo-American proposals. We have no time for this.

"We have presented our scheme and we hope the conference will agree on it. The meeting was marked by van der Byl's arrogance."

CONFERENCE sources said there were acrimonious exchanges at the closed-door meeting between van der Byl and the black "Patriotic Front" delegates.

Bishop Abel Muzorewa, the moderate president of the African National Council, said he was "encouraged" by the confrontation, because "at long last we were able to talk about the main thing — the structure of the interim government."

There were unconfirmed reports that Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith, who left the talks in Geneva early in November saying he was wasting his time, would soon return to the conference table.

RICHARD, who said he wanted a frank and open discussion, invited members of the four black nationalist delegations and the Salisbury officials to speak out and defend their views. The opposing groups met together for the first time in three weeks.

Although the Geneva talks have accomplished little, conference officials said Richard is unlikely to end the session unless all sides demand adjournment.

Richard limited the meeting to the leaders of the five delegations and allowed each man to bring up to five advisers.

A $1,500 tax break, a plan for retirement—and you're not taking advantage of them?

It has surprised retirement planning experts that more people are not taking advantage of the Individual Retirement Account. These are people who need it most, the ones who are not currently participating in any qualified retirement plan.

The Pension Reform Act authorizes them to set aside each year in a separate retirement fund 15% of their annual wages up to $1,500. This not only provides a nest egg for retirement but saves several hundred dollars each year in income taxes, the exact amount depending on the individual's tax bracket. The amount that goes into an Individual Retirement Account is deducted from the gross income reported on the federal income tax return. No income tax is paid on the I.R.A. money until it is used in retirement years.

If you are employed and not currently covered by a qualified retirement plan, do yourself the favor of talking with one of our savings counselors about the I.R.A. and what it can do for you. You'll be glad next April 15 that you did—even more so during the years ahead when there will be no more pay checks.

End atomic energy panel: group

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress' Joint Committee on Atomic Energy is a "huckster" for the nuclear power industry and should be abolished, the Common Cause citizens' lobby said Wednesday.

Common Cause said the committee has consistently failed to hold hearings on major safety issues and cost overruns in nuclear power programs, and has denied critics of nuclear power development the chance to testify at important hearings that were dominated by industry representatives.

In a 38-page study titled "Stacking the Deck," Common Cause also said the panel has not developed any policy to deal with the dangers of nuclear proliferation and has special interest ties to the atomic energy industry.

THE REPORT SAID the committee is dominated by members of Congress from states that have large federal nuclear energy installations, such as Tennesse, California, New Mexico, Washington, New York and Illinois.

The committee "is a huckster for the nuclear power industry," said Common Cause President David Cohen. "It refuses to follow fair procedures and is negligent in considering important nuclear issues.

"It provides a platform to nuclear power supporters while it rarely hears the critics and never listens to them," he said.

"It ignores safety issues and cost over-runs while it protects federal investments in its members' states and districts. It is the classic special interest committee to the Nth power."

Government rules strangling building industry: developers

by LYNN ASINOF

When Robert Di Aiso measures red tape in the housing industry, he needs some six feet of paper to chart the 500 steps a developer must go through to get a project approved.

"Housing is the most regulated commodity on the market today," the engineer told the Building and Construction Exposition recently. "Each year new regulations are enacted."

Most developers admit the regulations were prompted by abuses in the housing industry, but few are happy with the bureaucratic tangle that now faces them with every new project.

Some, like Maryland builder Milton E. Kettler, are adamant that these rules and regulations are strangling the housing industry. "It's a dilemma of being nibbled to death by ducks," he told the conference.

"THAT'S A PRETTY accurate statement from a developer's standpoint," said Wheeling Assistant Village Mgr. Thomas Markus. "I'm sure they feel that way."

Markus, however, said the controls are needed to protect the environment. He said people will no longer allow the kind of free-wheeling development practiced 10 or 15 years ago.

"I'll be the first one to admit it is a lengthy process, and it's not as easy to get things developed anymore," Markus said. "People are more concerned about their environment. They are not going to let things just happen."

The time consuming reviews usually begin with the submittal of plans to the local government. In the Northwest suburbs, the first step is getting approval from the local zoning board of appeals.

THEN COMES THE planning commission, village board committee review, and board approval. Administrative reviews have to be made by the building department, fire department, health department, law department and others.

Some towns, like Wheeling, have mandatory reviews by the environmental commission. Soon recommendations from the new appearance commission also will be taken into account.

Local reviews can be lengthy, particularly if the development is unpopular with townspeople who turn out to testify against it at public hearings.

Di Aiso said developers have to know the towns they are planning to build in and be aware of the local politics to avoid such problems.

"You have to know the reviewers, what they will be looking for and what their pet peeves are," he said. "You have to know what is going on politically."

THE REVIEWS don't end with the local government. A developer also has to go through such agencies as the sewer authority, gas and electric companies, state highway department and soil and water conservation district.

Once these agencies have given their stamp of approval, the developer has to go back to the local government to post bonds and pull building permits.

"The total thing can take 36 months," Di Aiso said, noting that a developer who doesn't stay on top of his project can often wait three, four or five years.

Elk Grove Building Director Tom Rettenbacher said developers complain about red tape "everytime a guy comes in here and doesn't think he can get his permit out on time."

RETTENBACHER, however, said developers who provide all the needed information process move smoothly through the review process.

"If we have a problem with them here it is because they don't provide the information," he said.

John Best of the Arlington Heights Engineering Dept. agreed. "I think it largely depends on the people who are presenting the petition. If they are prepared they can move along reasonably rapidly," he said. "Often they are not prepared."

Best estimated that it would take a minimum of three months to go from the zoning stage to actually pulling permits for a project in Arlington Heights.

In Wheeling, Markus estimated the process would take about four months, but said the length of review depends on the developer and the amount of research he has done.

KETTLER SAID the housing industry also is plagued by code requirements that add significantly to the cost of the house.

"For example, your range has to be anchored down so it won't turn over if you decide to jump up and down on the oven door," Kettler said. He also objected to an overabundance of electrical outlets, the number of outdoor lights, anti-scald water heating devices and attic lights.

"Some of these things are very good, but the buyer should be able to determine if he wants it and when he wants it," Kettler said.

Rettenbacher, however, said these life-safety items are invaluable and should not be eliminated from the codes.

"WHEN THEY ARE life-safety items, when do you decide when you need them," Rettenbacher said, noting a life can be lost for lack of a smoke detector. "Who's going to make that decision."

Some builders also object to the increasing cost of land development, caused by more stringent water retention and siltation requirements.

"The most critical inflationary field that the builder must deal with is land development costs," developer Robert E. Brennan told the conference.

Brennan said in the 1950s developers spent 16 per cent of the money on land and financing. Today that land acquisition accounts for 39 per cent of development costs.

NOTING THE DONATIONS developers must make to school and park districts, Brennan said, "The building industry cannot survive much longer in this kind of financial environment created by our government."

Brennan also complained that developers are forced to overbuild their streets, dedicate rights-of-way that are never used and oversize their sewers.

The answer to the red tape, Kettler said, is for the builders to organize so that they can flex their collective muscle.

Kettler said he is not optimistic that the regulations now on the books will ever disappear, but said he hopes to prevent the proliferation of new ones.

"Reducing a bureaucracy is like unscrambling an egg," he said.

Saving money still tough, even with rising incomes

Despite rising incomes, many young families will review their finances and bank accounts at tax time this year and ask, "Where did it all go?" Somehow, the money which should have been saved just didn't stay saved.

The steady inroads of inflation and a lack of tax shelters hurt young working couples without children, but there also must be a goal to motivate savings, according to one expert.

"Saving for a down payment on a home is perhaps the most desirable, functional goal for a young couple," said Robert G. Walters, senior vice president of Baird & Warner, Inc., and general manger of the company's residential sales division.

" I STILL BELIEVE that most young families want to own their own home, and however elusive it might seem, it is a goal that has to be pursued intensely," he said. "Owning a home provides an almost unbeatable combination of investment against inflation, a tax shelter, and an effective savings mechanism."

Money saved for the down payment on a house is actually "saved twice," Walters explained. The initial downpayment becomes part of the couple's equity in the house, money that will come back to them, with the probability of a healthy profit, when the home is sold. Some couples include that equity in their savings plans for retirement. They can either remain in their home with the mortgage paid off or recapture the equity and profit for retirement.

"Money saved for a down payment — unlike money saved for a vacation, or for a car or apartment furnishings, which depreciate rapidly in value — stays saved," he said.

"It is the closest thing there is to having your cake and eating it, because it is one of the few things you can buy and use and still get a substantial amount of your investment back," he said.

IN SUPPORT of the value of home ownership as a hedge against inflation, Walters referred to a recent report from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board which said that the resale price of existing homes was up 11.3 per cent for the second quarter of 1976, compared to the same period a year earlier.

Homeownership results in a significant tax benefit for the purchaser, since mortgage interest and property taxes are deductible for taxpayers who itemize deductions.

As the years go by, mortgage interest gradually decreases, but by this time a growing family may have provided additional deductions for the couple, Walters said. At the same time that interest on the mortgage decreases, the proportion of equity — savings — goes up. The family's income will also be increasing and inflation will shrink the value of the dollars being paid on the mortgage.

"Buying a home certainly is a viable method of holding onto the money which a working couple make during the year, and it is also a functional purchase for the growing family they may have in the future. But to do it, the couple has to focus on it," Walters said.

THE CHICAGO TITLE Insurance Co. reported that per capita disposable income was up 50 per cent nationally between 1970 and 1975. But for the same period, the cost of living in the Chicago area was up 36 per cent, according to figures from the U.S. Dept. of Labor, he said.

"Without the goal of owning a home and the motivation it provides, it's very possible for the young, childless working couple to find themselves with little to show for their year of labor at tax time," he said.

"If both the husband and wife work, it's quite likely that one of them is driving a used car that is more than a few years old. Periodic repair bills or replacement with a later model can chip away at the tightest budget.

"Since both are working and there are no children, the young couple naturally wants to enjoy the leisure hours available to them by dining out with friends, going to the movies — certainly not extravagances, but these entertainments have been keeping pace with inflation and they can undermine a budget by year's end.

SOMEONE MIGHT question whether owning a home is worth these sacrifices. Our record sales this year indicate that many think it is.

"Besides the dollar and cents advantages, owning a home means freedom — to live as you wish without having to worry about neighbors above or below you, to decorate to suit your taste and express your own creativity, and to entertain as many friends or relatives as often as you wish.

"The key for the working couple is to save for that down payment while both incomes are still available and to purchase a home as soon as they are financially qualified. An experienced Realtor can look at your financial situation and determine whether you should realistically be in the market for a home.

"He'll also pinpoint what you can afford and show you homes within your price range. This in itself can save you a lot of running around and perhaps more than a little frustration," Walters said.

Energy-saving program for apartments planned

Energy saving measures in apartments will be the subject of a jointly-sponsored energy cost reduction program, announced by the Federal Energy Administration and the Institute of Real Estate Management of the National Assn. of Realtors.

FEA Administrator Frank G. Zarb, said, 'The ownership and management of apartments is a major segment of the nation's small business community. The energy savings potential in apartments is significant and we look forward to working with IREM to tap that potential through the development of practical 'dollars and cents' measures to reduce energy use and costs."

Joseph L. Yousem, president of the Realtors' group, a national association of professional property managers, said, "IREM has betn involved in energy management since the 1973 oil embargo. In 1975, we conducted a study which showed average savings of 24 per cent in gas consumption and 21 per cent in electricity consumption. With the cost of energy increasing, our members are, of necessity, looking for effective energy savings measures. We see the FEA-IREM energy cost reduction program as a major step toward achieving energy efficiency in the 186,000 apartment buildings in the U.S."

The study, the fourth of seven to be undertaken as part of the Small Business Energy Cost Reduction Program, will begin with detailed on-site energy audits and anaylses of selected apartment developments.

The results of these audits will be incorporated into energy cost reduction guides to be published by IREM. IREM will also sponsor energy cost reduction workships throughout the country utilizing its local chapters. Cooperating in the workshop effort will be FEA's regional offices as well as the regional and district offices of the Small Business Administration, a cosponsor of the overall program.

Yousem said IREM will introduce the program and guides at its January, 1977 meetings. Workshops will be scheduled beginning in the Spring of 1977.

Clear out undergrowth, too

Don't let trees spoil your view

It's your landscape

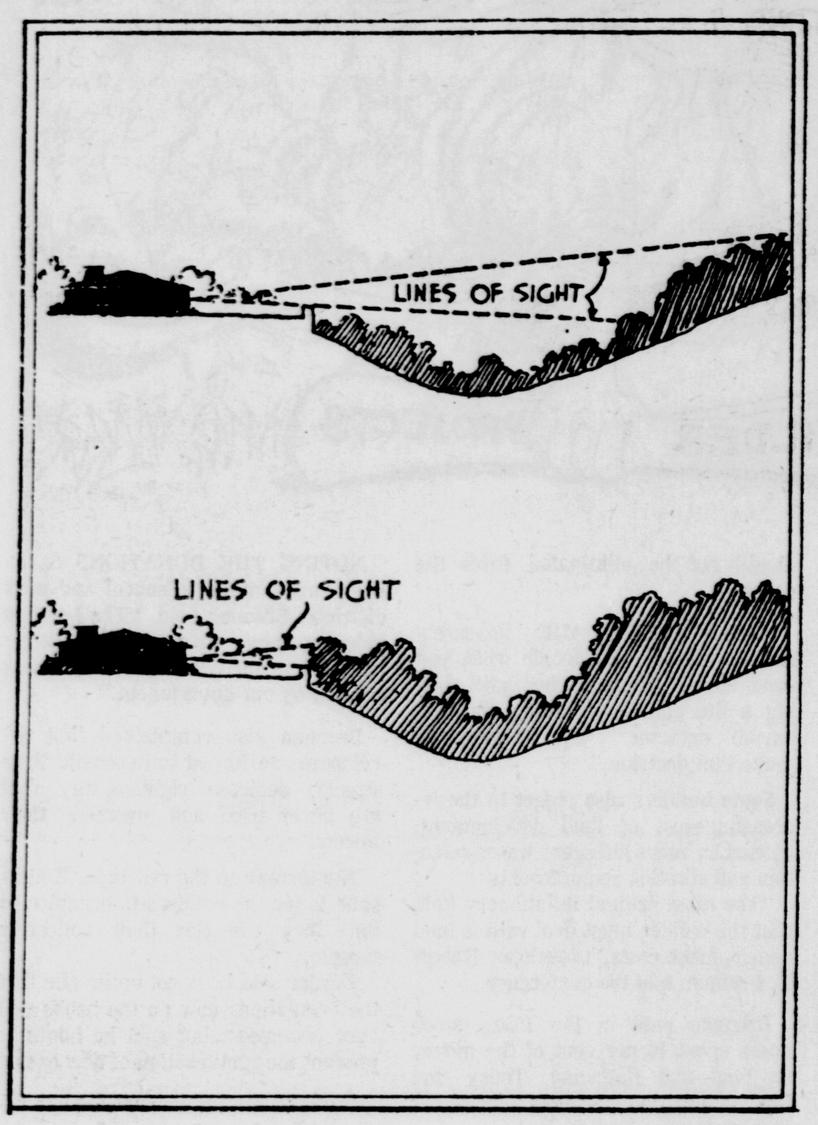
by George Creed

Compared to the total number of homes in America there are relatively few situated where their owners can enjoy scenic views.

If you happen to be one of the fortunate ones, you should value your good fortune and do all you can to prevent any changes that would spoil your views.

It is true that some changes can't be forestalled. If they occur on property not belonging to you, there is usually little you can do unless there is a violation of a local building or zoning ordinance. But you can do something about changes that happen on your own property.

THE TWO SKETCHES in the accompanying plan illustrate a common way in which views are ruined by plant growth. The top sketch shows typical low growth that occurs in meadow land. While this is often attractive, it can develop into a drawback if you allow it to grow too tall. The lower sketch shows how, in time, such growth can finally block your views.



Plant growth is slow and imperceptible, but as long as conditions are favorable it is never ceasing. The trees you see today as a fragile seeding may become a giant tomorrow. If you have undergrowth on your property that threatens to block your pleasant views, clear it away before such clearing becomes a monumental task.

It frequently happens, too, that beautiful scenery is hidden by existing large trees and shrubs. Most people are reluctant to remove large trees — and rightly so under most circumstances. But if you live where tall trees keep you from enjoying pleasant scenic views, sacrificing a few of them could be rewarding.

Kids have own taste in decorating

Kids have surprisingly definite tastes when it comes to the decor of their rooms. "Just any old room simply won't do," said Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co., Boston, a subsidiary of Investors Mortgage Group, Inc.

Goss believes the children of the family count just as importantly as the grown-ups when it comes to the choice of decorating.

"After all, a child's room often lasts from cradle to college — and must comply with his or her comfort plus enjoyment preferences over the years," he said.

When the child is an infant and the room begins as a nursery, then is the opportune time to select and choose furniture — as well as wall and floor coverings — with care.

"A nursery need not be all sugar and spice, pink or blue, with babyish accoutrements. Sturdy, compact cabinets and all-purpose carpeting can be attractive and also serves the purpose better."

Goss said parents should realize their off-spring's room is, in reality, his entire house and that it should reflect the child's interests, and, if possible, his tastes.

"If the room is begun as a functional, cheery place — the carefully chosen pieces of furniture may easily be repainted or recovered at a later date.

"No need to discard baby pieces as the child grows older — just improvise," Goss said.

Practical sleep-study arrangements are growing in favor. A suite, with area for sleeping and another for play and study, is highly appealing as the youngster grows older.

"Key to this tupe of arrangement is a room divider. A sliding door can completely separate the two areas when other children come to play — or when Mom wants to show off the room's decorative aspects," he said.

"Also, if there ae two children who may argue over sharing a room — or who should get the larger room — the divider solves the problem. The suite is now the domain of both."

Do-it-yourself lifestyle in for 24-39-year-olds

"Do-it-yourself and do-it-at-home have become the watchwords for those in the 24-39 year-old age bracket," said Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co., Boston, a subsidiary of Investors Mortgage Group, Inc.

According to Goss, the newest lifestyle features for this group include:

- Two-story housing — townhomes and single-family detached — with traditional styling; wood floors and fireplaces are common denominators.
- Garages which double as workshops and tool rooms — many of whom work not only on gardening and lawn-mowing in their spare time but also on home maintenance and additions.
- Study or activity rooms where hobbies and free-lance pursuits can be comfortably and practically undertaken at home.
- Sophisticated kitchens — the new "luxury" room of the home — where all kinds of meals — hot and cold, outdoors and inside can be masterminded.
- Entertaining in blue jeans "at home" — usually for no more than six or eight people at one time.
- Cooking simple, old-fashioned meals — turkey, roasts and assorted salads and cold plates for main courses — which also often include homemade bread and pastries.
- Shopping for antiques and furnishings at estate sales and auctions; refinishing many pieces at home.
- Using inexpensive plants and greens to highlight interiors — and raising home-grown vegetables whenever possible.
- Making home improvements a family project — and returning to traditional crafts such as quilt-making and sewing for practical and leisure-time purposes.

"These new 'low-budget' trend-setters," Goss said, "are often in the $16,000-and-over earnings level. Among the younger households, renewed interest in do-it-yourself projects and recycling comes as a result of college work in economics, environmental subjects and art."

Private vs. commercial property

Thin tax line can destroy your plans

About real estate
by Don G. Campbell

Private versus commercial. The line drawn between a dwelling that is for one's personal use, and one that is income-producing, is sometimes a fine line, indeed.

But, from a tax standpoint, it can be a line as wide as the Grand Canyon.

DEAR MR. CAMPBELL:

In 1965 my wife and I purchased a converted two-family house with a small apartment for us and another for my wife's sister. In 1970 my wife and I moved into an apartment house and rented the upstairs floor to my daughter, who had recently been married.

MY DAUGHTER agreed to remain in the house until I reached my 65th birthday so that we would escape some taxes on the profit (if any) from the sale of our house. A few years ago we learned that one must use the home as the principal residence for five of the last eight years before the house is sold — which meant, effectively, that we had lost this tax exemption.

We changed our plans and sold the house in 1976 with the intention of buying another home after we moved west, and deferring taxes for part of the capital gains. Now, a friend tells me that he thinks we are not eligible for this tax relief either since the house we sold was considered a commercial property since both floors were rented. Is this correct? Did our renting of a house at cost to my daughter and sister-in-law mean that I now owned a commercial property and not a family residence? Mr. J. J. H. (Phoenix, Ariz.)

ANSWER: Yikes! I'm afraid it does. It's a dirty shame. Who could have foreseen that your generosity in helping out your daughter and your wife's sister would have backfired this way?

Renting the house does, indeed, make it a commercial property and therefore ineligible for the once-in-a-lifetime capital gains break (for persons over the age of 65), and the deferral of capital gains when one buys a replacement house.

IF YOU, YOURSELF, had occupied half the house, of course, then it would have possible to prorate these tax advantages, but as it is I can only say that I'm sorry.

DEAR MR. CAMPBELL:

We are a mother and daughter in a turmoil. My daughter, 33, is raising two children alone and has a pretty good job making about $10,000 a year and a part-time job five nights a week. She pays $200 a month rent. I am 62 years old and average $8,000 a year plus $1,820 support from my husband. I pay $180 a month in rent. My theory is that we should put all our eggs in one basket and buy a two-family house. Now, my daughter and I do not have the down payment for a house and, if I ask my husband that means I would have to make room for him as he lives in one room in a not-good section of town.

Would my daughter's, and my salaries be sufficient for our plans? Also, if my husband would not be willing to go along with loaning us the down payment, is there any other way? Mrs. M. G. McC. (Harrison, N. J.)

ANSWER: I DON'T want to be a wet blanket, but I don't think that the average lender would write a mortgage in this sort of family arrangement unless he had a gun at his head. No offense, but it's all a little too complicated for your normally conservative savings and loan association.

Your best bet is to borrow the money from hour husband, even if it means giving him residence privileges. Other than that your best bet is to find a house, suiting your needs, which is for sale "on contract."

This normally entails no down payment, and your "rent" is applied to equity in it. Until then, of course, you have no more equity in it than a renter does.

DEAR MR. CAMPBELL:

I have my home listed for sale with a broker but a new man at work has shown an interest in it and I may sell it myself. A friend says that if I do, I'll still owe the broker a commission. How can this be? — Mr. W. F. R. (Allentown, Pa.).

ANSWER: BECAUSE A deal is a deal. You might as well direct your new friend at work to your real estate agent and bow out of the picture.

DEAR MR. CAMPBELL:

I rented half of a duplex I own to a man about six months ago and the rent comes promptly every month — but by mail and from a town about 300 miles away. I was surprised to find that there's a man I've never seen before living there. What gives? Mrs. P. P. (Tucson, Ariz.).

ANSWER: Beats me? Is your tenant subleasing it? Don't be shy. Find out who this clown is, and what he's doing in your apartment.

Beautification award given to St. Paul Federal

The City of Rolling Meadows has selected St. Paul Federal for its "Commercial Beautification Award" in recognition of the association's new building at 3901 Kirchoff Rd.

Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland J. Meyer presented the award which was based on environmental beauty and focused on the building's landscaping and maintenance.

Since starting operations in the suburb in December, 1974 in a temporary office, St. Paul has received more than $20 million in new deposits. The permanent building, for which the award was presented, offers customers more than 4,000 square feet of office space, 1,300 safe deposit boxes, and a self contained mortgage department.

'Hydronic heating best'

The optimum in year-round comfort, according to the Better Heating-Cooling Council, is achieved when there is hydronic (hot water) baseboard heating and a separate overhead air conditioning system. Such a set-up follows the scientific principle that heated air rises and cooled air falls.

Because you're different,
we are also.
Come to Starck & Co. for understanding attention that saves time and money.

Selling a home?
Whatever your reasons are for selling, Starck & Co. has more special benefits for you:

A. Buying New Home From Builder?
Our Home Purchase Plan is ideal for people like you. We give you a guaranteed purchase contract for your present home that insures that you will have funds to complete the purchase of the new home when it's ready and know that your old property is positively sold. And Starck & Co. makes the sale so very easy. You go on and live a normal life while we expertly and efficiently market the home. You're free to plan the new colors in the new home and get ready to move.

B. Buying a Larger or Smaller Home?
Change takes place in all our lives. Children arrive, grow up and all too soon depart. Starck & Co. is expert in helping you move up, down or sideways. Our Guarantee Purchase Plan is your assurance that you will never own two homes with double mortgage payments. If we don't sell your home, we'll buy it. The two moves are carefully coordinated by your Starck & Co. Associate and our Closing Dept.

C. Transferred or Leaving the Area?
Hundreds of thousands of families do this very thing every year and maybe you're an old hand at the game. We're a part of RELO, the largest network of quality Realtors in the world (over 3500 branch offices in the U.S. and overseas). Thus, we can help you on both ends. We can help you get important data on your new hometown and put you in touch with a friendly representative from our branch office in that city. Then we can give you a Guarantee Sale contract on your present home so that your equity money will be available when you have selected your new home and are ready to move.

D. Retiring or Moving to an Apartment?
We can help you find a comfortable and efficient rental unit in this area or anywhere in the world, thanks to RELO. Again, our Home Purchase Plan is your assurance that if we don't sell your home that we will buy it.

E. Separating or Divorcing?
You know that you have lots of company these days. Starck & co. is sensitive to the emotional and legal problems that may be involved and will work with care and understanding with you and your attorneys. We'll help you sell the old house quickly and easily and can assist in locating whatever new housing is desired.

Buying a Home?
Starck & Co. knows there are numerous reasons for wanting to buy. We offer unique services that fit your special situation.

A. Ready to Buy Your First Home?
This will be one of the smartest things you have ever done. Home ownership has started millions of American families on the road to happiness and economic savings. A Starck & Co. Associate can compute exactly how much you can afford to purchase and what your monthly savings will amount to . . . you will probably be astounded! We are expert at arranging easy financing that will make it all possible for you . . . our financing connections are the very best.

B. Buying a Larger or Smaller Home?
Has the new baby suddenly made things pretty tight? Has the new promotion made possible a larger home or something in another area? Or have the children gotten married and all of a sudden things are very quiet and empty? Nowadays folks don't live in a home for a lifetime, but buy and sell and move around as their needs change. Again, our Guarantee Purchase Plan makes it easy. And we can help you find a new home anywhere in Chicagoland thanks to RELO.

C. Transferring to Chicagoland?
Welcome to one of the most dynamic and exciting areas in the whole USA. We understand that you have a separate set of problems and may have emotional stress that needs care and consideration. We have a Corporate Relocation Dept. that is geared to handle your every need and provide answers to whatever information you need to make a wise decision. The home we find for you will be one that you will love and cherish, will be a sound investment and can be readily resold.

D. Ready for a Townhome, Condominium or Quad?
These are wonderful solutions for lots of folks and we do a big business in finding just the right property and environment for people like you. We know all about association dues, fees and services so that you will get good sound advice to make a selection that will give you years of comfortable easy living without any unforeseen costs or problems.

E. Investors
We think that real estate is the greatest investment in the world but that doesn't mean that every piece of real estate is a good investment (remember the REIT's?). If you have spare funds that you feel might be invested in real estate, we can advise and assist you. We'll gladly explain the various options you have and what each type of property might do for your investment portfolio. We even publish a monthly Investment Newsletter that keeps you informed about real estate. A call to your nearest Starck & Co. office will put you on our mailing list for this free publication.

Problem in old neighborhoods

Low taxes for declining areas?

As cities decline, properties that were once valuable start to decline also. The following is an example of the dilemma this causes.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I am 70 years old and have lived in the city all my life. I own a large commercial building that used to be occupied by a small, local department store. It is located on a street that was at one time one of the best commercial streets in town.

The store occupied all four floors in the building. Over the years, the neighborhood began to change. The original tenant moved out and I was able to rent the store to a new tenant who occupied the first floor only. The upper floors seemed to have no value any longer.

THE SECOND TENANT eventually went out of business. I next found a second-hand store which occupied the first floor for several years. When they moved I was unable to find another tenant. The building has been empty for four years. I spend a lot of money every year maintaining the insurance, keeping the building secured, and fighting the vandals.

What bothers me is my tax bill. My real estate assessment has gone up steadily over the years. I could understand this when business was good, the neighborhood was strong, and it was easy to maintain a tenant. Now I think it's ridiculous. What can I do? — WILLING TO FIGHT CITY HALL.

Your problem is not uncommon, but is typical of many older areas where values have declined. Your best approach would be to contact the local real estate assessor.

It may be necessary for you to retain a lawyer and a real estate appraiser in order to have your taxes lowered. However, depending upon the amount of money you can save every year, it may be worth it.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: I own a property that was condemned by the local redevelopment authority. I was not happy with the amount of money I was offered.

I hired a real estate appraiser to give me his opinion of the property's worth. Instead of appraising it, he said he would be happy to fight the case against the redevelopment authority, and if he were successful, I would pay him 40 per cent of any additional money he obtained for me.

The appraiser pointed out that this was a very good deal because if he were not successful, I would not owe him anything. Is this proper? — WANT TO BE PROPER.

It is the standard in the industry that many lawyers work on a contingency fee basis. This, however, is not legal for real estate appraisers.

THIS TYPE OF arrangement creates a conflict of interest for the appraiser and could be enough to impeach his testimony if the matter goes to courtroom litigation.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I guess I waited too long to clean out my fireplace. I didn't think we'd have this cold weather so soon. But early or late, it must be done.

In the past, the methods I have used have turned out to be messy and cumbersome. There must be some way to clean out a chimney without all that dirt and gunk. Is there? — NOT TOO MOTIVATED.

The cleanest and easiest way I know to rid the fireplace flue of soot is as follows:

START A FIRE and get it to the point of blazing. Then toss in about three handfuls of salt. Just plain salt! The combination of the salt and the very hot flame will clean much of the soot from the chimney. It may be necessary to follow this procedure several times before it's clean enough to suit you. But you must admit there couldn't be an easier way to accomplish it.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: About 10 years ago we decided to carpet our house and used the best carpeting we could find. It seems as though our investment paid off. Today our carpeting still looks like new, except for the stairs.

The edge of each stair is worn out. Does this mean we must recarpet the whole house? We tried to match the carpeting, but they stopped making that shade about five years ago. — WORN OUT.

You are in luck. The carpeting on the stairs can be lifted and rotated clockwise. In this way, the worn part will now be on the lip underneath the tread, and will be virtually out of sight. This process, known as "reversing the steps," is a common one for a carpet layer, and should not be too expensive. Who knows — maybe you'll get another 10 years out of your carpet.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: I bought a property with intentions of living in it. The couple living in it had no lease, so after settlement took place I gave them notice to move.

By return mail I received a letter from the tenants advising me that the law stated a tenant could live in a property for three years after it was sold.

I immediately contacted my real estate broker. He says he never heard of such a law. This is important to me, and I must be certain before I make a further move. Since you are obviously well informed in all phases of real estate, please set me straight. — AM I STUCK?

Your tenant must think he is pulling the wool over your eyes. Many people are intimidated by persons who act with great authority, right or wrong.

However, you have nothing to worry about in this instance. Simply advise your tenant to move, or that you'll have him evicted!

Change U.S. building policies, Ashley urges

Congressman Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio has called for changes in the nation's housing policies that would provide more and better homes for lower-and middle-income Americans.

In a talk to members of the National Assoc. of Realtors, Ashley suggested increasing federal outlays for new construction to supplement the private marketplace. He also called on the government to provide funding to improve "bad housing," and look at ways of reducing component costs of housing — land, labor, material and financing.

Noting that 25 years ago two-thirds of all American families could afford to make monthly payments on a median-priced new single family home, Ashley said that today "the situation is reversed — and then some."

"WITH THE COST OF the median-priced home having skyrocketed to around $45,000, fewer than 20 per cent of our families can meet the necessary carrying costs," he said.

For this reason, he said that it will be necessary for the government to provide assistance to reduce housing costs, and therefore decrease the monthly payment.

Reductions in the component costs of housing also will help make homes available to a larger segment of the population, he said.

At the same time, he indicated, more attention will be given by government to improving currently bad housing.

Noting that it has been public policy merely to replace deteriorating housing with new units, he said that another "antidote must be the upgrading and preservation of the existing housing stock on a truly significant and effective scale."

This must be done with the assured provision of a full range of supporting neighborhood services and facilities, he said.

"Let me remind you that 90 per cent of all subsidized units between 1968 and 1972 were newly constructed. During that period and since, I've seen few neighborhoods whose deterioration has been abated by this new construction.

"Had 90 per cent of the resources (for subsidized units) been available for habiliatation, twice as many poor families could have moved from substandard to standard housing and entire urban neighborhoods reinforced," he said.

Booklet details vocabulary of housing finance

The language of housing finance, from "AAA tenant" to "zoning ordinance", is explained in the new edition of a handbook published by the Mortgage Bankers Assn. of America (MBA).

"Mortgage Banking Terms — A Working Glossary" has been revised and expanded in its new edition to include recent developments in the housing finance field such as the GNMA futures market. It covers more than 750 terms, ranging from everyday words such as "mortgage" and "tenant" to esoteric jargon such as "estoppel letters" and "novation." Definitions are written in simple, practical terms, understandable to laymen as well as professionals.

The first edition of this popular handbook has sold over 10,000 copies since it was introduced last year. Single copies of the new edition may be purchased from MBA by sending a $5.00 check or money order to the Department of Education and Training, Mortgage Bankers Association of America, 1125 15th Steet N. W., Washington, D.C. 20005. Quantity discounts are available.

Course to give builders chance to start business

An intensive one-week course in all aspects of single-family home building at a New Ventures School Feb. 28-March 4 in Washington, D.C., will provide the opportunity for 20 selected builders to start a business of their own, said George W. DeFranceaux, chairman of The National Housing Partnership.

NHP and its subsidiary, Housing Capital Corp., the sponsors, will provide free tuition, text material, and meals for those chosen to attend the school, which will be taught by a panel of more than 20 experts with practical experience. Graduates will be eligible for joint ventures with HCC throughout the United States.

"NHP realizes that there are many with experience and know-how but lacking in some areas of knowledge who can be assisted by this short concentrated course on 'How to Become an Operative Builder,' " DeFranceaux said.

"AT THE SAME TIME, HCC is anxious to help them get started in a business of their own but wants to make certain that they have the basics necessary to begin right."

Those desiring to attend should send a letter setting forth their reasons and a resume, including business references in housing, to George M. Brady, Jr., President of NHP, 1133 15th Street, N.W., Washington, D. C. 20005, Mr. DeFranceaux said.

The school, which will be held in the National Housing Center, will cover such subjects as market analysis; site selections; working with architects, land planners, engineers, and other professionals; building techniques; financial planning and accounting; construction and mortgage financing; marketing and sales techniques; and joint ventures.

Up to five scholarships providing not only tuition, text material, and meals but also transportation to and from Washington and lodging will be awarded to qualified minority builders, DeFranceaux said.

THE SCHOOL WILL open with a buffet and reception on Sunday evening, Feb. 27, in the Holiday Inn Central, 1501 Rhode Island Avenue, N.W., where the builders will be quartered. It will end at noon on Friday, March 4.

Providing venture capital through a combination of equity investment and subordinated loan, Housing Capital Corporation has enabled builders to start construction on over 2,300 units of sales housing throughout the country during 1976 which might not otherwise have been possible. Many other projects are in various stages of the pipeline, and funds for additional joint ventures are available, DeFranceaux said.

Licensed by the Small Business Administration to operate as a small business investment company, HCC is making available about $10 million to provide working capital to qualified builders. Funds from HCC may be used for land acquisition, administrative and overhead expenses, plans, engineering, offsite improvements, loan fees, and other working capital needs.

Demand for working capital comes not only from smaller builders who lack funds to launch their developments but also from larger builders who lack the necessary capital to expand their production, DeFranceaux explained.

Mid-Suburban gym year opens tonight

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Gymnastics Editor

There may not be as much overall talent as in the past, but the Mid-Suburban League gymnastics competition this year will be as close as ever as 12 teams open league play this evening.

Elk Grove, the defending MSL champion, and Buffalo Grove, the early line choice for supremacy in the North Division, will get acquainted at the Bison's gym in an early test of strength.

Hersey, a perennial tough guy and runnerup in the state last year, will travel to Hoffman Estates. Wheeling's Wildcats, another emerging gymnastics power who have already topped 124 points this year, will be at Rolling Meadows.

CONANT WILL BE at Arlington in a test of rebuilding teams, Prospect will be hosted by Palatine and new Fremd coach Tom Potter will get his first look at his Vikings when they entertain Forest View.

All varsity meets begin at approximately 8 p.m.

"We're going to be tough," said Buffalo Grove coach Dennis Mazur, whose Bison hit 125.92 in an early effort. "We're trying to reach 140 this year and we can do it if everybody improves."

Buffalo Grove was without all-arounder Dewey Deal in their opener but the flashy junior has started working out and will be ready soon.

LEE BATTAGLIA IS the all-around equal of Deal and averaged 7.3 in the first meet.

Buffalo Grove lost tramp men Dennis Breit and Jay Truelson but they are rich in other specialists with the likes of Fred Bista (free ex), Evan Jones (tramp), Marv Snitkoff (high bar), Brian Muenz (high bar) and Brian Griffith (rings.)

Elk Grove coach Fred Gaines is reluctant to predict a repeat of last year's MSL title team but says, "I'm looking for a lot of improvement. There are a lot of basic things we don't have, but there's a really good atmosphere in the gym and I can see improvement already."

GAINES THINKS HIS Grens can live in the 120 neighborhood in their opener and the kids who will produce the points are all-arounders Dick Allen and Bob Hamilton and specialists Don Bosslett (free ex, high bar, P-bars), Doug Phillips (P-bars, rings), Scott Martensen (rings) and Bob Beaupre (side horse).

HERSEY LOST all-arounder Danny Muenz to graduation but head coach Don Von Ebers has a load of talent he is hoping can open around 125-130 and go from there.

"We won't be as powerful as in the past," Von Ebers said, "but we hit 131 in an intrasquad meet and there were very few broken routines."

Jim Huck and Dave Kropp will be handling the all-around duties for Hersey. The Huskies are solid at tramp with Bob Solomon and Bob Siwik. Von Ebers' son Tim will work both tramp and free ex.

Kropp's twin brother Rich will compete in free ex and P-Bars. Other Hersey specialists are Don Dean (rings), Paul Brown (horse), Ed Weinberg (horse), Larry Roberts (rings), Jeff Braddock (high bar and rings), Pat Murphy (high bar) and Ken Oppenheimer (P-Bars).

WHEELING'S DAVE Watters has high hopes for his vastly improved Wildcats.

"We're still looking a little sloppy," Watters said. "But we should be in the mid-130's and into the 140's eventually."

Sophomores Jeff Vanyek and Dino Manus are Wheeling's all-arounders and they will be complemented by specialists Jim Geske (horse), Tim Olson (horse), Jim Slepicka (free ex),

Ali retires—again

'Why go back?' asks the champ

ATLANTA (UPI) — Muhammad Ali insisted Wednesday that his boxing days are over, saying "The worst thing I could do would be to go back into the ring."

"Why go back?" asked the heavyweight champion. "I got out of boxing with my looks and my brains intact. I'm a movie star. And, I have a few million dollars in tax-free bonds."

Ali appeared at a news conference along with baseball's home run champion Hank Aaron to promote a local, black-owned hotel, a new sports Hall of Fame, and his movie, "The Greatest."

STATE SEN. Leroy Johnson, one of the owners of the hotel and the man credited with getting Ali back in the ring in 1970 after he had been banned for his refusal to serve in the armed forces, introduced the pair as, "Two of the greatest sluggers in the world — Hank at the plate and Muhammad Ali in the ring."

"It's hard to be humble when you are the greatest like we are," quipped Ali. Ali was asked if he might return to boxing in some other capacity than a fighter.

"I'm 35," he said. "I've got about 20 years to do what I want to do. I don't want to spend those years in some smelly gym teaching someone else how to box.

"NOW THAT I'm out of boxing, I want to do something to help solve our racial problems, and God," said Ali. "I don't want to be like Howard Hughes, get $2 billion and only have two people come to my funeral."

Ali said he is finding acting, "a snap. You know I'm a good actor, I fooled you people for 10 years. I'm not really cocky. I'm a humble fellow. I had to act like that to sell tickets."

Muhammad Ali disclosed Wednesday that after he fought Jerry Quarry here in Atlanta Oct. 26, 1970 in his first fight in more than three years Johnson's house was shot at and there were a number of threatening telephone calls.

"I NEVER TOLD this before," he said. "But, after that night after the fight here, some rednecks drove past Sen. Johnson's house and fired shots. There were calls telling me I'd better get out of town if I wanted to stay alive."

Ali said he was considering putting some money in the $9 million black-owned hotel which is located across the street from Atlanta Stadium and has been running below 50 per cent occupancy.

"Especially if my movie goes as well as we think it will," he said. "We're expecting it to make about $100 million, and I get 33 per cent."

"IT BOTHERS ME that so few people know about this hotel (Atlanta Internationale)," said Ali. "I can trip and break a toe and get publicity all over the world, but nobody knows that this is the largest black-owned hotel in the world.

"Making something like this hotel successful is a forward step in race relations," he said. "It's a far cry from the day when militant blacks were talking about burning down the country instead of building it up."

Ali said he will be donating many of the things from his boxing career to the Hall of Fame scheduled to open here early in 1977, including gloves, shorts, robes and the like used in championship fights. Proceeds from the Hall of Fame go to the Hank Aaron Scholarship fund which has already helped several hundred blacks attend college.

"IT'S APPROPRIATE that another great like Hank Aaron would want me to help promote a great sports concept," said Ali.

Aaron, called upon after Ali clowned through 30 minutes, spoke briefly.

"That's some act to follow," he said.

Bruins dump Hawks, 5-3

Jean Ratelle scored two goals and assisted on another to lead the Boston Bruins to their 10th win in 13 games, a 5-3 victory over Chicago Wednesday night.

Ratelle notched his first goal midway in the second period when Chicago goalie Tony Esposito was caught out of his net and scored on a short shot at 13:49 of the third period to close out the Bruins' scoring.

Linemates Johnny Bucyk and Bobby Schmautz drew assists on both goals and Bucyk scored his seventh goal of the season early in the final period. Dallas Smith and Brad Park had Bruin goals also. Smith left the game after the second period for treatment of a broken nose.

Darcy Rota had two tallied and Dennis Hull scored his seventh of the season for Chicago.

Second period goals by Carol Vadnais and Greg Polis, a pair of third period goals by Don Murdoch and the superb goaltending of John Davidson gave the New York Rangers a 4-1 victory Wednesday night over the Washington Capitals and stretched their unbeaten string to six games.

New York dominated play throughout the first period, outshooting Washington 12-5, but trailed 1-0 going into the second period on Guy Charron's 15th goal 11:27 into the game.

Vadnais evened the score at 4:22 of the second period with his second goal of the year and Polis put the Rangers ahead at 10:32 after chasing down a loose puck in Washington's end. Polis passed it to Murdoch, who sent it to Walt Tkaczuk. Tkaczuk's shot rebounded out to Polis, who rammed it past goalie Ron Low from five feet for the winner.

A three-goal performance by right winger Lanny McDonald powered Toronto to its fourth consecutive victory Wednesday night as the Maple Leafs claimed a 6-3 triumph over the Los Angeles Kings.

The high-flying McDonald began his hat trick quest at 1:34 of the first period with a 35-foot blast between King goalie Rogie Vachon's legs. His second marker in the same period came at 10:31 on a high wrist shot to Vachon's left.

MARK FIDRYCH, named Wednesday the American League's Rookie of the Year, relaxes at his Northboro, Mass., home with pet dogs Domino and Lady.

Will success change Rookie of the Year?

NORTHBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Will success change Mark Fidrych, named Wednesday as American League Rookie of the Year?

No way, says Fidrych, whose on-the-mound antics earned him as much publicity as his 19 victories for the Detroit Tigers.

"I'll still be talking to the ball and doing the same things next year. Why change? I'm doing all right," said the curly topped sensation in an interview from his Northboro home, where he plans to spend most of the winter "hanging around with my buddies."

THE 22-YEAR-OLD righthander said he had no immediate reaction to the honor because "It hasn't hit me yet. I haven't accepted the fact that I've been named."

Fidrych just now is facing the reality of what has happened since last year this time, when he was pumping gas in a local filling station. He was invited to the Tigers' spring training camp in 1976 after compiling an 11-10 mark with three minor league teams the previous season.

"I thought they probably would send me to Triple A ball but they said they wanted me to play for them," said Fidrych, who was nicknamed "The Bird" because of the way he claws at the pitching mound with hands and feet.

AND PLAY HE DID, compiling a 19-9 mark and 2.34 earned run average while helping the Tigers to their best seasonal attendance mark in several years.

Following his first-year success, Fidrych became involved with the William Morris talent agency, for whom he makes special promotional appearances, But every chance he gets, Fidrych returns to his parents' home 50 miles west of Boston.

"I did a little hunting in the Detroit area after the season with (former Tiger) Jeff Northrop and some other people and then came home," said Fidrych, dressed in his usual outfit of blue jeans and colored tee-shirt. "I'm not going to do that much this winter. I've got to have a little time to myself."

Life in Northboro still is quiet for Fidrych, despite his new-found fame. The townsfolk know him too well to make a fuss over him.

"THEY ALL TREAT me the same way. When I go to a bar, I still pay for my own beers. And my friends don't ask me to buy their beer. I just pay for the limit I can drink."

He could afford to buy the local bar after negotiating his own three-year contract with the Tigers.

Now that he is known around the league and is well paid for his pitching, Fidrych could feel more pressure heading into his second season. But, as usual, he tosses off such thoughts like just one more cold beer.

"I don't worry. All I want to do next year is win one or two more games than I did this year. But whatever happens, happens."

The question, then, is not whether success will spoil Fidrych but whether the new clown prince of baseball will give success a different meaning.

Toledo stuns IU; DePaul wins in OT

Toledo's Rockets, ahead by as many as 13 points in the second half as Stan Joplin scored 21 points, Wednesday night ended Indiana's 33-game winning streak by handing the defending national champion Hoosiers a 59-57 setback.

Indiana pulled even with Toledo, 49-49, with 6:10 left in the game, but then the Rockets scored six straight points and held a six-point lead until the final 26 seconds.

Joe Ponsetto's pair of free throws with seven seconds left to play in overtime Wednesday night gave DePaul a 75-73 victory over Northwestern.

Dave Corzine was DePaul's leading scorer with 21 points and he grabbed 13 rebounds. Ponsetto and guard Ron Norwood added 16 points each.

Northwestern guard Billy McKinney led all scorers with 24 points to pace the Northwestern attack, with freshman reserve center Mike Campbell adding 13.

Substitute center Terry Burris scored 25 points Wednesday night and visiting Ohio State won its second straight game of the season, 74-62, over Evansville.

Marquette's No. 1 ranked basketball team opened its season with an overwhelming 80-39 win over St. Leo of Florida as the Warriors' Bo Ellis scored 17 points.

Purdue's 7-foot freshman center, Joe Barry Carroll, came off the bench Wednesday night to lead the Boilermakers to their first victory of the season over Butler, 77-56.

Don "Duck" Williams pumped home 24 points in only 30 minutes of action Wednesday night to lead Notre Dame to a 93-67 win over California Polytechnic-Pomona.

Walter Davis scored 17 points and Tomy LaGarde added 16 to enable third-ranked North Carolina to overcome a sluggish first half Wednesday night in a 90-70 victory over Marshall.

Forward Reggie King's close-in shooting and center Rickey Brown's long jumpers Wednesday night powered Alabama to a 90-66 victory over South Carolina.

Seventh-ranked Louisville opened its season with a scare Wednesday night, but guards Larry Williams and Phil Bond each scored a pair of baskets in overtime to lead the Cardinals to an 81-76 decision over Vanderbilt.

Alvin Dark joins Cub staff

CHICAGO — The Chicago Cubs have hired former Oakland A's manager Alvin Dark to be the club's first base coach for the 1977 season, a Cubs spokesman said Wednesday.

Dark played for the Cubs in 1957 and 1958 and was a member of the Cubs' coaching staff in 1965. He is one of only three managers to have won pennants in both major leagues, leading the Giants to the National League crown in 1962 and the Oakland A's to the American League title in 1974.

The Cubs also hired Harry "Peanuts" Lowrey as third base coach for the coming season. He was a coach with the Cubs during 1970 and 1971 and has 13 years of coaching experience. He played with the Cubs from 1942 to 1949.

Tony Garafalo was selected as trainer for the 1977 season, the Cubs said. He had been in the St. Louis Cardinals organization for five years, the last three as trainer for the Little Rock AA affiliate.

Tanner fills coaching holes

PITTSBURGH — Two assistants from his Oakland managerial days, a Pirate holdover and a Bucs' minor league coach make up the coaching staff announced today by new Pittsburgh Pirates manager Chuck Tanner.

Tanner, who came to the Pirates in a deal with A's owner Charlie Finley for catcher Mannie Sanguillen and $100,000, brought Joe Lonnett from his A's staff to serve as third base coach and Al Monchak to serve as first base coach and infield instructor.

Tanner asked Jose Pagan, a member of former manager Danny Murtaugh's staff, to return as bullpen coach, and brought up the Bucs' minor league pitching coach, Larry Sherry, to handle the pitching staff.

President Ford invited to Crosby

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. — President Ford has been invited to play in the $240,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am golf tournament in January, it was disclosed Wednesday.

A spokesman for Del Monte Properties, which operates Pebble Beach and serves as host for the tournament, said an invitation has been extended "but no official word of his playing has reached us."

The White House press office said only that "there is no announcement" concerning what Ford will do.

Pitt's Majors still thinking

NEW YORK — University of Pittsburgh football coach Johnny Majors said Wednesday he has not yet decided whether to accept an offer to become the head coach at Tennessee where he was an All-American.

Tennessee has offered Majors a chance to return home following the resignation last month of Vol coach Bill Battle.

Majors, who appeared with Heisman Trophy winner Tony Dorsett on the NBC-TV Today show, said he had met with both Tennessee and Pitt officials.

"I sure haven't," he replied when asked if he had reached a decision.

George Earnshaw dead at 76

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. — Former major league pitcher George L. Earnshaw, a three-time 20-game winner with Connie Mack's last great Philadelphia Athletic teams in 1929-30-31, died Tuesday in a Little Rock hospital. He was 76.

Earnshaw went to the old Philadelphia Athletics in 1928 from Baltimore, a season in which he was 7-7. At Philadelphia, he had seasons of 24-8, in 1929, 22-13 in 1930 and 21-7 in 1932. All three were pennant winning years and the A's won two of the World Series in which they participated.

Ex-Bull 'Butterbean' bags bucket

Bob "Butterbean" Love, late of the Chicago Bulls, contributed one basket to the cause as he played his first game for the New York Nets in their 106-96 loss to the Phoenix Suns.

Elsewhere around the NBA the Philadelphia 76ers trimmed the road-weary Denver Nuggets, 114-102, Portland held off Indiana, 101-100, the New Orleans Jazz out tooted Milwaukee 126-105 and the Boston Celtics edged Seattle, 107-103.

Paul Westphal scored 15 second-quarter points and Phoenix withstood a late New York rally as the Suns defeated the Nets, 106-96, Wednesday night.

Westphal's second-quarter outburst, aided by Alvan Adams' seven points, helped Phoenix break a 25-25 tie and take a 57-40 halftime lead.

Phoenix increased its lead to 74-53 three minutes into the third quarter, but the Nets, behind Nate Archibald, Al Skinner and Rich Jones pulled to within 89-83 with 7:03 left in the game.

THEN NEW YORK reverted to its cold shooting of the first half and Phoenix converted eight foul shots down the stretch.

Pete Maravich scored 38 points and six other Jazz players scored in double figures to lead New Orleans to a 126-105 over the hapless Milwaukee Bucks Wednesday night.

MARAVICH, THE NBA'S leading scorer with 29.9 points per game average, scored 12 points each in the first and third quarters to help the Jazz pull away from the Bucks, who have yet to win on the road this season. It was Milwaukee's 19th loss in 23 games.

Four free throws by Jo Jo White and two by Sidney Wicks in the last 44 seconds Wednesday night gave the Boston Celtics a 107-103 victory over the Seattle Super-Sonics.

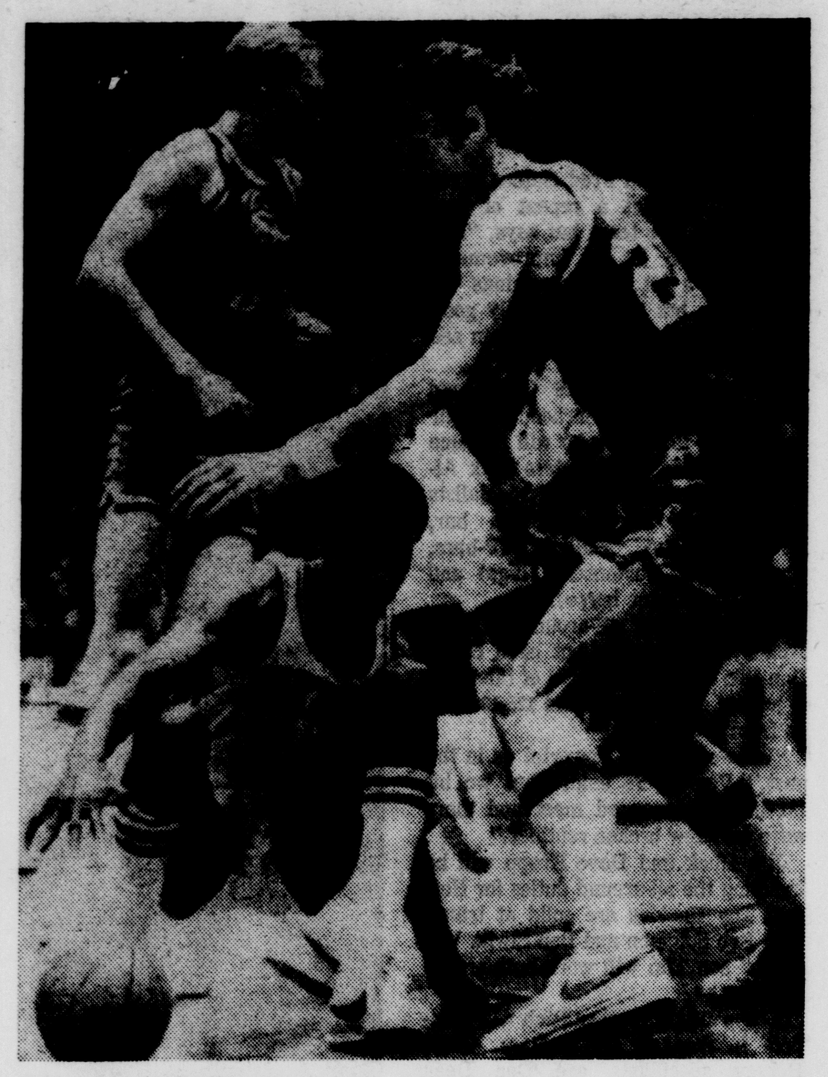
With the score tied 97-97 and about two minutes remaining, a Tom Boswell stuff put Boston up by two points, but Fred Brown tied it on a long jumper. Wicks again put Boston ahead with two free throws, but Brown again evened it up, 101-101.

Brown led all scores with 36 points and Mike Green added 17 for Seattle. Backcourt mates Charlie Scott and White led the Celtics with 19 points each, Wicks added 18 and Curtis Rowe 14.

George McGinnis broke out of a shooting slump with 30 points Wednesday night and made four straight steals to lead a third-quarter spurt that gave the Philadelphia 76ers a 114-102 NBA victory over the Denver Nuggets.

The Nuggets, down 54-47 at halftime, cut the margin to three points early in the third quarter but McGinnis cut into the rally with four of the six steals he had for the night and the 76ers scored eight straight points to put the game away.

DAVE TWARDZIK sank two free throws with six seconds to go Wednesday night to stymie Indiana's comeback as the Portland Trailblazers trimmed the Pacers, 101-100 in National Basketball Association play.



CALDWELL JONES (11) of the Philadelphia 76ers retrieves the ball from Gus Gerard of the Denver Nuggets as Dan Issel (44) turns away. The Sixers won, 114-102.

H.A.'s Pet and Momentum, both opening round winners in the $125,000 Maywood Pacing Series, are expected to make second round starts this weekend in the rich series at Maywood Park.

Director of Racing Ted Leonard said the purse Friday night would be $25,000, and if there were enough entrants, a second division would go on Saturday for an identical $25,000. The value of the series would then climb to 150,000. The $50,000 final round for the top eight money earners in the series is set for Friday, Dec. 10.

H.A.'s Pet was a surprise winner for Jerry Graham in the opening round. A $100,000 stakes winner in California last fall, H.A.'s Pet had won only six races before surging through the stretch to win in 1:59-4/5.

MOMENTUM, competing in the second division of the opening round, led all the way for Dale Ross, registering a victory in 2:00-1/5. Momentum will return to Maywood this week. The four-year-old Fulla Napoleon colt will have competed in the $100,000 American Pacing Classic at Hollywood Park in the interim.

Keystone Model and Boehm's Eagle, two of the nation's top pacers in the Billy Haughton Stable, are expected to make their first series starts this weekend. Both standardbreds have sub-2:00 records, while Boehm's Eagle went faster than 1:57 in a time trial this year. Keystone Model just won in 1:57-4/5 in California.

New Zealand imports, Why Bill and Tricky Dick N, have been having good seasons in the United States. Why Bill has won 14 of 32 starts, including four of seven Maywood starts with two of the miles in identical 1:59-2/5 timings. Tricky Dick N finished second to H.A.'s Pet in his one Maywood start but put together a string of three sub-2:00 miles at Hollywood Park in the past month.

MIRROR IMAGE, 1975 Series champion, and Derbys Gent, winner in 1:58 in his fastest mile of this year, are Canadian-owned series entrants.

The concluding round Dec. 10 will be the latest date of decision for the championship since the series started 10 years ago. Except for a week of charity racing, there has been no December racing in Cook County up to now.

Just call him P.L. Newman, race car driver

Jim Murray

I interviewed a race driver the other day so good-looking that, if they made a film of his life, they'd have to get Paul Newman to do justice to it.

If you saw him in a race car you would immediately look around for the camera, the director, or the process screen in back of him. They'd get a double for the racing scenes.

The eyes are sea blue, the hair curly. He'd make a perfect Butch Cassidy or Hud or The Hustler. But he's probably the only guy in America who doesn't want to be Paul Newman.

ON THE other hand, there isn't much he can do about it. He is Paul Newman.

He's also "P. L. Newman," the man in Car 75 on the sports car circuits of America. He's not just a dilettante racer but the real article, a regular at Dayton, Pocono, Lime Rock and Road Atlanta. In fact, he's a national champion. He won the title and the President's Cup at Atlanta this year in a runoff of D Class champions from seven districts of the U.S. (He was the New England district champion.)

And, in Paul Newman's next production, the love interest is going to be a gorgeous hunk of Italian machinery that can make his heart pound faster than Sophia Loren or Gina Lollobrigida together — a red-painted seductress from the Ferrari factory.

Hollywood takes a dim view of its leading men being real-life race drivers. Enough of them have been killed in fast cars or falling planes as it is, without asking for it. Their reasoning is, one crash and Newman might have to start taking on character roles. I mean, what if his eyes turned brown?

BUT THE new Hollywood has no control over its assets. There is no L. B. Mayer, no moguls to bribe mechanics to jimmy up a car so it will stop running on the parade lap. Robert Redford skis, Steve McQueen races. Nobody goes to nightclubs or plays polo or has yachts any more.

Lots of people get hooked on racing through movies. But Newman is the only one who did well starring in one. He made "Winning," a moderately-successful flick by Newman standards, some years ago, and the time he spent tooling around Orange County Airport taking high-performance driving lessons from Bob Bondurant, he found more fun than kissing Elizabeth Taylor.

Paul "Butch" Newman

"It was marvelous. I would guess it is the feeling you would get running 100 yards with a football through the entire other team. Or climbing an unclimbed mountain. It's a free feeling. I don't know anything to compare with feeling a finely tuned car responding to your wishes and your competition."

Newman has even raced for speed records at Bonneville. He has hung cars on fences, spun, rolled, and once hit a tree out of control when his brakes gave out at 140 m.p.h. "It was a right-hand drive — a British Ford Escort model. If it had been a left-hand drive, I wouldn't be here today," he says.

NEWMAN DRIVES principally a TR-6 and a Datsun sedan in his sprint races. Friends thought the fancy would be passing, that as soon as he began losing races the passion would cool. Only trouble was, he didn't begin losing. Others suspected a complicated publicity stunt. But Newman frequently drives in non-spectator races ("The most fun of all," he says) and insists on being listed in the program as "P. L. Newman."

At 51, Newman's eyesight is 20/15 or about what Ted Williams' was when he was batting .406. He has a 30-inch waist, and stays in shape at a gym. And he likes to spend his weekends at 140 m.p.h.

An actor who refuses to give interviews on acting ("I'm bored with all that bullsweat"), he will talk endlessly about a Datsun engine, or how to get one tenth of a second faster laps. He shows pictures of his cars like a grandmother showing pictures of her granddaughters. It's not the smell of greasepaint which excites this thespian, it's the smell of the castor oil or the high-octane fuel; it's not the roar of the crowd but the roar of the Ferrari.

Still, you have to wonder if it would play in Dubuque. Can't you see Solly phoning up C.B. with the excited idea, "C.B., baby, have I got the storyline for you! We have this actor who's rich, handsome, successful, houses on both coasts, and these big blue eyes, curly hair, crooked little grin. Every woman in America is crazy about him. Hell, in the world! They name babies after him, and send him mash notes, and he's nominated for 10 Academy Awards. Only, he throws it all aside to go out and run in these auto races! Boss, is that a picture?! I ask you?!"

THERE'LL BE a scream at the other end of the phone. "Solly, have you gone mad, lost your senses? Who'd believe it? Who would play it? Next, you're gonna try to tell me Paul Newman! Solly, take two aspirins and forget it. I wouldn't wish that plot on Disney."

AIMING TO TIME, not kill, is police officer during a timing exercise at Biscayne Dog Track in Miami. Track officials asked the officer to use the handheld radar gun for running speeds on various parts of the track. The fastest dog was clocked at 42 m.p.h.

Ask Andy

Mercury, tiniest planet, lacks a moon

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Cindy Blythe, 13, of Matthews, N.C., for her question:

DOES MERCURY HAVE A MOON?

Our solar system is made up of nine planets, the sun and some 33 planetary satellites called moons. The moons are not distributed evenly among the planets — Jupiter, the largest planet, has 13. Saturn, the second largest planet, also has the second largest number of moons — 10.

If you have guessed that the third largest planet also has the third largest number of moons, pat yourself on the back. Uranus is No. 3 in size and ranks third in the "number of moons" category with five. After Uranus, however, the number of natural satellites per planet dwindles. Neptune has two moons, as does Mars, and Earth has but one. Three planets — Pluto, Venus and Mercury — have no moons at all.

Mercury is the smallest planet in our solar system. Its diameter is about 3,100 miles, making it about two-fifths as large as the Earth and about half again as large as our moon. In 1974 Mariner X, a U.S. spacecraft, passed within 460 miles of Mercury's surface and provided us with a great deal of information about the planet.

From pictures sent back from the Mariner spacecraft it was learned that the surface of Mercury is surprisingly similar to that of our own moon. It reflects about 6 per cent of the sunlight it receives, but it is so far away that it appears as a tiny dot in our telescopes. At times Mercury can be seen just after sunset, low in the western sky. At other times it can be seen just before sunrise in the eastern sky.

Mercury is a hot, dry and almost airless planet. If you were visiting there, the sun would appear to be about two and a half times as large as it does from Earth. It is not too likely that you would be comfortable there as temperatures range from 800 degrees F. during the day to a low of -300 degrees F. on the dark side of the planet.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Mark Gorz, 14, of Rhinelander, Wis., for his question:

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to Ask Andy in care of The Herald, P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries open to girls and boys 7 to 17.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

The bidding at both tables back in 1930 was the same as it would be today. West's double of one club was made on minimum values, as was North's bid of one spade. When South jumped to three clubs, he played it there.

Both West players got off to an ace of hearts lead and continued with a heart to partner's king. Each East led a third heart and after a little worry each declarer ruffed with the eight of trumps. Then they played ace and queen of clubs and would end up making three clubs as bid.

A simple hand indeed, yet the 1930 analysts felt that North might have tried a three-notrump bid and pointed out that assuming that East made his normal opening lead of the deuce of hearts and that West did not shift to a spade the game would make.

This 1930 analysis was reasonably accurate, but not entirely so. West could also beat North's three notrump contract by playing his nine of hearts after a low heart was played from dummy in the South. Then, when he got in he would cash his ace of hearts, dropping dummy's 10 and lead a third heart to give East tricks with the king and eight over North's queen-seven.

A Canadian reader wants to know if it is ever proper to make a forcing jump response with a four-card suit.

The answer is that some hands such as those with 19 high-card points or more cry out for such action. If you don't also hold a five-card suit, you may want to jump with a four-carder.

PICTURES THAT are actually energy saving electric radiant heaters are designed to hang on the wall of any cold room.

'Hot art' helping to save energy through heaters

Hot art — pictures that really are heaters — are conserving energy across the country as a small New Mexico manufacturer of electric radiant heaters goes nationwide with its new consumer products.

The 2 by 3 foot heaters are 1 inch deep and designed by Aztech International Ltd. to hang on the wall and provide supplemental heat for offices, dens, TV rooms, basements, underheated bedrooms and any other indoor areas where people are cold. Each heater uses only 500 watts, or half a kilowatt per hour, approximately one third the energy required by electric portables with hot wires and fans.

Various decorative designs are silk screened at the factory on the front surface of the heaters to turn them into attractive art. Aztech even sells blank white picture heaters so artists can create their own images with water based paints.

ACCORDING TO LARRY Hood, Vice President — Engineering and Manufacturing for Aztech, the picture heaters are so effective because a patented crystalline surface makes them almost totally radiant and disperses the radiant warmth in a wide arc the way a light diffuser operates. Because of their low surface temperature, the heaters can be touched without danger.

Radiant heaters work the way the sun does, heating people and objects without blowing air and without directly heating the air. Actually, all warm objects, including people, radiate their warmth to all colder objects, Hood says, "Picture heaters were designed to restore radiant warmth to people in cold indoor surroundings to keep their bodies in balance and therefore comfortable," he said.

Convective heaters, which represent the vast majority of all present electric portable heater sales, heat the air first, which in turn warms people and objects, "but it takes much more energy to reach the same personal comfort level heating in this manner," Hood said, pointing out that "hot air rises, but heat does not . . and many times people are using energy to heat the air which ends up heating a ceiling that didn't need to be heated in the first place."

"Home owners can keep thermostats at lower levels, then use radiant picture heaters to provide personal warmth in the specific areas of the house they're using at any particular time. By turning thermistats down from 75 to 68 degrees, as much as 25 per cent of a home owner's heating bill can be saved. A lower thermostat setting will save even more," he says.

Picture heaters are being test marketed under the Aztec label in department stores in Dever, Salt Lake City, Spokane, Seattle, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Atlanta and under "Radiant Sun Panel" label Sears Roebuck & Company stores in Albuquerque, Santa Fe, Denver, Ft. Collins, Colorado Springs and selected markets in 19 other states.

Radiant picture heaters are being previewed in six Sears stores in the Chicago area this fall in Niles and Schaumburg.

THE QUIET AISLES of the library were more appealing to Cathy Bond than the solitude of her Arlington Heights apartment, and when her son Eric was born, she didn't want to give up her job. The solution: husband Dave attends night school full-time and keeps the home fires burning during the day. Both parents say Eric will benefit from the experiment.

Parents reverse roles

For them the best of both worlds

by LAURA SCHMALBACH

Diaper-changing, balloon-blowing, and cootchy-cooing aren't always synonomous with motherhood — just ask Dave and Cathy Bond.

Dave, the father of 4-month-old Eric, knows all about comparison shopping and the importance of favorite blankets. As chief cook and bottle-washer while his wife Cathy handles overdue books at the Buffalo Grove High School library, he's well acquainted with "motherhood" — and loves it.

While Dave fixes dinner and entertains Eric, his wife works full-time as a librarian, an occupation which she "wouldn't give up for the world." After hours, she relishes her evenings with Eric, cheerfully pitches in with the workload on weekends and readily admits, "I'm lucky . . . I don't know many men who would be willing to do this."

FOR DAVE AND Cathy, the role reversal they started shortly after the baby's birth in June was less a sociological experiment than it was "the only smart thing to do."

"I really liked my job, and I hadn't been there long enough to qualify for maternity leave," explains Cathy. "My pregnancy was a surprise, to say the least, and it upset me whenever I seriously thought about staying home."

Dave, on the other hand, was dissatisfied with his job as a copywriter and anxious to hit the books full-time as a candidate for a master's degree in business administration. The enticements of extra holidays, study time and a much happier wife clinched the deal, and after a three-month transition period during summer vacation, Cathy headed back to work while Dave tended the home fires.

THE BONDS' CURRENT schedule is a hectic one — the threesome has about 15 minutes for dinner Monday through Wednesday before Dave catches a train to Loyola University's night classes — but both parents are satisfied with their lifestyles.

"I really get a kick out of this," says Dave as he makes a face at his young fan. "It's funny . . . at first I thought I'd be occupied with my own interests, but I'm much more emotionally attached than I thought I'd be. There's been a real awakening of feeling, and it's not just maternal. You can't imagine how great it is to have this toothless grin stare up at you."

"I like making my own rules, and the solitude is great. When I started, I had this picture of a harried housewife with a bandana and a screaming kid at her side, and it's just not like that. I've got my artwork and my studies, and I'm having a ball."

FOR DAVE, "HAVING a ball" means a day that starts at 6 o'clock with the baby's breakfast. He alternates studying with Eric (though "when he smiles at me, those books disappear") until 3:30, when it's time to start dinner for Cathy's return at 5.

Cathy proudly points out that her husband is a whiz in the kitchen, though most of the heavier housekeeping chores around the cheery, plant-filled apartment are shared on the weekends.

"I haven't gotten caught up in the 'Good Housekeeping' syndrome yet, and it's Cathy who reads all the child-rearing books," he chuckles.

"Housekeeping isn't any thrill, though cooking is more fun because it's creative," he continues. "I could spend hours making snide comments about the television shows, and if you don't have any imagination, you could easily develop a warped sense of reality. One day Cathy called from work to see how things were going, and I realized that hey, here I am, 28 years old, blowing up balloons . . ."

"BUT THAT WAS only once," adds his wife emphatically. "It was Dave who was the liberated one at first, and it's all worked out. I'd always assumed that I'd settle down and quit my job when the children were born, but now I don't have any second thoughts about leaving Eric. It might be a different story if we'd had to hire a babysitter, but now Dave's the real mother here."

Cathy admits to a heavy reliance on her husband for advice on crying jags and favorite toys, and she says it's a little strange when an evening with friends includes Dave's braggadocio about Eric's latest accomplishments.

Even so, she feels just as close to her baby with the toothless grin as her husband does, and she declares she's a firm believer in quality over quantity.

"WE HAVE THE best of both worlds," she says. "I feed Eric every night and spend several hours with him before his bedtime . . . I'm definitely not a stranger!"

Has the burden of flaunting tradition taken a toll on the Bonds in the form of guilt complexes, dismayed parents and frustrated egos?

Not on your life, the couple reply. Both sets of in-laws are supportive of the venture, and several friends have cheerfully given their sanction as well ("but I don't think they'd try it themselves . . . the male macho thing is still pretty strong," remarks Cathy).

The reaction at the library was mixed, Cathy reports. Most of her co-workers thought the switch was a great idea, but several students were unusually quiet and reserved when she returned to school for the fall term . . . they'd assumed the baby had died because she was back at work.

FOR THE PARENTS themselves, life has gone on in much the same fashion as it did before the switch . . . with the minor exception of a "very well-behaved" addition.

"I'd been on my own for several years, so I know my way around a house," says the ex-Navy man. "I've always thought of it as a privilege to have help, so I've never considered not sharing the duties."

"It did take a while to adjust to Eric . . . having a baby around sure doesn't fit the Dewey Decimal system. The first two weeks were a big adjustment — I kept asking myself, 'Where is the instruction manual with this thing?' "

But now, a few months later, Dave is an old hand with baby food and overcooked potatoes. He'll finish his studies in a year, and after graduation, who knows?

"I'D LOVE IT IF Dave went back for another degree until Eric is old enough to start day care," says Cathy with a grin. "But I realize that it's easier because it's only for a year. I think it would be a lot harder for people to accept if this went on indefinitely."

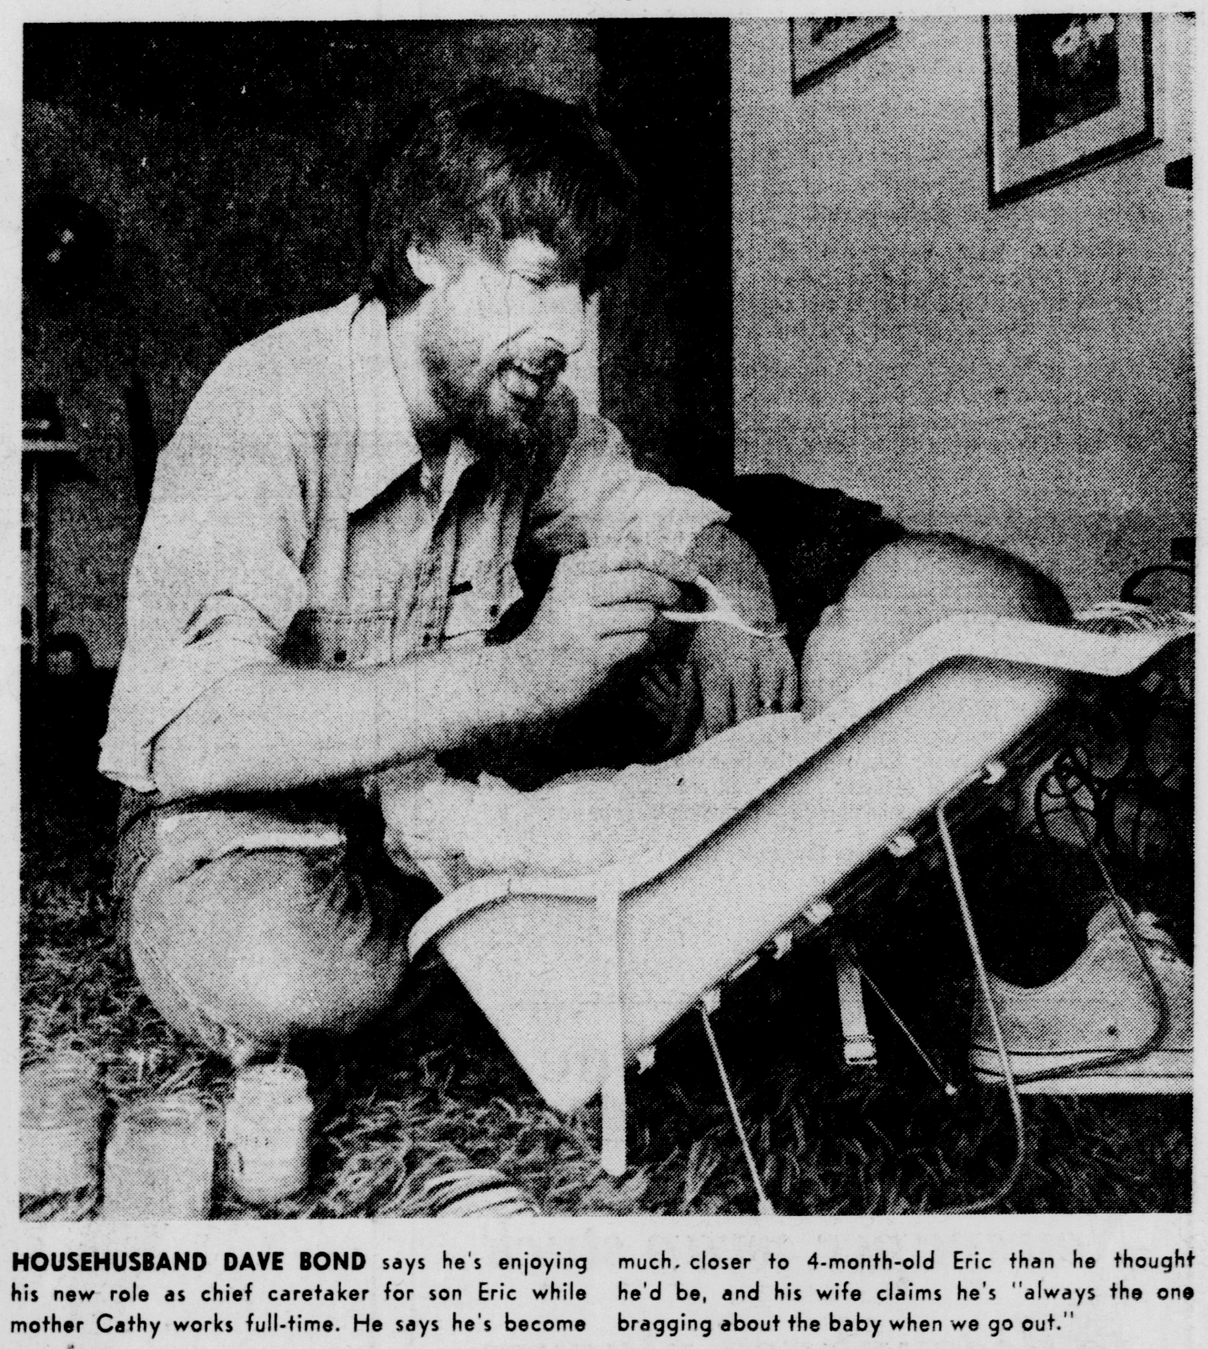
Any chance of that?

Despite his current satisfaction with the stay-at-home life, Dave admits that "this is rather limiting, and I would like to experience different things. I've never been a rah rah type for the corporate state, but it is fascinating, and I'd like to play some kind of role in it."

And Cathy adds that "at some point, I would like to stay home for a year, simply because I've never done it."

WHATEVER THE AGENDA, one thing is certain, say the Bonds: Eric will benefit from the switch.

"Eric and I are going to have a relationship that is really different," says his proud father. "I'm interested in every facet of his development, and my working again isn't going to break that off. Eric is going to be better off, and he'll see us as an example. We'll just have to let him know that not everybody lives that way!"



HOUSEHUSBAND DAVE BOND says he's enjoying his new role as chief caretaker for son Eric while mother Cathy works full-time. He says he's become much closer to 4-month-old Eric than he thought he'd be, and his wife claims he's "always the one bragging about the baby when we go out."

WEEKENDS ARE FAMILY times at the Bond household. Art projects and housecleaning trade off as Cathy Bond takes a respite from her librarian post and husband Dave gets a break from full-time diaper-changing. The Bonds' role switch started in August and has been "a great success," they say.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Prune juice habit won't do any harm

I am 71 years old. I have been drinking prune juice for the last few years every other morning and I feel fine.

I want to know if it is safe for my bowels. Nothing seems to help. I've tried all kinds of bran, eat vegetables and fruit but no help.

No, the prune juice will not hurt you. Lots of people use it. In many people it is not an adequate substitute for needed bulk in the diet. The best bulk comes from cereal fiber. One has to eat a lot of vegetables or fruit to get much fiber from them.

Also there is a lot more to managing a stubborn bowel problem than just using bran. If you are having trouble, you should let your doctor help you. Try to avoid the laxative and enema habit.

Meanwhile, I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation, to give you more information on bowel function. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your request to me in care of Paddock Publications, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

I read your column on diabetes and the eye and was wondering if that woman could not have her eyes treated with the laser to save her eyesight.

I am especially interested in this because I have had a laser treatment for a detached retina. Perhaps you can mention it in your column and give some hope to diabetics.

The column you sent me had been edited removing part of the original column. The woman was interested in whether new glasses would correct her problem. Glasses will not correct the diabetic changes in the eye.

Laser beams have been very successful in treating part of the problem in diabetics. The treatment is used to prevent excessive growth of new bood vessels that overgrow the retina at the back of the eye. When detachment of the screen or retina occurs, it can be used to tack the retina back in place, preserving sight.

However, laser beams do not correct the scars that have already developed in the retina. They do not correct the damage in the arteries themselves, specifically the fatty-cholesterol deposits and tendency to hemorrhage.

Judging from the letters I have received, there is a lot of confusion about what can be done for eyes. Surger and laser beams work fine in some cases. They don't in others. It depends entirely on what the problem is. If the small spot where images are focused, the macula, in the back of the eye is degenerated, there is little one can do.

How does one find out if what he has can be treated by one of the newer methods? A complete examination by an eye specialist is needed. Anyone with serious eye disease certainly belongs in the hands of a specialist.

Meanwhile, my statement stands. The best thing a diabetic can do to protect his eyesight is to be treated adequately for diabetes. A diabetic who follows instructions to the letter, sticking to the diet that has been established for him and taking the medicines as prescribed if he needs them, has the best chance of avoiding the eye complications of diabetes. This truth remains: an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure — including laser beams.

Newspaper wrap stuck to decoupaged plaques

Dear Dorothy: I gave two decoupaged plaques to a friend who wrapped them in newspaper when he moved. The newspaper stuck to the plaques almost to the point of the ink settling into the pictures. They were glazed with typical decoupage glue. Can the newspaper be taken off without dissolving the glaze? What should he have used to wrap the pictures? — Karen Kloser

Generally, pieces finished with wax, lacquer, acrylic or varnish will not stick to wrapping. And, as you know, it's always best to use unprinted paper as a precautionary measure when wrapping a decoupage piece. In this case, what needs to be done is to first dampen the area and remove as much of the paper as possible. When dry, sand gently until all the paper is removed. Flow on a thin layer of water to remove the scratch marks. When clear, coat again with decoupage glue or spray acrylic, lacquer or varnish for final protection.

Dear Dorothy: Since reading about your quick spaghetti recipe, I thought you might be interested in mine. Brown one pound ground beef in a skillet over medium heat, then drain off the excess fat. Add one 16-ounce can of spaghetti sauce with mushrooms and one and three-fourths cups water. Bring to a boil, add four ounces of broken spaghetti, stirring to separate strands. Simmer, covered, for 25 to 30 minutes, stirring frequently. Serve with parmesan cheese, if desired. Makes four servings. Love your column and have enjoyed many of your good recipes. Helen Venable

Dear Dorothy: Anyone with washable slipcovers should be told that they should be taken off the line or out of the dryer before they are completely dry. Slightly damp, they can easily be stretched and smoothed into place — even the pleats. — Melissa Hill

Lamp shades washable

Most fabric lampshades can be washed easily at home, says Magdalene Pfister, Extension home furnishing specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

If the shade is fully sewn, not glued together, and if it is colorfast, it should be brushed or vacuumed to remove loose dust, them plunged rapidly up and down in a tub filled with lukewarm water and enough soap or detergent to produce a good amount of suds. Hold the shade by the metal frame while dunking it, Ms. Pfister said, and use a very soft brush to gently remove heavier soil.

Rinse with either a sink spray attachment or by dunking the shade at least twice in lukewarm water before rinsing it in water containing fabric softener to retard future dirt accumulation. Drain on a very thick towel to rid the shade of excess water and dry it in front of a fan or an open window, never on a lighted lamp.

Test the shade for color fastness by holding a damp cloth to the trim a few moments.

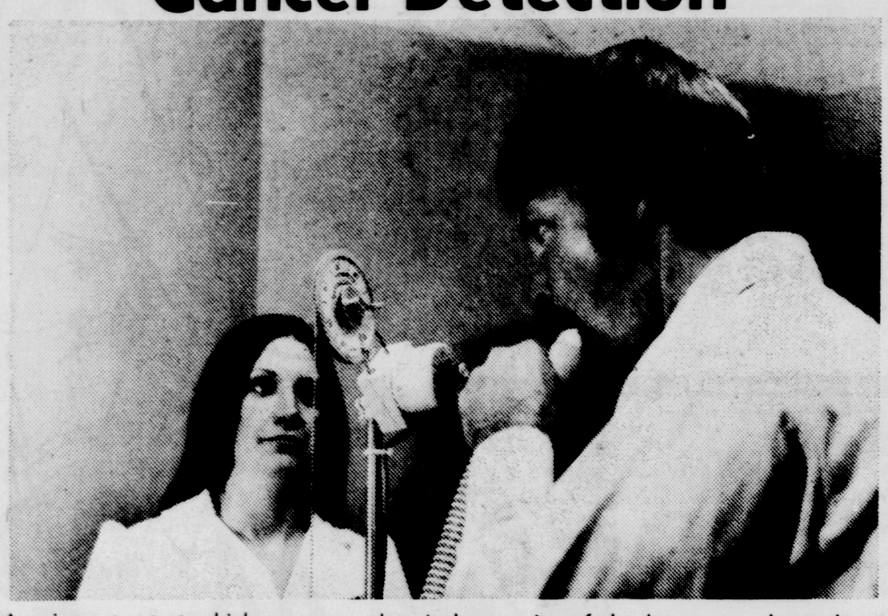
Cancer Detection



A spirometry test which measures the vital capacity of the lungs can detect lung damage due to smoking, asthma, emphysema and other lung diseases. This test is offered by the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. in their Cancer Detection Examination.

Of every six people who get cancer today, two will be saved and four will die. Of the four who would otherwise die, one might be saved with earlier diagnosis and prompt treatment. It is estimated that there will be 675,000 new cases of cancer in 1976 and that there will be 370,000 deaths resulting from cancer. (According to American Cancer Society publication "'76 Cancer Facts and Figures")

The best defense we have against cancer today is early detection and prompt treatment. A yearly Cancer detection examination is the first step that you should take. The Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. offers a thorough 2½ hour low cost Cancer Detection Screening examination including a computerized patient medical history, meticulous physical examination, proctoscopy, chest x-ray, electrocardiogram, blood pressure, over 30 chemical determinations on blood and urine samples , pap smear and instruction in breast self-examination for women, tests for vision, hearing, spirometry, glaucoma, body measurements, percentage of body fat, etc. An analysis of your personal cancer risk factors and educational literature are also provided.

Give yourself the best protection available against cancer by calling your physician or the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. today and make your appointment for a Cancer Detection Examination. The Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. is located at 1000 Grand Canyon Parkway, Hoffman Estates, Ill., (near Woodfield Mall). Telephone (312) 885-1360.

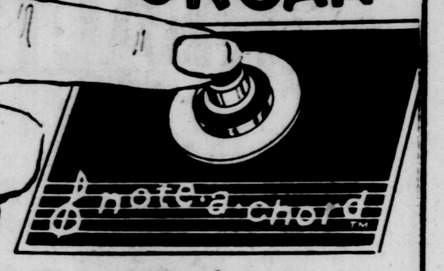
A NEW EASY WAY TO PLAY ORGAN

Specially designed for people who want to play organ NOW!, without hours of practice or lessons. Hammond presents...

FROM Hammond



This Hammond spinet features Reverberation, Vibrato, Auto Vari 28 (seven rhythms with 28 different pattern variations), Autochord and Note-A-Chord!
Here's what Note-A-Chord does for the beginning player:
Try One-Finger Chords. Press the Note-A-Chord button and any of the 20-One Finger Chords you touch will lock in place when played. With "Visual Memory", your eyes will tell you the chord you have played. You'll know immediately which chord to play next.
For Three-Finger Chords, simply press a button. Now, any three or four finger chord you play will lock in place. Other organs are limited by the number of chords available. With Hammond Note-A-Chord, any three or four finger chord in existence has "Visual Memory". Whether you play one finger or three note chords, the notes will lock in place. This frees your left hand to make rhythm or registration changes. No need to rush—Note-A-Chord is remembering what you've played.
Note-A-Chord with Autochord — another Hammond exclusive. It makes beginners sound like professionals. Autochord automatically provides alternating chord and pedal notes in any rhythm pattern selected. Choose any elaborate rhythm. It's yours automatically. Or combine rhythms for added variations.
Note-A-Chord is Hammond's new innovation that opens a new world of music for everyone.
$1495.00

This musical innovation combines one finger chords with an exclusive (Visual-Memory) system.

AOPi administrator speaks at Founders Day luncheon

Mrs. Frederick Hinton of Nashville, Tenn., past international president of Alpha Omicron Pi, will speak at a Founders Day luncheon Saturday sponsored by Chicago Council of Alpha Omicron Pi. Mrs. Hinton, a native Chicagoan, now serves as administrative Director in the AOPi headquarters offices of Nashville.

Also at Saturday's luncheon, Northwest Suburban Alumnae Chapter will be celebrating its 20th anniversary.

Mrs. Frederick Hinton

All AOPi members, actives and alumnae, are invited to the celebration, to be held at Park Ridge Country Club. Information is available from Mrs. Daniel Pellettiere, of Palatine, 359-7358, or Mrs. Jack Clark of Arlington Heights, 392-1936.

From home to home

Nu Pi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi is planning a progressive dinner for Saturday evening. Members and their spouses will progress from cocktails and hors d'oeuvres in Buffalo Grove to soup and salad, lasagne, and dessert in three homes in Arlington Heights.

The chapter recently provided food, toys and clothing for Northwest Opportunity Center, which is the group's service project for the year. A check for $50 also went to the center for holiday food certificates to needy families. President Mrs. Martin Nowak, vice president Mrs. Donald Dalicandro and Mrs. William Ek delivered the donations.

Anyone interested in the Beta Sigma Phi chapter may call Mrs. Nowak at 255-2254.

Happenings

XI ZETA Epsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will host a couples' progressive dinner Saturday in celebration of the holiday season.

The group will meet for cocktails at 6:30 p.m. at the Lary Miller home in Palatine, then progress to the Jack Gowan home in Arlington Heights for the main course and to the Dale Smart home, also in Arlington Heights, for dessert.

Welcome Wagon party

A holiday punch party for prospective members of Palatine Welcome Wagon Club will be given this month instead of the usual club coffee. The gathering is Tuesday at 1 p.m., and anyone interested may call 359-7287 for the location.

Reservations are due by Friday.

Dinner dance for Naim

The Christmas dinner dance for members and friends of St. Francis Chapter of Naim, an organization of widowed Catholics of all ages, is Friday, Dec. 10, at the Arlington Heights Knights of Columbus Hall. Music for dancing will be provided by The Melody Men, and a smorgasbord will be served at 10 p.m.

Seed trials breed better plants

Potting shed
by Mary B. Good

Toward the end of each year, there is a big to-do in garden columns about All-America Selections." So what is it all about?

The All-America Selection is a preview of flowers and vegetables that have been judged best new introductions for the upcoming garden season.

Here's how it works: Developers enter promising new flower and vegetable seeds in AAS trials across the U.S. and Canada, where each entry is compared with the most nearly alike established variety in its class. These flowers and vegetables are grown and observed, and a council of judges, numbering more than 50, rate them on their beauty, their growth habits, their insect and disease resistance, etc.

THIS PROVES very helpful to gardeners when it comes time to browse the new seed catalogs and seed racks, or consider starting bedding plants in spring.

Here's a rundown of the best the breeders have to offer in spring and some of the reasons why these selections won national honor as "All-America Selections." One of the four winning floral superstars for 1977 is Primrose Lady marigold from Burpee Seeds, Philadelphia. Its strong points are good weather tolerance, heavy flowering and delicate light-yellow carnation-flowered blooms.

Showgirl geranium, developed by Goldsmith Seeds, Gilroy, Calif. is more compact and blooms earlier than other rose-pink seed geraniums. This bright pink geranium is significant because it can be started from seed indoors about two months before the last spring frost date and will begin blooming heavily in early July.

Why seed geraniums? Most geraniums are started by cuttings, rather than seeds. The cuttings tend to carry over bacterial blight within their vascular systems, and the damage doesn't appear until midsummer, when it is too late to do much about it except kiss it off. Geraniums, like Showgirl, grown from seed in sterile soil, do not have this problem, so it is a major breakthrough in producing blightless plants.

BLUSHING MAID petunia is the product of T. Sakata and Co., Yokahama, Japan, and was found to be weather-tolerant, pest-resistant, as well as stronger and more compact than most petunias in trial plantings at the Boerner Botanical Gardens in Milwaukee. The soft pink blooms are double-flowered, three inches plus in diameter, and show up best in hanging baskets, patio containers or against a background of evergreens.

The fourth and final beauty contest winner is Yellow Galore marigold, from Bodger Seeds of El Monte, Calif., a plant that has a lot going for it — mite resistance, prolific, long-lasting flowers and outstanding bloom qualities. It can be direct sown in the garden and blooms in 70-80 days, continuing to bloom until killing frost.

The AAS vegetable winners for 1977 are Savoy Ace Hybrid, Popeye's favorite, Melody Hybrid spinach, Scallopini Hybrid squash and Spirit Hybrid pumpkin.

DON'T LET THE All-America Selections boggle your mind. There are only eight of them for 1977. Keep in mind that the AAS is a great stream of varieties flowing along from year to year. Many of the award-winning varieties introduced since the inception of AAS in 1932 have been undated by newer and stronger winners and have disappeared from the scene. Other ancient award-winners are still around because nothing better has come along in their classes. Still others are carried along by consumer demand.

The eight judged cream-of-the-crop for 1977 are the best the breeders have developed to date, and worthy of consideration in home gardeners.

(Note: The All-America Rose Selections and All-America Gladioli Selections are separate entities and have nothing whatsoever to do with the All-America flower and vegetable selections mentined here. Also, of the seed producers mentioned, only Burpee sells retail. Seeds from the wholesalers are sold to retail outlets where they are distributed for general gardening use.)

Monogram your gifts this year

by JOANNE SCHREIBER

A stitched-by-you gift is special. Monogrammed, it becomes extra-special.

Almost anything you sew can be personalized with a handsome monogram. You can even add initials to store-bought items such as scarves or linens.

Today's sewing machines offer all sorts of decorative stitches which make monogramming easy.

Many offer twin-needle stitching and the New Home Sewing Machine goes one better and offers Tri-Thread sewing — three different threads through the eye of one needle.

TO MAKE THE bold, contemporary monograms on the linen guest towels, Tri-Thread stitching was done over two strands of yarn. This gives a dimensional effect. To make these towels, cut two pieces of fabric 22 x 16 inches. Use tailor's chalk to trace initials and border line. Thread machine with three contrasting thread colors. Thread bobbin to match the fabric.

Place fabric in an embroidery hoop to hold the work taut. Work decorative stitches over yarn strands, following chalked lines. Hem towels after stitching.

Pattern catalogues are jammed with monogram patterns and other designs which may be machine-embroidered. In most cases, these designs may be traced directly onto the fabric you are using.

A SLIGHTLY different technique is recommended for terry cloth, if you are monogramming terry towels, a beach or bath robe, or other items made of terry.

Trace the monogram on a crisp, firm fabric such as lawn or organdy. Cut the fabric slightly larger than the embroidery hoop. Position lawn or organdy on the right side of the terry cloth and baste it in place. Place fabric in an embroidery hoop, and work the monogram over the lawn or organdy. When stitching is completed, carefully trim extra fabric away with small, sharp scissors. Steam-press from the wrong side. You will have a beautiful, durable monogram.

REMEMBER, TOO, that monograms today need not be tiny, discreet affairs. A giant monogram can cover the back of a bathrobe, the center of a bedspread, the entire front of a tote bag. Any arrangement of letters is correct, though the last initial is usually centered and larger than the rest.

Make your Christmas presents with monograms, to make them extra special.

Foster home sought for blue-eyed Sean

A Family:
Every child's right

There's a new detective-to-be waiting to grow up and start solving impossible "who-dunnits." He's 11-year-old Sean, a blue-eyed, freckle-faced serious youngster who wants to be "just like Sherlock Holmes."

Though eager to discuss sleuthing and other fantasy adventures, Sean does not like to talk about his need for a foster family. A ward of Illinois Department of Children and Family Services, he is the boy for whom The Herald would like to find a foster family, preferably in the Northwest suburbs.

Currently Sean lives in a small children's home. He has never known his natural father, and his mother, herself a product of 15 foster homes, is separated from her second husband and both unwilling and incapable of coping with an 11-year-old boy. Sean does visit with her and a younger sister monthly.

Sean is reluctant to make a change, but his caseworker says he needs the guidance, love and understanding only a family can provide. Though a loner when he came to the children's home, he now likes rough and tumble sports like football, basketball and dodgeball and rates gym his favorite class.

ACADEMICALLY HE is a seventh grader and doing well. Recently he made the honor roll. But he does tend to daydream in class and should have a firm teacher.

A family interested in giving Sean the love and understanding he needs as he heads into adolescence may learn more about him by calling Illinois Department of Children and Family Services at 793-2160.

The department reimburses foster parents $150 a month for care of a teenager and also pays for the child's clothes, medical care and other special needs. An additional fee may be paid for those who require intensive supervision or highly specialized care.

The department also provides training programs for foster parents and the supervision and support of a social worker.

IMPROVISING ON the organ, eating potato chips with extra salt and solving mysteries just as Sherlock Holmes did are 11-year-old Sean's favorite activities.

Oil, water mix may be answer to drug overdose

For years we've been told oil and water don't mix. But University of Rhode Island scientists think the unlikely combination can save drug overdose and poison victims from death.

Using a patented emulsion process, Drs. Christopher Rhodes and George Fuller are producing globules of oil that hold several drops of water.

The water contains substances designed to make inactive "almost any poison or drug that can be taken by mouth," Rhodes said.

"Most poisons are hydrophobic. water, but they are attracted to oil. Once they diffuse into the oil globules, the poisons cannot avoid the antidote in the water droplets."

Still strictly experimental and, so far, tested only on rats, the medication is given as a liquid and can be swallowed or, in the case of an unconscious patient, passed through a stomach tube.

RHODES, a professor of pharmacy, said the experimental emulsion is so strong not even stomach acids can break it down.

The researchers hope to run clinical tests on humans in about a year. The process is being tried on sleeping rats in URI laboratories. Next the system will be tried on dogs.

The effectiveness is tested by measuring the time the rats sleep — "the less sleep the more effective the treatment.

"We have run into a few formulation problems," Rhodes said. "But they will not be difficult to solve and we have no indication that the process is dangerous or ineffective."

Make sure holidays safe

For most young mothers the holidays are a time to buy something new, splurge at the hairdresser, hire a baby-sitter — and go outl

To make those nights out carefree and fun, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. offers these suggestions:

• Don't take your worries with you. Make sure the children are left in the care of a competent baby-sitter. "Liking children" is not enough. The sitter you choose should be someone who has had experience caring for younger brothers and sisters or who has been recommended by other mothers in your neighborhood.

You can make things easier for the sitter by leaving detailed instructions. The more businesslike the arrangement, the better. Young people who earn pocket money babysitting should know exactly what is expected of them.

Be certain you leave not only a phone number where you can be reached but also the number of your family doctor in case an emergency should arise. Emphasize to the sitter that in case of smoke or fire, the children should be taken from the house immediately — before they're dressed, before the fire department is called, efore you are contacted.

Insist that no one be admitted to the house unless you have approved their visit. And be firm in your instructions that the children not be left alone in the house — even for a minute. For a free copy of "Sitting Safely," a guide for both parents and young sitters, write to Department P, Health and Welfare, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., One Madison Ave., New York, N.Y. 10010.

• Don't drink and drive. You've heard this one before, but Metrpolitan points out that it's a seldom-heeded refrain. Statistics show that deaths from drunken driving rise with each passing year. Tht inebriated "Life of the party" is in reality a potential killer.

If you're going to a party with friends, it's a good idea to decide that one of you will not drink at all. But if you must drink, take no more than one alcoholic drink per hour. It takes one full hour for two-thirds of an ounce of alcohol to burn out of your system.

Eat a good dinner before partying, and do both your host's ego and yourself a favor by nibbling on the hors d'oeuvres while you drink.

• If you're entertaining at home and using candles or having a lighted tree, be careful. Metropolitan points out that the home fire hazard is greatest at this time of year.

Make sure candles aren't near curtains or any other flammable material. By melting a little wax at the bottom of the candles, you'll help ensure that they stay securely in their holder. And if children are around, make sure they know that once candles are lit, it's hands off.

If you're decorating a real Christmas tree, place it in a water-filled holder to preserve its moisture and make it less of a fire hazard. Inspect tree lights for worn cords and loose sockets. And as a precaution against electric shock, never string lights on a metal tree. Use strings of lights that carry the Underwriters Laboratories (UL) label, and buy nonflammable ornaments for decoration.

One last word: don't burn evergreens or gift wrapping in a fireplace. The resulting flames could easily get out of control.

Air Force gives Santa some help

Has your little one writttn a letter to Santa, expecting him to reply from the North Pole? The Air Force is sponsoring a "Santa's Mailbag" program this year so children may receive a letter from Santa Claus postmarked "North Pole, Alaska." Military and Civilian volunteers from Eielson AFB, Alaska, act as Santa's helpers to remail the letters.

If parents would like a child to receive a letter from Santa Claus, the letter should be written by the parent to the child, placed in a stamped envelope addressed to the youngster and mailed to: Det. 2, 11th Weather Squadron, Santa's Mailbag, APO Seattle, Wash., 98737.

Artificial Christmas trees are expected to outnumber nature's own in American homes for the first time this year, according to Don Warning of the American Tree and Wreath Co. Warning anticipates that nearly 26 million homes will have artificial trees and about 25 million homes will sport the cut variety. Not only are more people buying artificial trees, he says, but they are buying top quality ones for $40 or more. The reason: artificial trees can be reused.

"It was inevitable that one day the artificial would overtake the cut variety because they can be used, stored and used again year after year," Warning said. "Instead of buying an average cut tree for, say, $15, a family can buy the top of the artificial line, use it several years and come out on top."

Five years ago, American Tree and Wreath's best seller retailed for $25. Now the best seller is one which sells in the $40 to $100 range.

Once you've selected gifts for the persons to whom you play Santa Claus, you probably have to mail some of them. How-to-wrap-what is the nitty gritty of successful sending, according to the Postal Service. It recommends corrugated fiberboard as the best general container. Such boxes can be cut to fit the size of the gift and if the box has no top, two boxes fitted one over the other make a very strong package.

One of the safest and strongest tapes is the self-sticking tape with fibers running along the length.

It's okay to use envelopes as containers for stationery and publications up to a pound in weight and one inch in thickness, but don't send special pens or bottle caps or other such gifts because they could burst out.

If several items go into one box, separate them with shredded newspaper, plastic foam or corrugated fiberboard.

And finally, put the address of the recipient and your return address on the inside of the package as well as on the outside so it will get there even if the outside address is damaged.

Confused about the aerosol issue? A free mini-encyclopedia on aerosols gives consumers a wealth of solid fact to carry into the supermarket aisles, including background on why different propellants are used, how consumers can get the most out of individual cans, how varying spray techniques work and why they are necessary, and some information on the safe use of aerosol sprays.

The 10-page booklet was prepared by Johnson Wax Co., the first company to discontinue the use of the controversial fluorocarbon propellants. Copies may be obtained free by writing Lynn Raasch, Consumer Information Specialist, Johnson Wax, 2430 Prudential Plaza, Chicago, Ill. 60601.

The personal credit records of Americans have become more accessible than ever before thanks to recent national consumer credit legislation. According to "Women: To Your Credit," a booklet just published by Commercial Credit Corp. and available in its 800 offices nationwide, if a consumer submits a written complaint to a creditor about money owed, or purchases made, a creditor has only 90 days from receiving the complaint to correct or clarify the problem.

Even if the decision goes against the consumer, the consumer still has the right of access to the records and the right to include a personal version of the dispute in his or her personal credit record.

The new legislation also provides that if a consumer has been denied credit because of information in his credit file, he now has the right to check that information and to have it removed by a credit bureau if it is found to be incorrect.

Further, the CCC booklet notes, the credit bureau must notify all creditors who received the incorrect information that the consumer's file has been corrected.

Super bra aids in cancer detection

Breast cancer in women soon might be able to be detected through a so-called "super brassiere" designed by a Scottish pathology consultant.

The bra designer is Dr. Hugh Simpson, pathology consultant at the Royal Infirmary of Glasgow.

"It offers an exciting prospective," he said while visiting the University of Minnesota to describe his device.

The brassiere resembles a standard bra but each side — or cup — has five thermometers which measure the temperature of the surface of the breasts.

The temperatures are recorded on a memory device not unlike that used in pocket calculators.

There is, said Simpson, a rhythm in the daily, monthly, yearly and lifetime cycles. Surface temperatures can rise and fall.

"WITH THIS device," Simpson said, "we hope to record when the breasts fail to express these rhythms in the normal manner."

The temperature readings of the bra would be analyzed by computers and when the rhythms do not come through in the normal way, it could show signs of a cancerous tumor, he said.

"It looks esthetically normal, and that's very important," the Scotsman said. "Very little can go wrong with it and it doesn't have any side effects."

Simpson said 6 per cent of American women develop breast cancer.

"It's much higher in Scotland," he said. "In Japan it is 6 per cent lower."

He said the prototype of the brassiere is being developed at a cost of $20,000. A company has agreed to manufacture the bra which, once in mass production, could be sold for about $200.

Team's motor may someday replace heart

RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI) — With an eye to the future, scientists have reached into the past and refined a 100-year-old engine design which someday could be the core of the first artificial heart implanted in a human being.

A technical team from Richland Energy Laboratory, a division of McDonnell-Douglas Astronautics Co., is developing the device under a $1.75 million contract with the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute.

It's based on a small radioisotope-powered Sterling Engine developed a century ago. The motor later was developed for use as a spacecraft generator and now has been modified to drive a blood pump.

SO FAR, scientists have advanced the technology from laboratory devices to a prototype, which has been successfully used for animal implantations.

Fourteen implants were performed at the Texas Heart Institute in Houston and the Children's Hospital in Boston. The last implant in 1974 kept a cow alive for a week.

"Those experiments made it clear animals can't survive all the hardware that was needed," said Dick Johnston, manager of the artificial heart program here. "The blood pump was too large and interfered with lung function and the calf died of pneumonia."

As a result the pump was redesigned and the engine reduced o eta signed and the engine reduced to half its size for the next experiments.

Johnston said his research team is concentrating on powering a device to assist the left ventricle, the side generally subject to disease.

Research elsewhere is working toward total heart replacement. Five other laboratories in the nation are also working to develop artificial hearts, according to Johnston.

Johnston illustrated the work the heart-engine must perform by using a 28-pound brick.

"You strain to lift it, even with a handle attached. Yet it requires twice that much force to pump blood into the arterial system for every beat of the heart.

"IT TAKES 60 pounds of force to pump 100 cubic centimeters of blood — about half a coffee cup — the amount pumped each heartbeat.

"During the course of a normal minute, the heart will pump eight liters (about 8 quarts) or the total amount of blood in the body. If you're exercising, the heart will pump twice that much."

Another designer, Ron Perrone, said their machine "basically is a hydraulic pump that in turn operates a pump that pumps blood."

The newest model will be the size of a bar of soap. Johnston said the plan is to have about 100 of the devices available for clinical implants in animals in the next five years.

As the system nears use in humans, the laboratory will be working more closely with the University of Washington Medical Center.

Johnston said animal implants are scheduled to begin about 1980 and human implants possibly following about 1985.

Writing President easier than queen

LONDON (UPI) — It's easier to write to the president of the United States than it is to the queen of England if only because it takes 15 words less just to say hello and goodbye.

Debrett's, guardians of all that's royal and noble in Britain, have just published a book of international etiquette with a title that brooks no argument. It's called: "Correct Form."

And the correct form, if you happen to have a communication for Queen Elizabeth, is as follows. You begin your letter:

"Madam,
With my humble duty,"
You end the letter:
"I have the honor to remain
Madam
Your Majesty's most humble and obedient servant."
And you address the envelope:
"Her Majesty, the Queen."

ON THE OTHER HAND, if you are burning to write President Gerald Ford or even the next president, Jimmy Carter, you begin the letter:

My Dear Mr. President"
And you end it:
"Sincerely Yours."
The envelope is addressed simply:
"The President."

You can't get more democratic than that.

When it comes to face-to-face meeetings, things are more equal. The queen is always addressed for the first time as "Your Majesty." Thereafter she is called "Ma'am" which Debrett's says sternly should be pronounced as spelled and not the affected and archaic form "Mah'm."

Filing cabinet holds pieces of famous people

by GREGORY JENSEN

WOOKEY HOLE, England (UPI) — Against one wall is a two-story-tall double book case filled with human heads.

Richard M. Nixon is there, every hair and eyelash as in life, next to King William IV. Lord Nelson's naked torso lies casually on a throne, and Marilyn Monroe's legs snuggle up to portions of Napoleon III.

No matter how you look at it, the "spare parts" warehouse of Madame Tussaud's waxworks has to be one of England's queerest new tourist sights.

In London the 250-odd wax figures at Madame Tussaud's are designed to fool you into thinking they're alive. The figures are complete, their settings meticulous, their clothes just so.

JACQUELINE Kennedy Onassis's head is below astronaut John Glenn's. Over there is Charlton Heston's headless torso. His head, in a pith helmet, is next to Sir Winston Churchill's. Here's the burnoose Lawrence of Arabia wore in Arabia, and on the floor is Ringo Starr's early Beatles drum.

"A lot of these heads will go back to be melted down eventually," said Denis Watson, who prowls these bizarre halls as a guide.

"But we save them whenever we can. You never can tell when they'll be useful."

Tussaud's storehouse is a recent addition to Wookey Hole. Once that name meant a cave, the most famous cavern complex in England.

Visitors still go through the caves. But now, since the Tussaud's company bought the complex three years ago, there is a triple bonus at the end.

First is a paper mill which made Confederate money during the American Civil War, abandoned now and in the process of being restored.

NEXT, IN SOME of its lofty rooms, is an astonishing collection of fairground carvings, particularly the fantastic animals from merry-go-rounds.

Finally and most surprising is the dislocated flotsam of the world's most famous waxworks, whose London show is seen by nearly 2 million people a year.

"The heads in this place either have been replaced in the London display or removed from it entirely," said Watson, a 60-year-old former pub keeper. "That one up there was made by Madame Tussaud herself in 1789."

It costs at least $1,600 to mould a wax figure, so when a famous person becomes no longer famous Tussaud's thinks twice about just melting him down.

SOMETIMES, too, a celebrity on display needs a new head to show his or her age — Churchill had 13 heads in his lifetime, Watson said.

These replaced figures or outgrown heads are brought here to be stored like spare parts, together with the plaster moulds from which they're made.

"We have all the Tussaud head moulds here — more than 2,000 of them," Watson said. They are heaped on long metal racks, William Shakespeare next to Julie Andrews, King George III cheek to cheek with Queen Isabella of Spain.

"And you've noticed various limb moulds and torso moulds stacked here and there," Watson said.

He gestured at a rack packed with moulds of hands — Abraham Lincoln's and Joan of Arc's and Ho Chi Minh's. High on one case is a casual group of expensive busts all in a row — Elizabeth Taylor, Sophia Loren, Audrty Hepburn, Moira Shearer.

"In London our storage areas were all over the place," a Tussaud's spokesman said. With the purchase of the Wookey Hole paper mill, "that placed seemed absolutely ideal, both to centralize all our storage and give the public a chance to see it."

Parts of the storehouse are heaped with helter-skelter mounds of props, some authentic and some not.

There are thrones and crowns, a blood-soaked guillotine, battle flags and trombones, a replica suit for King Henry VIII and George Harrison's actual sitar.

Tussaud's likes to use a person's own clothes to dress his dummy, so one cupboard holds suits worn by Theodore Roosevelt, Georgi Malenkov and Laurence Olivier. At the bottom is a tiny 1845 uniform worn by "Gen. Tom Thumb," the American dwarf.

But most eye-catching of all is the rack of heads in crazy juxtaposition — Sammy Davis Jr. next to Clement Attlee, Peter Ustinov rubbing nonexistent shoulders with the Shah of Iran.

"I suppose it is rather an odd place," Watson said. "but I like it. You meet such interesting people."

Shortcuts to holiday baking

Besides decorating the candy dish, brightly colored candies can be combined with convenience mixes and used as shortcuts when trimming Christmas goodies. One recipe which appeals to children is for hot chocolate, which is made with chocolate candies instead of messy, over-the-stove cocoa or chocolate square blends. Crushed candies also add a colorful accent to a quick Christmas bread made with packaged mix. Cookies are a natural for decorating shortcuts and the flocked tree is a fun family project to make for a headstart on the Christmas season.

HOLIDAY CHEERS

½ teaspoon rum extract
2 cups hot milk
Whipped cream
Dash nutmeg

Place candies, rum extract and nutmeg in blender container. Add hot milk. Cover container and whiz until smooth. Pour into hot mugs. Top with whipped cream and a dash of nutmeg. Makes 2 servings.

VARIATIONS:

VIENNESE CHOCOLATE: Add 2 teaspoons instant coffee to candies. Top with whipped cream and a dish of cinnamon.

HOT ORANGE CHOCOLATE: Add ½ teaspoon grated orange rind to candies. Add hot milk. Top with whipped cream and a slice of orange or additional grated orange rind.

MEXICAN CHOCOLATE: Add ½ teaspoon each of cinnamon and vanilla to candies. Top with whipped cream and use a cinnamon stick stirrer.

QUICK CHRISTMAS BREAD

1 package (13¾ ounce) hot roll mix
¼ cup butter or margarine, softened
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
½ cup chopped candy-coated chocolate covered peanuts
Confectioners' Sugar Icing*
Additional coarsely chopped candy-coated chocolate covered peanuts

Soften yeast from package in ¾ cup warm water. Beat in butter or margarine, sugar, egg and orange rind. Add flour mixture from package; mix well. Cover dough and let rise in warm place until doubled in size, about 45 minutes. Knead dough on lightly floured board until smooth. Roll into a circle about 12 inches in diameter. Sprinkle with ½ the chopped candies; press into dough and fold in thirds. Roll out and repeat to use remaining candies. Roll dough into oval, 12 by 9 inches. Fold in half lengthwise, bringing top to within ½-inch of opposite side. Place on greased baking sheet. Let rise until doubled in size, about 30 minutes. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until done about 35 to 40 minutes. Cool on wire rack. Frost with icing and sprinkle with chopped candies. Makes 1 coffee cake about 12 inches long.

*CONFECTIONERS' SUGAR ICING

1½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons (about) milk or half and half
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine and beat sugar, milk, butter or margarine and vanilla until smooth and a proper spreading consistency. Makes enough for 1 coffee cake.

FLOCKED CHRISTMAS TREE

Cardboard
Aluminum foil
5 quarts popped unsalted small white kernel popcorn
2 cups sugar
1 cup light corn syrup
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup water
1/8 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 package (7.2 ounce) fluffy white frosting mix
1½ cups (about) candy-coated chocolate covered peanuts
5½ yards white satin ribbon 5/16-inch wide (about) to make 45 to 50 small bows

Cut an 8-inch round of cardboard and cover with aluminum foil. Place on 8-inch layer cake pan bottomside up. Set cardboard on pan. Pour popped corn in large buttered heavy pan or ovenproof mixing bowl. Place in a very low oven (250 degrees) while syrup is cooking Combine sugar, syrup, butter or margarine, water and cream of tartar in saucepan; cook over moderate heat until syrup reaches the hard ball stage (250 degrees) or until syrup, dropped in very cold water, forms a ball hard enough to hold its shape but is plastic. Pour syrup in a fine stream over popcorn and stir with buttered metal spoon until kernels are evenly coated with syrup. Quickly spoon popcorn onto cardboard round shaping corn into a tree about 10 inches tall. Do not pack. An extra pair of hands will help to speed up tree building. Cool tree until firm, several hours or overnight. To decorate tree prepare frosting as directed on package label. Flock tree with dabs of frosting and press a candy into each dab of frosting. Allow frosting to set and attach white ribbon bows. To make bows, cut out ribbon into 4½ inch lengths. Tie with a single knot in center. Snip ends off neatly on the slant. Attach bows to tree with pins. Arrange tree on attractive tray or plate and decorate base with evergreen or holly, if desired. Makes 1 tree about 10 inches tall.

Close ends; chill thoroughly. Slice about 1/8 inch thick. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Sprinkle with chopped candies (either plain or peanut). Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees) until done, 6 to 8 minutes. Makes 8 to 9 dozen cookies.

Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) until done and very lightly browned, 5 to 7 minutes. Makes about 5 dozen cookies.

Polish and Danish heritages are reflecied in the foods she fixes

by LOIS SEILER

Dishes that reflect Polish and Danish ancestries are favorites in the Elinor and Stan Rigenstrup household, Arlington Heights. And they enjoy sharing their heritages with friends, as well as with each other.

"My Polish friends 'go ape' over my Pierogi," Elinor said. Remembering how her mother made them, she experimented with the basic dough until she got it just right. There are many different fillings, but Elinor and Stan prefer cabbage, cottage cheese and plum.

Elinor learned to make Danish dishes to please her husband.

The Danes cook meat-filled cabbage rolls in water, which is later used as the stock for a rich, golden gravy. The same meat mixture can be used to make Frikadeller, or Danish hamburgers.

A nice change from noodles or rice is Danish dumplings. The basic dough is made similar to a cream puff batter, then dropped by tiny amounts into boiling water where the dumplings puff up to double their size.

Danish Apple Cake is a no-bake refrigerator dessert. It consists of buttered, sweetened cinnamon toast crumbs and applesauce assembled in layers and frosted with whipped cream. Crab apple or currant jelly is used for garnish. Light and refreshing, "it keeps for a week and gets better with age," Elinor said.

She claims that Vanilla Kranz is a rich butter cookie that no one can resist. They are made with a cookie press and one recipe makes several hundred. Elinor makes at least a thousand every Christmas, tinting the dough in holiday colors or decorating the cookies with frosting or colored sprinkles.

Because cooking is her favorite hobby, Elinor takes pride in the fact that her daughter and married son are both good cooks. Sewing and gardening are her other interests.

PIEROGI, A POLISH DISH, is a favorite of Elinor Rigenstrup, Arlington Heights. She fills the dough with plums, cottage cheese or cabbage, boils the pieorgi in water and then fries them in butter. She serves them with butter or sour cream.

POLISH PIEROGI

3 cups flour
2/3 cup milk
2 eggs
1 teaspoon salt

Combine ingredients and knead until smooth. Divide in halves until you have 48 balls.

Fillings:

1 pint dry cottage cheese
2 egg yolks
Salt and pepper
1 large can plums, drained, pitted and halved or 12 fresh ripe plums, pitted, halved and sugared

Shred cabbage, season with salt and pepper and fry in butter until limp and golden. Set aside.

Combine egg yolks and cottage cheese. Season with salt and pepper. Set aside.

Prepare plums and set aside. Figure two plum halves per Pierogi.

Roll balls of dough to 5 inches in diameter. Put about one or two tablespoons filling on each circle half. With pastry brush, moisten edge of other half with water, fold over and press gently with fingertips, removing air to close. Seal with floured prongs of fork.

Boil water in large pot, adding one tablespoon salt. When water boils, add about six Pierogi at a time. Cook for 8 to 10 minutes. Remove carefully with slotted spoon and drain on cake racks. Fry in butter until golden and serve with melted butter and sour cream. Makes 4 dozen.

Pierogi may be frozen before cooking. Be sure to plce waxed paper or other wrap between each one so that they will not stick together when thawing.

DANISH CABBAGE ROLLS

1 pound ground beef
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup milk
1 medium onion, grated
½ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 head cabbage with large leaves
1 egg yolk or yellow food coloring for gravy
6 tablespoons butter
6 tablespoons flour

Combine pork, beef, eggs, milk, onion, ½ cup flour, salt and pepper and set aside.

Gently separate about 12 cabbage leaves and trim leaf stem to flatten. Fill 8-quart pot half full of water and bring to a boil. Put leaves in hot water for about 5 minutes or more to soften. Remove with tongs and reserve hot water.

Spoon about ¼ cup meat mixture onto each leaf, wrapping as you would a package. Tie each with a 15-inch string. Arrange rolls in reserved water. Remaining cabbage may be quartered and added to pot. Add a tablespoon salt and cook gently for about 1½ hours.

To make the gravy, melt the butter and add the 6 tablespoons flour. Strain the stock that cabbage rolls were cooked in and slowly add about three cups to the butter-flour mixture, until gravy is of desired thickness. Mix egg yolk or food coloring with small amount of gravy in cup. Pour back into gravy pan and mix for a golden color. Serve with boiled potatoes.

The same meat mixture may be used for Frikadeller, Danish hamburgers. Drop by large tablespoons into hot shortening (about ¼ inch deep) in skillet. These are usually three-sided. Brown on all sides until done, about 15 to 20 minutes.

DANISH SOUP DUMPLINGS

2 tablespoons butter
2 level tablespoons flour
Pinch of salt
Pinch of sugar
½ cup boiling water
1 egg
1 egg white

Melt butter; add flour, salt and sugar and mix. Add water a little at a time, adding just enough to make mixture leave sides of pan and form a ball. Let cool. When cool, stir in egg and egg white.

Drop by half-teaspoonsful into boiling salted water. When dumplings rise to top of pan, add some cold water and remove dumplings immediately. Do not let them stay in boiling water or they will fall apart. Place them on a small plate which has been inverted onto a larger plate to drain and cool.

Place 6 or more dumplings into each soup bowl and pour hot chicken soup over dumplings.

DANISH APPLE CAKE

1 package (7 ounces) cinnamon toast
2 tablespoons sugar
½ pound butter
3 cups sweetened apple sauce
½ pint whipping cream whipped
Crab apple or currant jelly

Roll out toast in plastic bag. Melt butter in skillet and add toast crumbs and sugar. Mix until blended and keep stirring until crumb mixture is golden brown.

Spoon half of toast mixture onto glass cake plate. Pack together to form circle. Spread half the apple sauce smoothly and evenly on crumb circle. Repeat layers. When cool, spread whipped cream over all. Garnish top with 6 or 7 dabs of jelly. Store in refrigerator.

VANILLA KRANZ
(Danish Butter Cookies)

1 pound butter
2 cups granulated sugar
4 egg yolks
4 cups flour
1 tablespoon vanilla

Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Blend in egg yolks. Add flour and mix thoroughly. Add vanilla and mix until blended.

Place portion of cookie dough in cookie press. Press onto cookie sheets about one inch apart. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes or until lightly browned on edges. (Watch carefully. These cookies bake very quickly.) Makes a couple of hundred, depending on size.

Versatile, pungent

Ginger spices torte, muffins

In earlier times ginger was considered both a medicine and a spice. England's Henry VIII advocated ginger as a remedy against the plague. Others claimed that ginger could prolong life and cure "the troubles of love."

While this scrumptious torte might not have any romantic powers it's sure to turn any gathering of friends or family into a celebration. Yogurt gives the torte a velvety moistness and the whipped topping incorporates molasses instead of sugar for a taste that is reminiscent of taffy. The chocolate and orange flavor accents add a final confetti-like decoration to this delicious dessert.

Ginger muffins are another variation of old fashioned gingerbread. With or without raisins or nuts, these spicy treats would be an appropriate accompaniment to any meal.

CELEBRATION TORTE

½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup granulated sugar
1 egg
½ cup unsulphured molasses
1¼ cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ teaspoon ground cloves
1 cup plain yogurt
¼ cup milk
¼ teaspoon lemon peel, grated

Topping:

1 cup heavy cream
1 to 2 tablespoons unsulphured molasses
2 teaspoons orange-flavored liqueur, optional
1 tablespoon orange peel, grated
1 (1 ounce) square semisweet chocolate, grated

In large bowl, cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Blend in egg and molasses.

Sift dry ingredients together. Mix lemon peel and milk with yogurt. Add dry ingredients and yogurt alternately to the creamed mixture, stirring well after each addition. Pour batter into two greased and floured 8 by 1½-inch round cake pans. Bake at 350 degrees F. for 35 minutes or until a toothpick "comes clean." Cool in pans for 10 minutes, then invert onto racks to cool completely.

At least one hour before serving, whip cream. Beat in molasses (taste for desired sweetness) and orange liqueur, if used. Spread half the whipped cream on one layer of the torte. Sprinkle with half the orange peel and grated chocolate. Top with second layer and frost with remaining whipped cream. Apply remaining chocolate and orange peel in circular patterns. Refrigerate at least one hour before serving. Torte may be held refrigerated for 2 to 3 hours before serving. Makes 8 to 12 servings.

Celebration Torte

GINGER MUFFINS

1 egg, beattn
¼ cup salad oil
½ cup unsulphured molasses
½ cup water
1 cup all-purpose flour
½ cup rye flour
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon baking soda
¾ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
½ cup raisins or nuts, if desired.

Peheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease muffin pans or line individual muffin cups with paper liners.

Combine egg, oil, molasses, and water; blend thoroughly. Sift dry ingredients into mixing bowl. If desired, raisins or nuts (or half-and-half mixture of each) should be added to the dry ingredients at this point. Add the combined liquid ingredients and mix only until dry ingredients are moistened. Do not overmix; batter will appear lumpy.

Fill muffin cups 2/3 full and bake at 400 degrees for 15-20 minutes or until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean.

Serve warm with butter or margarine. Makes 10 to 12 large muffins.

Children learn way in kitchen

by BARBARA LADD

Children should be taught to cook and shop at an early age, according to Lisa Zarlenga, Palatine. "They feel proud to be useful and the knowledge carries through their lives."

Lisa teaches the "Cooking with Mom" course this month at Continental Cooking School, Mount Prospect. Several area mothers and their little boys and girls participate.

"We don't let our kids do enough by themselves," she said. "Just showing a child how t cook something isn't good enough. They really have to do it."

Cooking and shopping for food involve all of the senses, Lisa said. They must see the food, feel its texture and smell it before they can be sure the food is properly prepared.

HER FIRST LESSON includes a segment on cooking chicken, she said. "Everyone likes chicken, and with this recipe once they can make it, they can make at least 20 other meat dishes."

The recipe was created and developed by her son when he was eight. "One day he walked into the kitchen and said, 'Mom, I'm gong to cook dinner tonight; and he did. It was delicious and I've been using the recipe ever since."

Although Lisa believes children can easily learn to be self-sufficient in the kitchen, she agrees that support from parents is essential. "A parent has to be around, at least for the first few years, to give hints and encouragement. Otherwide interest will soon be lost."

EVEN BOYS, who normally lose interest in kitchen activities early, will continue to cook if the mother and father support what he is doing, she said.

Besides the practical aspects of cooking, there are other positive benefits. Kneading dough, stirring, and removing cookies from pans require coordination and give children practice in developing muscular control. Recipes teach logic and the importance of following instructions.

Following are some recipes, courtesy of the Cooperative Extension Service, for young children to prepare.

PEACH CRISP

9 to 12 canned peach halves
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/3 cup butter or margarine
½ cup sugar

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease 9-inch square baking dish. Mix flour and sugar together with a fork or pastry blender until mixture looks crumbly. Open the can of peach halves and drain off all the liquid. (If you don't know how to do this, have somene show you.)

Spread drained fruit evenly in greased baking dish. Sprinkle the crumb mixture evenly on top of the fruit. Bake about 30 to 40 minutes. The topping should be golden brown. Makes about 9 servings.

SCALLOPED CORN

2 cups canned cream-style corn
½ cup cracker or bread crumbs
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
½ cup milk
1 egg, slightly beaten
¼ teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon butter or margarine

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease a 1-quart baking dish.

Peel onion and chop it. Measure. Wash green pepper. Have someone show you how to remove the seeds. Chop enough green pepper for ¼ cup.

Prepare the cracker or bread crumbs. It takes about 10 or 12 soda crackers to make ½ cup of crumbs. An easy way to make crumbs is to place the food you want to crumb into a plastic bag. Then roll with a rolling pin, glass, can or bottle.

BREAK EGG into mixing bowl. Stir with fork until yolk and white are mixed.

Open can of corn. Add corn to egg in the mixing bowl. Add chopped onin and pepper, milk, cracker or bread crumbs, and salt and pepper. Stir until mixed. Be sure to stir all the way to the bottom.

Pour into greased baking dish. Dot with butter. (To do this place small bits of butter in different places over the top of the mixture.)

Bake uncovered for 30 minutes. Serves 4.

Big supply of onions on market

Onions, universally used, have become an indispensable kitchen item and a cook's best friend. Onions are also in big supply now, according to market reporters with the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture.

The marketing specialists report that grower prices have been depressed for the past seven months and right now are about 50 per ctnt below last year's levels.

With acreage for harvest of the storage crop up about eight per cent, production is expected to top last year's crop by 18 per cent. Total production is expected to reach 1.66 billion pounds.

Storage onions include the pungent tasting and the sweet Spanish onions. The sweeter ones are recognized by their size — large enough for the middle slices to fit a hamburger bun. A faint, sweet aroma around the onion bins may give a hint to flavor.

ONIONS SHOULD be looked over carefully when purchased. They should be firm with dry necks. Sprouting should not be evident. Skins should be paper thin and crackle on touch.

The onions should be free from green sunburn spots and other blemishes. And onions with wet or very soft necks should be avoided since that is a sign of immaturity or decay. Those with thick, hollow or woody centers in the neck should also be passed.

Onions should last for many weeks at home if they are properly stored. They should be kept on a loosely woven bag or basket for good air circulation. Cool, dark and dry places are best.

Until the onions are cut they should not be refrigerated. Her is one popular onion-eating suggestion.

ONION SOUP

4 tablespoons butter
2¼ cups thinly sliced onions
6 cups beef broth *
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
Few grains Cayenne
3 dry rolls, toasted
¾ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Melt butter in saucepan. Add onions and cook 3 minutes, or until yellow. Add broth, salt, pepper and cayene. Cook slowly 20 minutes, or until onions are tender. Do not cover. To serve, place half a toasted roll in each of 6 soup plates. Top each roll with 2 tablespoons cheese. Fill plate with soup and serve at once. Serves 6.

* Beef broth may be made by dissolving 6 bouillon cubes in 6 cups boiling water.

Changing habits better than diet

by CHARLES S. TAYLOR

Psychologist Stan Chapman says altered eating habits and not short-lived diets are the best way to take off pounds and keep them off.

Chapman, a psychologist at Georgia Regional Hospital, says diets can assist in initial weight loss but that in most instances the dieters regain the weight. A study project he recently completed shows that behavior modification can result in a slow, steady, weight loss without the need to stay on a diet.

"WE HAD 57 over weight ladies in our project who were 20 to 80 per cent overweight," Chapman said. "By the end of eight weeks, they had lost on the average of a pound a week."

Chapman conducts followup sessions with the volunteer project participants and says successful weight management should continue if the women do not return to their old eating habits.

The project got underway last February with the 57 women divided into three groups. They met for one and one-half hour sessions once a week for eight weeks. Three women dropped out. In the classes, eating and hunger were treated as conditioned responses.

"We taught them to lose weight by changing many aspects of their living," he said.

"OBESITY IS a reflection of inappropriate eating habits that people have learned throughout their lives," Chapman said. "We systematically tried to alter their eating habits step by step."

Most of the women had been in many diet programs and some had

by Jarvis Rice

Yogurt is in our culture! Pardon the pun, but this health food made of fermented, concentrated milk has enjoyed a great success in this country. Today, no matter how you spell it — yogurt, yoghurt, yohourt or yoghoort — it's a fad phenomenon. Last year, we ate 415 million pounds of this dish believed to be good for the stomach, and for the diet. It's a Turkish or Bulgarian treat that originated centuries ago in the eastern Mediterranean. The Russians, making it from camel's milk, turned it into an intoxicating liquor they call kumiss. Americans turned it into a $300 million enterprise, offering yogurt in many fruit flavors, chocolate covered on a stick, and even as a yogaburger, which has no relation to the ascetic practice of yoga, but so what? Yogurt, according to purists, isn't yogurt anymore, anyway.

Macadamia nuts are still themselves, but they had to leave their native land to become famous. They were first discovered to be edible in Melbourne, Australia, in the 1800's by a Scottish scientist, John Macadam. Today, the nuts are practically unknown there. However, the seeds were sent to Hawaii where they grew successfully. Many macadamia groves sprang up, and a thriving industry was created. Macadamia nuts, now sold largely in our country, look like hazel nuts, smell like coffee beans, and taste like almonds. The macadamia nut is hard to crack, as is the macadam road, which by a strange coincidence, got its name from a John Macadam, an engineer who was also a Scotsman and who also lived in the time of the other John Macadam!

If you've ever had a taste for Pheasant under Glass, you might have enjoyed being invited to a grand banquet in Europe during the Middle Ages. The occasion: a gathering of knights to take solemn oaths and to partake of peacock. The beautiful bird was first skinned carefully, cooked, then skillfully restored — complete to its colorful, iridescent tail spread in a fan. The feet and beak had been gilded, and the bird, seven feet long, dressed in full feather, is ceremoniously carried to the table to be served surrounded by flowers and with flames shooting out of its beak. Each noble knight made his vow to the peacock to perform a deed of derring-do. If, after dining on his piece of peacock, the knight turned chicken and failed to fulfill his vow, then his goose was cooked.

For a truly special holiday drink try this hot coffee punch using freeze-dried coffee. The coffee blends with spices, ice cream and brandy for a taste combination that goes well with any occasion.

SPICY HOT COFFEE PUNCH

- 3 pints vanilla ice cream, softened
- ½ cup plus 2 tablespoons freeze-dried coffee
- ½ cup water
- ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 teaspoons cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/8 teaspoon ground cloves
- 2 quarts boiling water
- ½ cup brandy

Pack ice cream into a 6 cup ring mold. Freeze until firm, about 2 hours. In small saucepan, combine freeze-dried coffee, water, brown sugar, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves; stir over medium heat until sugar dissolves. Pour coffee mixture into 5 quart heat-proof punch bowl. Gradually stir in boiling water and brandy. Unmold ice cream and float on top. Makes 16 four-ounce servings.

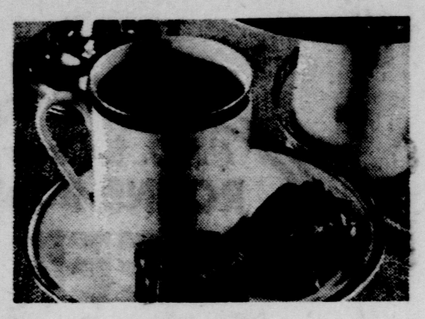
This unusually fragrant, flavorful loaf is sure to win raves from every nutbread fancier, especially those who love the bright tang of oranges and the mellow flavor of crispy walnuts.

WALNUT ORANGE BREAD

3 cups sifted all-purpose flour
¾ cup granulated sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg, lightly beaten
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
1 cup milk
½ cup orange juice
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
1 cup chopped walnuts

Resift flour with sugar, baking powder, soda and salt. Add egg, melted butter or margarine, milk, orange juice and peel to the dry mixture. Stir just until all of flour mixture is moistened. Stir in walnuts. Turn into greased 9 by 5 by 3-inch loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for about 1 hour and 10 minutes or until bread tests done. Let stand 10 minutes; then turn out onto wire rack to cool. Makes 1 loaf.



Homespun Skillet Fudge

Uncommon ingredients for fudge

Everyone's grown up with fudge, so every candy lover (and isn't that everyone?) is an expert. Judge this fudge and you'll say it's fantastic.

Homespun Skillet Fudge is different enough from the ordinary to make it appealing. It calls for ingredients that are not found in the usual fudge varieties. A bit of cinnamon added to the chocolate chips provides a little kick, offering emphasis without proclaiming its presence. And oats, the surprise ingredient, serves as a replacement for nuts. Only a half cup of chopped nuts is needed in the recipe.

Homespun Skillet Fudge

3 cups sugar
1 can (13 ounces) evaporated milk
¼ cup butter
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup miniature marshmallows
2 cups (12 ounces) chocolate chips
1 cup quick cooking oats
½ cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup flaked coconut

Combine sugar, evaporated milk, butter, cinnamon and salt in an electric skillet. Bring to a boil over medium heat (250 degrees F.) Boil for seven minutes, stirring constantly. Turn heat off. Blend in remaining ingredients, stirring verywell. Pour into buttered 13 x 9-inch pan. Chill and cut into squares. Makes 3¼ pounds.

taken shots and diet pills in unsuccessful attempts to shed weight.

The women were instructed to keep a food diary listing what they ate, when and how much, to give them some awareness of what they were eating.

THEY WERE TOLD not to watch television, or listen to the radio or stereo during mealtimes, but to eat in one place and do nothing but eat.

"People watch Walter Cronkite come on the tube, and boom, they start eating," Chapman said.

The project participants were encouraged not to eat "junk foods" by keeping low calorie foods in conspicious places. If ice cream was purchased for the children, "we would tell the mothers to lock up the freezer and give the kids a key," Chapman said.

"WE TALKED about emotions and how a lot of people eat in response to emotions. When people are bored and have nothing to do, that's when they eat. And that's when they should take a walk, go to a movie, do anything as an alternative to eating."

Other topics included in the classes were preplanning meals, exercise, disposal of leftovers and eating slower, with intentional delays in the middle of a meal.

"People tend not to feel satiated after eating for at least 20 minutes," Chapman said. "The longer a meal is dragged out, the less likely one is to over-eat."

The women also were encouraged to use smaller plates and shallower bowls.

Female talks of life at Air Force Academy

by PATRICIA McCORMACK

At the Air Force Academy the pioneer women cadets, on the average, edged out the males in grades half way through the first semester.

The score: 2.72 for the women and 2.68 for the men, following a pattern set at the other service academies.

But the first gals to join the corps aren't about to razz the guys over the slight lead. Not at the Air Force Academy, at least.

Such a tactic might damage the spirit of the corps, to hear Cadet Carol Klasmeier, of Valley Stream, N.Y., tell it.

"You become very strong in your devotion to the academy and don't want to do anything to damage it," Klasmeier said in an interview while in New York with the Academy Drum and Bugle Corps

SHE CARRIES A flag with the corps — the closest thing to a musical connection for her right now at the academy. Next year, she hopes to move up to the glockenspiel.

Klasmeier would have tried to be a concert pianist if she hadn't made it to the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo. Her musical talents extend to the sax — which she played in jazz ensembles during high school.

Honor grades in high school helped Klasmeier make it in the Academy. Her other credentials included a yellow belt in karate and time spent on the track.

"I think what it takes to get into the academy is someone who is active and involved in many things," she said.

"Clubs and athletics. You don't need anything military. You need an open mind and good attitudes. If you're willing to accept a challenge and strive, you'll make it.

"I REALLY have very strong emotions about the school. I wouldn't give it up or trade.

"There are some things I don't like but those things won't keep me from reaching my goal."

One thing most of the women cadets abhor: the half-beret, half-pillbox felt hats designed especially for them.

"To be worn with the off-post uniform," Klasmeier said.

"We also think the cut of the trousers could be a little better."

What are the chances of changing these things?

"Well, if 157 of us write letters up the chain of command, we might be listened to," she said.

Among the pioneer women at service academies, those at the Air Force Academy have the best record on staying.

The attrition rate since last July is 7.01 per cent for the women there — compared to an attrition rate of 21 per cent at the United States Military Academy at West Point.

West Point has the biggest drop-out rate of any service school.

Klasmeier, who spent an orientation weekend t both academies, withdrew her application to West Point when accepted by the Air Force.

She said the Air Force Academy seemed, "in both attitude and preparation," better geared to accept women. Women at West Point have, in previous interviews, said the poor acceptance by some male cadets made their adjustment to the corps difficult.

"Oh, we go through being 'doolies,' all us fourth-class persons do," Klasmeier said.

"Doolie means slave. The upperclassmen keep us hopping, as is the tradition."

BUT NEW MALE freshmen get the same treatment and the girls don't feel the riding is directed at them because they are "women invading the bastion of masculinity."

Physical training in the summer, with its simulated battle conditions, obstacle and confidence courses, was stressful.

The cadets must dust their bedroom furniture every morning, wash the mirrors and brush the floor.

"Were you so neat at home," she was asked.

"I didn't have to dust the furniture every morning and shine shoes. But I think I was reasonably neat.

"I am extremely neat now."

Klasmeier hopes to make the Air Force her career. If an experimental program to train women pilots proves feasible, she would like to learn to fly.

It would be in the family tradition. Her dad, Capt. Leonard Klasmeier, recently retired after 34 years as a pilot, many of them with American Airlines.

"And my mother was a stewardess for five years," Klasmeier said.

Sometimes Klasmeier is asked if she would go into combat.

"Nobody wants to, but when I take my oath as an officer — to 'do my duty' — it means to do whatever is required."

Firm to build super truck stop for $50 million

ATLANTA (UPI) — If you were a truck driver approaching the end of a long day, how would you like to find in one place such services as lodging, food, fuel, repairs, warehousing, refrigerated storage, air freight transfer, loading and unloading, relief drivers, banking and shopping, and even swimming and bowling?

That's what Transport City says it will offer truck drivers. It is a $50 million super service center being constructed in two phases on the edge of bustling Atlanta.

Developer Ralph Hutchison describes it as a large complex of services tailored to meet every need of the giant trucking industry and reduce costs by saving multiple stops for repair-maintenance, lodging and other necessities.

HE CALLED IT the first of many future such complexes which, he said, will end the second-or third-rate treatment truckers have been subjected to.

A construction contract for the $12 million first phase of Transport City has been signed. Work on the project is expected to get under way immediately, with completion scheduled for next summer.

The complex is a 280-acre tract off Atlanta's Moreland Ave., which long has served as a sort of truckers' row. It is just south of Interstate 285 which circles Atlanta and provides access to all major highways.

Phase Two of the project calls for the development of an industrial park surrounding the service center at an estimated cost of $38 million when completed in 1979. Some of the industrial tracts surrounding the center already have been sold to trucking-related businesses, Hutchison said.

"TRANSPORT CITY IS the first major construction project to get under way in the Atlanta area since the onset of the devastating real estate downturn," Hutchison said.

Hutchison calls Transport City "a new concept for providing full vehicular, personal and business services for the trucking industry, with the primary objective of reducing over-the-road costs. Transport City, by having all the necessary services and facilities in one location, will help increase the operating profits of the trucking firm through less time lost in transit, less time lost in between loads and less time for repair and maintenance."

The first phase of construction will include: vehicle services — fueling, maintenance and repairs, and parts; personal services — food and lodging, recreation, banking, shops, auto rentals and relief drivers; and business services — truck leasing and sales, warehousing, refrigerated storage, communications, central billing and legal services.

IN ADDITION TO other services, Hutchison said Transport City will provide 24-hour security for vehicles, with uniformed and armed guards.

He said there is a strong interest in development of Transport City-type centers in other areas, with planning for two other similar operations in the south already underway. "Five major areas are under active consideration for expansion of this concept from Atlanta's first model center," he said.

Approval of the new center's 20-million-gallons-a-year fuel allotment by the Federal Energy Office shows how important such an operation is to the trucking industry, Hutchison said.

He said nationwide truck registrations have climbed from less than 10 million in 1955 to nearly 25 million in 1975, with truck traffic and freight shipments growing more than 15 per cent over the past two years.
